AL SMITH WINS BAY STATE

HOUSE REPORT URGES SAVING OF 200 MILLION

Liken Soldier Relief to Black Cloud.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.]—On the eve of the great battle between the federal bureaucracy and the taxpayers over the 200 million dollar economy program that will begin in the house tomorrow, the special economy committee submitted a report tonight containing an arresting survey of governmental extravagance.

"Whereas during the war period and the decade subsequent," says the report, "this country experienced an era of increasing prosperity and swelling national wealth, we are now confronted with industrial stagnation, unemployment and a period of low commodity prices, and dwindling if not disappearing national income.

"Moreover, during the year, 1931, the total costs of federal, state, county and municipal governments is reflected in all manufactured articles to the extent of approximately 47 per cent of the cost of producing them. This general situation existing in the country impressed upon the committee the imperative necessity of recommending strict economies with respect to which the committee, within the limited time at its disposal, could take intelligent action."

Soldier Relief a "Black Cloud."

In discussing the curtailment of benefits to world war veterans proposed in the omnibus economy bill the committee says that the cost of soldier relief "hangs over the future of the country like a black cloud, for under existing laws and assuming there will be no additional benefits granted, the cost of veterans relief ten years hence will substantially exceed $1,300,000,000 annually."

Another item of economy news was the announcement by Representative Joseph J. Mansfield [Dem., Tex.], chairman of the house rivers and harbors committee, that in the interest of economy there will be no omnibus bill authorizing new waterway developments presented at this session. Lest the pork barrel contingent take undue alarm, however, he added that the bill will be ready at the December session for passage before the holidays. By that time the presidential election will be over and the necessity of making an economy showing will not be so pressing.

Detail of Proposed Savings.

The economy committee's report gave the following estimates of the savings expected from the omnibus economy bill:

Reduction of pay of government employés	$ 67,000,000
Consolidation of war and navy departments, no less than	50,000,000
Limitation of veterans' benefits	48,714,000
Suspension of Saturday half holiday	9,000,000
Elimination of overtime pay	5,000,000
Abolition or reduction of Philippine scouts	5,000,000
Restriction of transfer of army and navy personnel	3,368,000
Enforced retirement of superannuated civilian personnel	3,000,000
Reduction of railway mail clerks' subsistence allowance from $3 to $2 a day	3,000,000
Reorganization of shipping board	2,500,000
Suspension of automatic pay increases	2,100,000
Abolition of army, navy and Panama transport services	1,500,000
Reduction of congressional mileage allowance	56,500
Total	$200,238,500

This aggregate estimated saving would be increased if the economy resulting from consolidation of the war and navy departments should exceed 50 millions. The committee estimated this saving at from 50 to 100 millions.

Cut in Veterans' Benefits.

Of the amount to be saved by restricting veterans' benefits $13,315,000 will be due to removal from the rolls of 22,300 persons who have incomes of $1,500 if single and $2,500 if married. There are more than one million now receiving benefits.

"Having in mind," says the report, "the tremendous drain on the treasury resulting from expenditures on behalf of veterans, which has amounted up to the present time to approximately 15 billion dollars and which will continue to require annually in the future appropriations of approximately one billion dollars, or more, and the additional need, which undoubtedly will be presented on behalf of veterans and their dependents in the future increasing these expenditures, it was felt only fair that any person whose income was equal to or above the amount specified should be excluded from benefits."

In discussing the proposed 11 per cent pay reduction the report lists the following cities which have reduced

LAWYER CRIES RAPE DOES NOT JUSTIFY SLAYING

Both Sides Begin Final Arguments.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

HONOLULU, April 26.—The Fortescue-Massie second degree murder case will go to the jury tomorrow night, according to the outlook at adjournment today. Clarence Darrow, chief of defense counsel, will close the defense tomorrow morning and Prosecutor John C. Kelley will then make the final arguments for the territory of Hawaii.

Darrow today said that he is not going to "address the jury" but will "just talk to them."

The fate of the four defendants, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, her son-in-law, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, U. S. N., and the two naval enlisted men, Albert O. Jones and E. J. Lord, and the fate of the naval cause seems to rest largely on the huge, bent shoulders of the Chicago lawyer who, while somewhat feeble, seems to possess renewed vigor as a result of this dramatic courtroom battle.

Wants Massies Vindicated.

He has a great desire to have the Massies vindicated in the eyes of the world, although he is none too sure the jury will come through with this verdict.

The situation changed but little as a result of arguments in today's session. Barry S. Ulrich, assistant prosecutor, made a forceful plea for conviction in which he called on the jury to return a verdict of guilty to demonstrate to the world that Hawaii is able to maintain law and order. He said that consequences of a grave political and economic nature will hinge upon the action of the jury.

Ulrich ridiculed the idea that Massie was insane at the time Joseph Kahahawai was slain and said that any one would be justified today in thinking that Kahahawai is innocent of the rape of Mrs. Massie. He declared the defendants with the exception of the naval officer practically pleaded guilty and that criminal intent was shown in all their acts.

Defense Lawyer Talks.

George S. Leisure of New York, Darrow's associate, followed Ulrich in addressing the jury. He argued that the evidence had proved insanity and said that Kahahawai brought death to himself when he assaulted the wife of the lieutenant just as surely as if he had jumped from a tower. He had broken God's law, he said, and, to prove his point, quoted Mosaic laws stating that death shall be meted out to a man caught ravishing a maiden in the fields.

Leisure insisted that the defense makes no plea of an unwritten law, but does make a plea of insanity. He declared that statutory law as old as history has taken account of the factor that men's minds may be driven to the breaking point, and said that men have not been held responsible in hundreds of similar cases in many places.

"Hawaii is not to blame," he said, "nor is this a matter of public policy, but a simple case of justice for individuals."

Military Men Present.

The army and navy benches, as well as seats reserved for the legal fraternity, were crowded as the summations began in the trial which has cut so deeply into the social and political fortunes of Honolulu and placed the navy in a position of opposition to the present form of government.

Most of the spectators had sat up all night and battled mosquitoes to be sure of seats. There were many white women in the room.

In the front row sat Joseph Kahahawai, father of the slain Hawaiian. Mrs. Esther Anito sat by the elder Kahahawai, from whom she is divorced. The two were seated in the same row with the four persons accused of killing their son.

Ulrich Asks Conviction.

Ulrich, Harvard man, is a tall, slender, gray haired figure, and polished, with somewhat of a theatrical manner. He is reputed to be one of the cleverest lawyers in the islands. Ulrich is a native of Chicago and also lived in Springfield, Ill. He held the attention of the jury from the start.

"The territory of Hawaii is facing the most critical time in its history," he began. "The whole judicial sys-

House Balks at Quitting; Rum Charges Fly

Springfield, Ill., April 26.—(AP)—The house tonight defeated a bill to give the Chicago school board the power to issue bonds without a referendum vote to pay overdue salaries to school teachers and other employés.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 26.—[Special.]—In a night session of the house of representatives the Illinois general assembly refused to go into a sine die adjournment of its special sessions, which have been dragging along since last November.

There are three concurrent special sessions, and the test vote came on a motion to end the first of these. On that motion the vote was 65 to 45. During the debate there were references to drinking, said never to have been heard on the Springfield floor before.

"If the gentlemen didn't imbibe so much," was one of the remarks tossed off during the debate.

"And I'm sober, too," said another member just a few minutes later as his contribution to the repartee.

Fix Tax Penalty Date as June 1.

These were the white lights of a long evening session, the net result of which was enactment of the revised bill changing the tax penalty date for Cook county to June 1. That date had been agreed upon at a conference of leaders of both houses earlier in the day.

After getting the delinquency date bill started on its way to the senate, the house turned its attention to Representative Ralph Church's bill for reducing the Chicago sanitary district board from nine to three members.

Measure Again Defeated.

"Many hundreds of thousands of dollars would be saved the taxpayers whose money has been wasted so extravagantly in the past by the Chicago sanitary district," Representative Church said. "The adoption of the bill I have submitted also would force the district board to conduct its affairs efficiently."

However, Representative Church met with determined opposition from both sides of the house, and, for the second time within two weeks, the bill was defeated. The measure lost today by a vote of 56 ayes and 48 nays. It required 77 affirmative votes to pass the house.

Bill to Tax Beer Introduced.

Earlier in the day Representative Church introduced two bills designed to place Illinois in the position of levying a tax on the sale of malt, wort, malt sirup and malt extract, beer and wine. Both bills were advanced to second reading, but with sine die adjournment so near, there is little possibility of them being voted upon.

The first of Representative Church's two bills would levy a tax of four cents a quart on beer; six cents a quart on wine; five cents a gallon on liquid malt or wort, and five cents per pound on malt sirup and malt extract. The second bill would amend the Illinois prohibition law so as to permit the sale of such beer and wine in Illinois whenever it is not in violation of the federal laws.

The total estimated revenue from the proposed taxes is $28,058,000 a year, Representative Church said.

The house recessed late tonight to meet tomorrow. The session probably will last until next week. The senate is expected to be in session until tomorrow midnight.

Suit Accuses Wife of Baby Substitution

Philadelphia, Pa., April 26.—(AP)—Fantastic details of a baby substitution allegedly perpetrated by a wealthy and childless married woman to collect an inheritance came to light today in an equity action filed in court.

Euston A. Sullivan of Merion filed a petition to strike from the vital statistics of the state the record of the birth to his wife, Grace May Sullivan, on Oct. 12, 1931, at St. Vincent's hospital, Philadelphia. His petition denied that he was the father of the six months old girl or that his wife, Helen Blair Sullivan, was the mother.

He declared the baby is the child of Miss Edith Crebbe, a Detroit nurse, who was arrested at Downington, Pa., last week in connection with the Lindbergh kidnaping, but subsequently absolved in that case.

Sullivan declared his wife, representing herself as Mrs. Gerald E. Hardy, visited Miss Crebbe in the hospital and conspired with her to represent the baby as that of Mrs. Sullivan.

This was accomplished, it is alleged, by informing hospital authorities that Miss Crebbe in reality was the wife of Euston Sullivan and displaying the real Mrs. Sullivan's marriage certificate. The baby was registered as Grace May Sullivan.

Later Miss Crebbe refused to relinquish her baby to Mrs. Sullivan, the petition declares, but another unmarried mother turned over her baby.

Charges Paid Publicity Sent Stocks Rising

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.]—Appearing at his own request before the senate banking committee, Representative F. H. La Guardia [Rep., N. Y.] today charged that high pressure publicity methods and even bribery are utilized to manipulate prices up or down on the New York Stock exchange.

F. H. LA GUARDIA.

The fiery, black haired and stocky radical Republican leader of the bipartisan "soak the rich" majority in the house which defeated the sales tax told the committee that he had proof that in many cases the managers of stock market pools had hired high priced publicity men to "rig" the market by circulating misleading information regarding the value of securities.

Charges Payments to Writers.

In many instances, according to La Guardia's charges, these high powered publicity men paid money to financial writers of leading New York newspapers to get them to print favorable ballyhoo publicity regarding stock issues which pool operators or brokers desired inflated. One high pressure publicity man paid out $286,000 in checks and cash to financial news reporters over a seven or eight year period, Mr. La Guardia said.

Still smarting from the lambasting he received from all sections of the country and especially the financial marts following his successful "soak the rich" campaign in the house, the New Yorker asserted that brokerage houses used "ballyhoo methods" and sent out misleading statements in order to promote stock purchases. In some cases he said extracts from newspaper articles inspired by high powered publicity methods were included by brokers in letters to customers.

High Pressure Methods.

Five pools in which stocks were manipulated, according to La Guardia, were cited by the New Yorker to back up his assertions. He said that high pressure methods had been utilized in the handling of pools in Indian Motorcycle stock, Savage Arms, Maxwell Motors, Pure Oil, Simms Petroleum, and Superior Oil. In all instances except the Indian Motorcycle stock, the pools operated back in 1924 and 1925.

Mr. La Guardia named A. Newton Plummer as the high pressure publicity man who had distributed $286,000 among newspaper men. This man, he said, operated under the title of publicity counsel and sometimes under the name of the Institute of Economic Research. According to Mr. La Guardia, Plummer operated for fifteen years around Wall street, then decided to write a book entitled "The Great American Swindle."

Plummer Under Indictment.

Asked what he was doing at present, Mr. La Guardia said Plummer was under indictment for forging securities but had not been tried. Plummer, it appeared from the New York radical Republican's testimony, had rushed to him with his canceled checks and records shortly after being indicted. It was upon these checks and records, unsupported by corroborative evidence, that La Guardia based his contentions that newspaper writers had accepted payments for writing news stories in their financial columns.

The financial writers mentioned by the voluntary witness were Charles F. Murphy of the New York Evening Mail, J. F. Lowther of the New York Herald-Tribune, William J. Gomber with Financial America, Richard Edmondson with the Wall Street Journal, William White of the New York Evening Post, and W. F. Wamsley of the

ROOSEVELT HAS SMALL LEAD IN PENNSYLVANIA

Massachusetts Vote to Ex-Governor.

Former Governor Alfred E. Smith won a decided victory over Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt in the primary election in Massachusetts. Incomplete returns indicated that he would have all the state's 36 votes in the Democratic national convention.

Smith ran much better than expected in the Pennsylvania primary. Incomplete returns showed him trailing Gov. Roosevelt by fewer than 1,800 votes. His candidates for delegates running ahead in Philadelphia and in the coal regions in and around Scranton and Wilkesbarre.

In the Republican primary in Pennsylvania Senator James J. Davis was leading Gen. Smedley D. Butler by nearly 3 to 1 for the nomination for senator.

In the contest for the Republican nomination for representative in the 15th district Representative Louis T. McFadden was in the lead over Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, wife of the governor.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 27.—[Special.]—[Wednesday.]—A presidential preferential contest between Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York and former Gov. Alfred E. Smith much closer than observers had expected, was indicated early today in incomplete returns from yesterday's primary election in Pennsylvania.

Roosevelt	27,969

Many of these districts are from Philadelphia, a Smith stronghold.

Although delegate candidates favoring the nomination of Gov. Roosevelt were unopposed in about half of the districts, the showing made by Mr. Smith in Philadelphia and the anthracite coal regions was so impressive that Smith supporters expressed jubilation. On the other hand, Roosevelt backers said they were well satisfied with the result outside of Philadelphia and the coal regions.

Leaders Are Puzzled.

The closeness of the contest as the returns came in slowly caused leaders of both sides to toy with the idea of what would happen should the final tabulations give Mr. Smith the edge in the popular voting. Most of the delegate candidates favoring Gov. Roosevelt have promised to support the popular choice at the primary. But there is nothing to compel them to do so.

Mr. Smith's great strength was concentrated in Philadelphia where 14 district delegates were elected; in the anthracite coal regions, where eight were elected, and in Allegheny county [Pittsburgh], where ten were chosen.

Roosevelt leaders, on the face of the incomplete returns, admitted that all of the eight votes in the anthracite region might go to Smith. The governor's campaign directors claimed at least six of the ten delegates in Allegheny county and a part of the Philadelphia delegates.

Trail in Early Returns.

Interest in the delegate fight was focused upon John R. Collins, Democratic state chairman; Sedgwick Kistler, national committeeman; Roland S. Morris, former ambassador to Japan and Judge Henry C. Niles of York, all classed by supporters of the governor as leaders of the "stop Roosevelt" movement.

All refused the invitation of the Roosevelt-for-President league to abide by the outcome of the preferential voting and consequently were opposed by candidates of the league. Both Kistler and Morris were trailing in the incomplete returns and the vote on the other places was close.

Renomination of Senator James J. Davis for the senate on the Republican ticket over Maj.-Gen. Smedley D. Butler was apparently assured. The senator, running on a wet platform with the backing of the Vare organization and the Republican state organization got off to a flying start and his big Philadelphia lead added to an advantage in Allegheny county, which the Butler forces had refused to concede before the election placed him well in front.

Organization leaders, who produced a vote that surprised Gen. Butler's friends in districts that had been claimed for him by a good margin, stuck by their original estimate that Davis would defeat Butler in Philadelphia by 250,000 votes and that his victory, even counting the upstate returns, would be an easy one.

Davis 152,210

Of almost equal importance, however, was the fight in the 15th congressional district between Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, the governor's wife, and Representative Louis T. McFadden for the Republican congressional nomination.

McFadden Is Renominated.

Mr. McFadden, severe critic of President Hoover, whom he charged with "selling out" to Germany in connection with the moratorium of last summer, was increasing an early lead over Mrs. Pinchot and was claiming victory. His vote in his home district was the largest he ever had received there. Returns from 79 out of 312 precincts gave:

McFaden 6,944
Mrs. Pinchot 5,754

Gov. Pinchot, according to the incomplete returns, was unsuccessful in his attempt to elect sufficient members either to establish his control over the Republican state committee or over the legislature. Results of several national convention delegate fights in districts where the governor sponsored candidates opposed to President Hoover remained in doubt.

Smith Captures 36 Delegates.

Boston, Mass., April 26.—[Special.]—Massachusetts will cast its full complement of 36 delegate votes for ex-Gov. Alfred E. Smith for the presidential nomination at the Democratic national convention at Chicago.

Riding on a wave of Smith sentiment, the candidates for places as delegates pledged to him apparently had been swept to victory over their rivals, pledged to Gov. F. D. Roosevelt, on the basis of returns available at midnight.

Triumph Is Complete.

The Smith triumph was so complete as to have deprived Mayor James M. Curley of Boston, the Roosevelt campaign leader, of a place on the delegation.

The only uncertain outcome in the Democratic primary was in the 15th district. Nevertheless available returns indicated that Patrick M. Doyle of New Bedford and Thomas H. Buckley of Abington, Smith candidates, were running slightly ahead of John H. Backus Jr. and Representative Arthur Goulart, both of New Bedford. The outcome of that contest will determine whether it will be a complete Smith sweep or that one or two votes will be yielded to Gov. Roosevelt.

The Smith triumph in the delegation at large, with Senator Walsh closely pressed for the leadership in votes by Gov. Ely, apparently is destined to win by a margin approaching 3 to 1.

David I. Walsh, U. S. senator, led the Smith group with 71,649 votes against 25,638 for Mayor James M. Curley of Boston, leader of the Roosevelt forces.

The Smith slate was victorious in the outlying communities as well as in the cities. The Smith supporters had voted their ballots so solidly as to elect a full slate of 12 delegates at large, thus blasting Mayor Curley's hopes of breaking through.

No Balm for Mayor Curley.

There was no balm for the mayor from any angle. He even went down to defeat in Boston, where the Smith tide was not quite so relentless as it was in such strongholds as Springfield, Worcester and Lynn. In those sections the Smith candidates piled up overwhelming leads.

So thorough was the Smith support that Mrs. Mary L. Bacigalupo of Boston, the low candidate on the Smith ticket, had rolled a lead of more than 2 to 1 on Curley, the high man on the Roosevelt slate.

The mayor was closely pressed for high honors on his side by James Roosevelt, son of the presidential candidate. Young Roosevelt maintained a narrow margin of leadership over the mayor until the returns from the Boston wards resulted in an exchange of places between them.

Roosevelt Loses Every City.

It was evident from the returns that the Democrats had made up their minds to demonstrate to the country that they will retain confidence in their candidate of 1928. Not a single city did the Roosevelt slate carry and the margins of supremacy for their rivals ranged from a slight leadership in Newburyport to so great a margin as 10 to 1 in Springfield. Cities like Lynn and Lowell went for Smith by margins of 5 to 1.

In the Republican presidential primary President Hoover appeared to be certain of having polled an aggregate of 33 pledged delegates with the 34th not hostile to his renomination.

The only real contest in the Republican primary resulted in giving places to Mayor Sinclair Weeks of Newton and Representative Albert F. Bigelow of Brookline by a substantial margin over Representative Clarence S. Lutitweiler of Newton and Prof. Thomas Nixon Carver of Cambridge in the 9th congressional district. This represented a distinct triumph for the wet faction of the party over its dry rivals.

Smith "Very Happy," He Says.

New York, April 27.—[Wednesday.]—(AP)—On the basis of a Boston Post estimate that he had carried Massachusetts three to one in the primary balloting for Democratic national convention delegates, Alfred E. Smith early today issued the following statement:

"The figures as revealed by the Post naturally make me feel very happy and full of gratitude to all my friends in faithful Massachusetts. Tomorrow I will endeavor more adequately to express my appreciation."

BAN ON PARKING TO COST DRIVERS 30 MILLION YEAR

Many Motorists Cannot Afford Storage Rates.

BY HAL FOUST.

The enforcement of the all night parking ban, as favored by David [Cockeyed Mulligan] Ablin, hoodlum, politician and organizer for a garage association, will cost an estimated 30 million dollars a year to the 200,000 or 250,000 Chicago motorists who are now leaving their cars at the curb in front of their homes at night.

DAVID ABLIN.

"This depression," said H. A. Wehmeier, vice president of the Chicago Auto Trade association, "is no time to increase the expense of car ownership for the fellow who can't afford a garage. Any campaign of arrests will reduce automobile sales in the low price range, and it will force a lot of present owners to give up their machines.

Average Cost $15 a Month.

"The average monthly storage rate in Chicago garages, I imagine, is $15 a month. This is $210 a year, a pretty stiff expense when applied against some old car that isn't worth more than a couple of hundred dollars.

"I'm not knocking the garage business. I believe everyone who can afford it should store his car at night under cover, safe from thefts and avoiding the deteriorating effects of the weather. But the expense of garage storage should not be compulsory."

Si Mayer, former secretary of police and now president of the Automobile club of Illinois, said he favored enforcement of the all night parking ban. He advocated that vacant lots in residential neighborhoods be used for storing cars of those who can't afford garages.

Causes Higher Theft Rates.

"Cars and parts stolen last year in Chicago were valued at $6,000,000," he said. "The thieves have become so active that automobile theft insurance rates were raised ninety days ago, fifty per cent on small cars and thirty-five per cent on large cars. Unless the thefts are stopped, there will be another increase.

"There are a lot of unemployed men who could be engaged to guard automobiles parked all night on vacant lots for ten or fifteen cents a night for each auto. I made this suggestion to one fellow and he has opened a lot on the northwest side with sixty-five cars paying him ten cents a night."

Reveals Defects in Law.

Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, declined to express his views on the all night parking ordinance. However, Joseph H. Braun, his chief counsel, remarked that the constitutionality of the ordinance has never been tested and that a study of the law reveals certain defects that may cause it to be held invalid.

The ordinance, passed last June, prohibits parking for longer than 30 minutes between 2 and 6 a. m. Attorney Braun pointed out that it fails to allow for necessary exception to this ban, such as physicians' cars. Meanwhile Police Commissioner Allman is having thousands of arrest tickets printed preparatory to a drive against all night parking to be started within a few weeks.

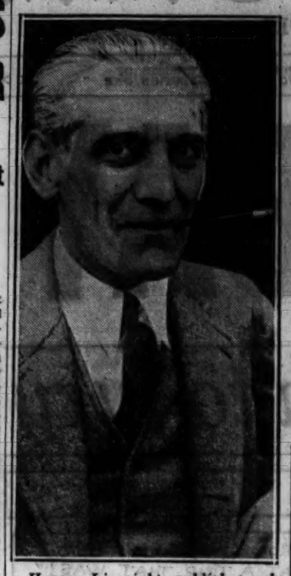
In Traffic court yesterday, 1,237 motorists were arraigned in the police drive against car owners who fail to display state license plates and city vehicle tax stickers.

OFFICIAL QUIZZED ON GAS COST FOR HOUSE HEATING

Extensive questioning of Frank L. Griffith, assistant secretary of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, concerning the average cost at Joliet and Chicago of natural gas for various uses marked yesterday's hearing on the gas rates case before the Illinois commerce commission.

Under cross-examination by Assistant Corporation Counsel Joseph L. Grossman, Griffith admitted that a radiation charge contained in the first temporary schedule of rates for house heating by gas had been abolished by the company. Grossman was endeavoring to show that certain classes of customers are furnished gas at less than cost.

ACTRESS SEEKS DIVORCE



Horace Liveright, publisher, who is said to have made a financial settlement out of court of wife's divorce suit.

Mrs. Horace Liveright, known on stage as Elsie Bartlett, seeks separation from publisher after being married less than five months. She was formerly the wife of Joseph Schildkraut.

Wed Only 5 Months

New York, April 26.—(AP)—The Horace Liverights, married less than five months, have separated, and Mrs. Liveright, known on the stage as Elsie Bartlett, has started suit for divorce.

Her counsel announced today that a financial settlement had been made out of court. The co-respondent in the divorce action, the lawyer said, is not named.

Liveright, well known publisher, made no statement.

The marriage was the second for both, Liveright having been divorced in 1928, at which time Mrs. Lucille Liveright was given the custody of their two children. Miss Bartlett formerly was the wife of Joseph Schildkraut, the actor.

BRITAIN CHARGES IRELAND AIMS TO REPUDIATE PACT

Says Oath Bill Only a Small Matter.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 26.—J. H. Thomas, secretary for dominions, told the house of commons today that a close study of President Eamon de Valera's bill to abolish the oath to the king had revealed that it amounted to repudiation by the Irish Free State of the treaty of 1921, under which Ireland accepted dominion status in the British empire.

J. H. THOMAS. [A. P. Photo.]

Would Abolish Part of Pact.

"The text of the bill," Thomas said, "shows that it is designed to go further. It purports to repeal section 2 of the Irish Free State constituent act of 1922, which provides that the treaty shall have the force of law and that any amendment of the constitution in any respect repugnant to the treaty shall be void and inoperative.

"It also purports by amendment to article 50 of the constitution to enable the constitution to be amended without necessary regard to the terms of the treaty."

When asked whether, in view of his "grave statement," he is able to announce the next move, Thomas replied:

"I have made clear, in behalf of the government, that we look upon this matter as a violation of the treaty. We have intimated that fact to Mr. de Valera in clear and emphatic terms."

Bill Comes Up Today.

He refused to comment further.

The Free State bill is scheduled to have its first real test tomorrow, when it comes up for second reading in the Dail Eireann at Dublin. The bill was passed on first reading a week ago. Former President Cosgrave's party has served notice that it will oppose the measure tomorrow. Whether the bill passes depends on the attitude of the Labor members, who hold the balance of power in the dail.

KILLS WIFE FOR BURGLAR.

Wichita, Kas., April 26.—(AP)—James S. Lyles, 42, shot and killed his wife, 30, at their home here early today. He said he mistook her for a burglar.

SAM HUNT GETS SOME SURPRISES IN HIS GUN CASE

There were some surprises for "Golf Bag" Sam Hunt yesterday when he appeared before Municipal Judge Thomas Green on a gun carrying charge. The first one occurred when his attorney, Tyrrell Richardson, asked a continuance. It was denied. Then Richardson asked a jury trial and was told there would be no delay, that a jury would be on hand this morning to try Hunt.

"Meanwhile he is committed to the county jail," said Judge Green, which was the third surprise. Attorney Richardson protested that bail of $1,000 had been furnished. If so, the bond had been mislaid, the court declared.

"But to make sure Hunt will be on hand for trial I'll increase the bail from $1,000 to $5,000," Judge Green informed the attorney.

Hunt, a Capone gangster who was arrested two years ago while carrying a sawed off shotgun in a golf bag, was arrested again two weeks ago by Lieut. William Cusack who found a revolver in his pocket. Hunt's younger brother, Joseph, is a co-defendant in the case.

BANDITS KNOCK DOWN VICTIMS AND ROB PLANT

Six armed robbers entered the office of the Chicago Beverage company at 3423 West 13th street last night and escaped with $800 and a $400 diamond ring.

Several of the company's truck drivers were outside the office when the bandits arrived. These were ordered inside. One driver, Louis Abrams, 1531 South Kolin avenue, was slow in obeying and was struck down. The band then took the money and the ring, which belonged to Max Rossovitz, manager, and started out.

On the way to the street they met Martin Wagner, 13 years old, 3921 West Jackson boulevard, son of one of the employés. He was knocked down when he failed to move out of the way quickly enough.

LAST 4 JURORS ARE CHOSEN TO TRY SERRITELLA

Prosecutor Keele Will Open Case Today.

The four jurors needed to complete the jury were chosen yesterday in the court of Judge James J. Kelly to try Daniel A. Serritella, former city sealer, and his chief deputy, Harry Hochstein, on charges of conspiracy. Serritella and Hochstein are accused of allowing merchants to defraud the public of a million dollars through short weight sales during the previous city administration.

HAROLD M. KEELE.

Assistant State's Attorney Harold M. Keele this morning will make the opening statement for the prosecution in the case, which has been pending for a year.

Selection of a jury was begun on Monday and eight jurors were chosen on that day. When the twelfth juror was accepted by both sides yesterday there was only one venireman left in the courtroom and the state had used all except one of the twenty peremptory challenges allowed. The defense used eight of its peremptory challenges.

Keele Quizzes Veniremen.

Through the day of questioning necessary to get the last four jurors, Prosecutor Keele devoted himself to quizzing veniremen as to whether they had been approached or questioned by outsiders about the case.

Defense attorneys were careful to determine whether prospective jurors were prejudiced against the former Republican city administration.

1,000 Witnesses, State Says.

Only a dozen witnesses are listed in the grand jury indictment but Prosecutor Keele said he has 1,000 witnesses available to support the mass of documentary evidence.

Serritella and Hochstein, if convicted, face a possible maximum sentence of one to five years in the penitentiary and fines of $200 each. The penalty is optional with the jurors who may fix a minimum punishment of one day in the county jail and a fine of $1.

Defense Attorney Benedict Short sought to force Prosecutor Keele to go ahead with his opening statement following the completion of the jury yesterday afternoon. Prosecutor Keele in arguing against Short's motion said that he might waive his statement. The court ruled, however, that the state might defer the statement until today, but it could not be waived.

The state investigators in gathering evidence for the trial declared that 33 per cent of the stores inspected were guilty of short weight sales. Only 230 complaints against short weight dealers reached court during 1930, according to the prosecution.

ROBBER AND WIFE CONFESS.

Charles H. Walters and his wife, Marie, both 25 years old, of Indianapolis, confessed yesterday that they robbed a Thompson restaurant at 220 South Clark street of $21 on April 17. Walters is on parole on a robbery charge in Indianapolis, the police said.

WILLYS TO RETIRE AS ENVOY, RESUME HIS AUTO BUSINESS

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.]—State department officials announced tonight that John N. Willys, ambassador to Poland, would submit his resignation tomorrow in order to return to his business interests in Toledo, O. Prior to the state department announcement Mr. Willys called on President Hoover. Later the ambassador told newspaper men he would resume leadership of his automobile interests. He was appointed ambassador to Poland in March, 1930.

LINDBERGH TRIP TO VIRGINIA NOT HELD IMPORTANT

Schoeffel Returns from Europe.

New York, April 26.—[Special.]—There was no official indication today of any definite trace of the 22 month old son of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who was kidnaped March 1.

There was one report, according to the Associated Press, that Col. Lindbergh had succeeded last week in making personal contact with the kidnapers, but police officials said "we have no information of this and know of no foundation for the story."

The report said that it was understood that Col. Lindbergh met the kidnapers in Virginia, that they were the same group that had received $50,000 from John F. Condon, the Bronx intermediary, and that the meeting took place during the colonel's absence from Hopewell, N. J., last Monday and Tuesday.

Maj. Charles H. Schoeffel, deputy superintendent of the New Jersey state police, returned on the North German Lloyd liner Columbus tonight from an extended trip abroad, but refused to discuss what he had learned about the case, if anything, while in Europe.

The official bulletins issued at Trenton were all negative. They showed that various tips had been checked, only to be found false. One was found to have come through a clairvoyant, another from a woman trying to work off a grudge on an enemy.

At Hopewell there seemed to be an increase in police activity, but its purpose was not disclosed.

TEAR GAS ROUTS 4 WOMEN, 3 MEN FROM BARRICADE

Tear bombs tossed into a frame house at 2124 West 57th street last evening routed two alleged hijackers, another man, three young women, and an elderly mother, and ended a fifteen minute police siege.

The alleged hijackers are William Pawlawski, 28 years old, and his brother, Charles, 31. The third man seized is Vincent Doujuialsky, 21, of 5200 South Morgan street. With them were Helen Pawlawski, 23, sister of William and Charles; Helen Janek, 20, of 1122 North Winchester avenue, and Sally La Vine, 21, of 4607 South Talman avenue.

Shortly before 7 o'clock Lieut. James Kerr and his squad drove up to the Pawlawski home to arrest the brothers on federal warrants alleging hijacking of interstate shipments. The brothers ran into the house as the police arrived. Lieut. Kerr ordered them to come out and when they refused he summoned help. Five bureau squads surrounded the house, tossed in two tear bombs and a few moments later the occupants ran out, hands up.

The 65 year old mother of the Pawlawskis came out swinging a hammer, but was disarmed. Police left her home but took the others to the detective bureau. Police charge the Pawlawski brothers specialized in many hijacking ventures, booze included. In their home they found more than 40 gallons of alcohol.

IT'S HUNTING SEASON NOW IN LINCOLN PARK

Many Kinds Fair Game for Field Glasses.

Along with the first forsythia in bloom and the opening hyacinths, have come the annual spring crop of Lincoln park bird hunters. These are men and women who skulk about the shrubs and trees of Lincoln park, usually armed with binoculars. You can see them crouching behind a lilac bush beginning to leaf, or with head tilted back, eyes on a movement in branches overhead.

"I don't know why it is, but many persons with a bent for watching birds and their habits are bashful about it and regard it rather as a weakness, apparently," said Alfred M. Bailey, director of the Chicago Academy of Sciences. "They don't like to be seen much. But any morning will find a dozen or so bird lovers, each hoping he'll be the only one out, in Lincoln park."

Counts 50 Kinds in a Day.

"And if they are professional, like Mr. Bailey here, they're apt to be very modest about it and tell you they know nothing about birds," said Fred S. Lodge, La Grange, who said he was an amateur. He was visiting Mr. Bailey at the academy, reporting his recent bird finds. On one day recently in the woods around La Grange he found more than 50 varieties of birds, he said.

The two men compiled a list of birds which may be found in the Chicago area, within a radius of from 30 to 40 miles, in May. It includes:

"A favorite time for bird enthusiasts is between 6 and 7 a. m., birds are up and around early," said Mr. Bailey. "This year we aren't continuing the parties we used to guide daily about 7 a. m. in search of birds, because of lower appropriations. We figure if they liked birds, they'd come anyway, and they have."

PRUSSIAN RULE TO QUIT MAY 24; FUTURE A PUZZLE

Hitler Banks on Catholic Party for Control.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ,
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 26.—The newly elected Prussian diet will convene on May 24, four days after the present diet expires.

"The Prussian cabinet will resign on the same day," Premier Otto Braun's government announced today. After the cabinet's resignation it will continue to carry on business until the new premier of Prussia is elected by the state's new parliament.

Chancellor Heinrich Bruening will return to Berlin at the end of the week to take a hand in the complicated negotiations between the parties seeking power in Germany's biggest state, Prussia. No definite decision as to a new alignment of the parties can be made until the middle of May at the earliest, when the Catholic Centrist party on which all decisions hinge, meets for a caucus in Berlin. Adolf Hitler's National Socialists [Fascists] are fighting hard to control the diet on the strength the Nazis displayed in Sunday's elections.

Accepts British Bid.

Germany today formally accepted the British invitation to a conference on reparations at Lausanne on June 16.

The reichstag, meanwhile, will convene on May 9 to approve a bill providing for a partial renewal of the amortization of the Lee Higginson & Co. loans and the Kreuger loans. The budget for 1932 will also be considered. Financial problems will be in the limelight in Germany in the next few weeks with the towns and states seeking funds to carry on their debt payments.

The state of Luebeck today announced it will be unable to redeem $1,250,000 worth of treasury certificates when they mature on July 1. The bourse immediately ordered the removal of the Luebeck obligations from the list of quoted securities to prevent a catastrophal drop. Luebeck has negotiated with the reich, but the latter is unable to promise full help.

Saxony Wants More Time.

Saxony is also negotiating for a prolongation of its $3,600,000 worth of treasury certificates issued in 1929. It will endeavor to induce part of its creditors to accept substitute certificates, paying cash to only a few creditors.

Brunswick, Frankfurt and Cologne are in a similar situation. Postal authorities are the only ones who have announced they will be able to redeem their certificates punctually on Aug. 1.

SEIZE SUSPECTS IN OHIO BLAST FATAL TO TEN

Two men, who have been sought by the police of Columbus, O., since an explosion in the new state office building there on April 14 killed ten persons and injured fifty-three, are under arrest in Chicago. Ohio authorities have forwarded extradition papers for them and the prisoners will decided today whether to waive or to fight the extradition.

The men held are Edward Wallace, 30 years old, said to be a safebreaker and a former convict, and Frank Wilson, 22 years old. They were taken into custody by Sergt. Frank Hayes of the Kensington police station last Thursday and have since been held incommunicado. The fact of their arrest and their alleged connection with the Columbus explosion came yesterday with the filing of a writ of habeas corpus in their behalf.

Ohio Asks Their Return.

When the writ was returned before Judge John Prystalski of the Criminal court he was informed that the governor of Ohio had requested their return to that state on a charge of stealing an automobile. The judge then said they would be given twenty-four hours, as is customary, to decide what they would do in the matter of a plea.

Wallace and Wilson admitted that they had stolen the car, according to the police, and offered to plead guilty in the federal courts to transporting it across a state line. They were quoted as saying, however, that they "didn't want to go back to Columbus, where there's a lot of heat."

When Sergt. Hayes arrested the two men he found in the automobile three pistols, an electric drill, six pounds of dynamite, and two acetylene torches. As police records on Wallace showed that he was a dynamite expert a query was sent to Columbus as to whether he was wanted there.

Employed on State Building.

The reply was that he was very much wanted, that he had been employed on the construction of the new state building, and had disappeared after the explosion. Some of the tools he had with him were later identified as having been stolen from the job.

Two detectives from Columbus came here to get the pair. To them Wallace admitted that he had been employed by the Healy Construction company, which dug the sewers for the state building, and that he had been discharged shortly before the blast.

He and Wilson declared that they were at a baseball game the afternoon the damage occurred. They denied they had anything to do with the theft of 300 pounds of explosives from a magazine at London, O., the day before the blast.

A third man was named in the same writ with them. He is Paul Kelkner, formerly of Columbus, and is wanted in the Ohio city as an automobile thief. There is said to be no possibility he was in the explosion plot, if there was one, as he was in the Bridewell here from Jan. 7 until Monday.

Cause of Blast in Doubt.

The Columbus authorities refused to disclose whether they had information that would connect either Wallace or Wilson more closely to the blast, which caused property damage estimated at about a million dollars.

In the early stages of the investigation of the explosion most of the experts declared the damage had not been caused by dynamite or any form of nitroglycerin. They were inclined to believe that gas, of the sewer variety, had accumulated in a sub-cellar and become ignited.

Wilbur Stout, Ohio state geologist, said yesterday there seemed to be no likelihood that marsh gas could have accumulated in the building under construction, as the state maps showed no swampy or marshy conditions nearby.

A clearer determination of the cause of the explosion is expected when the débris has been removed. The work of clearing this away has been delayed by a legal dispute as to who is to pay for it.

BATHING SUIT PHOTO STIRS NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY

MRS. DAHLBERG SUED FOR DRESS BILL OF FRIEND

While Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude was signing the divorce decree of Bror G. Dahlberg, head of the Celotex company, yesterday, his former wife, Mrs. Mary A. Dahlberg, was made defendant in a suit brought by Marguerite A. Farre, owner of a dress shop at 660 Rush street. The suit seeks to collect $1,417 on the account of Mrs. Elizabeth R. Woods of New York City, a friend whose purchases Mrs. Dahlberg guaranteed in writing during the months of January and February, 1931.

G. E. Q. JOHNSON INJURED IN AUTO CRASH AT MORRIS

United States District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson was shaken up and two other men riding in the same automobile were injured yesterday when their machine, sideswiped by another car, crashed into a cement wall at the intersection of State route No. 7 and Union street at Morris, Ill.

The federal prosecutor with Lieut. D. A. D. Ogden, an army engineer, and Attorney Clarence W. Beatty, was driving to Starved Rock to inspect the newly completed dam and pool of the Illinois waterway. At Morris the sedan of Ole Helgesom of that city collided with their car. Lieut. Ogden sustained a fractured ankle and Attorney Beatty was cut and bruised. Helgesom was not injured. Capt. F. E. Mondille of the army engineer corps brought the victims to Chicago.

A verdict of accidental death was returned by a coroner's jury at the inquest into the death of Frank Cuchna, newly elected town collector for Cicero, who was killed early yesterday when his car was struck by a Douglas Park elevated train at 60th court and 22d avenue, Cicero.

Testimony of a witness that he had heard a motor truck was involved in the automobile crash in which Miss Helen Williams, 24 years old, 5514 Blackstone avenue, and Miss Virginia Estep, 25 years old, 9827 Prospect avenue, lost their lives Monday evening, caued the inquest into the deaths to be continued to May 17.

Two automobile deaths in Cook county yesterday increased the automobile toll since Jan. 1 to 348. The victims:

Andrew Bilchik, 16 years old, 3530 South Kilbourn avenue. Died at St. Anthony's hospital from hurts sustained Sunday when the auto in which he was riding crashed into a light pole at Archer and South Kedzie avenues.

Fears Dismissal

The publicity department of the Northwestern university water circus, which is scheduled to be held on May 6 and 7, is so good that it may be dismissed from the university.

Yesterday the chief publicity man, Harold Green, sent out a picture of Co-ed Miriam Gault in a bathing suit and a pair of slippers. A little later Mr. Green sent out an appeal to withhold the photograph from wider circulation, as the university authorities had not given it an official approval and he was fearful of the consequences.

Mrs. Florence Robnett, dean of women at the university, said last night that she had not seen the photograph.

"It may be all right," she added, "but we have never yet approved of one of a girl in a bathing suit."

The publicity man's unauthorized masterpiece is little different with regard to clothing to the square inch from another photograph sent out from the university with faculty approval recently.

FRANK RITTER, BLIND STREET VIOLINIST, DIES

For 19 years Ritter had been a familiar figure with his violin at Michigan boulevard and Congress street. He was able to support himself with coins dropped into his tin cup until recently when he had to apply to the county for aid.

Ritter gained attention in 1925 when his guide and constant companion, Pocahontas, a terrier, was killed by a hit and run motorist. Sympathetic Chicagoans gave him more than $1,000 at that time.

BADLY IN NEED OF CASH, KREUGER BECAME FORGER

Probe Reveals Mystery of Treasury Bill Swindle.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

STOCKHOLM, April 26.—The mystery of the forged Italian treasury bills found in Ivar Kreuger's safe is now explained by Prof. Martin Fehr, an official investigator. It appears that Kreuger forged the bills to exchange them with the International Match corporation for a holding of $50,000,000 worth of German bonds in its possession.

Kreuger was then badly in need of money and visited the governor of the Riksbank with a view of raising a loan on the Boliden Gold Mine. He declared he owned shares in this company himself and the Riksbank agreed to lend him money against shares which were to be handed to the Riksbank as security.

Kreuger, however, had already parted with Boliden shares, having deposited them with the Skandinaviska Credit bank as security for a loan. To get them back he applied to the International Match corporation to have $50,000,000 held by the corporation in German bonds transferred to Stockholm.

Supplies Treasury Bills.

In exchange he undertook to supply Italian treasury bills of equivalent value. The corporation sent over the bonds and Kreuger took them to the Skandinaviska bank, whre he exchanged them for his Boliden shares. Walking across the street to the Riksbank, he deposited the Boliden shares with this bank and received in return 40,000,000 kroner.

At the moment the Skandinaviska bank holds the German bonds and the Riksbank the Boliden shares, but Kreuger never sent the Italian treasury bills to the International Match corporation in New York. He kept them in his safe. A lawsuit over this transaction is expected, as the International Match corporation is understood to be contemplating claiming the return of its German bonds.

It was announced today that the Swedish Match company had cut down its working days to three a week as stocks have been accumulating. Recently the working week was reduced from five days to four.

Loewenstein's Valet Is Suicide.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, April 26.—Mystery obscures the motive for the suicide just discovered here of Fred Baxter, who for eleven years was the English valet of the Belgian banker, Alfred Loewenstein, who jumped from his airplane into the English channel in 1928.

Baxter after his employer's death came to Paris, remaining in the service of Loewenstein's son, Robert, who has been living in Montparnasse. An excellent servant without known difficulties of any kind, Baxter on April 22 shot himself in the temple during his employer's absence.

According to Le Matin there has been an effort to prevent details from being published and Baxter's death only became known tonight.

Quoting a neighbor who had employed Baxter in odd jobs, the same newspaper says, "The only surmise of Baxter's desire to end his life is that he was familiar with the intimate details of the Loewenstein tragedy and might have become tired of knowing too much."

SOCIAL CENSOR PUTS ROOSEVELT ONE SEAT AWAY FROM HOOVER

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.]—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, leading candidate, so far as pledged delegates go, for the Democratic presidential nomination, will sit but one seat removed from President Hoover Thursday night when members of the governors' conference are entertained at the White House. Albert C. Ritchie, governor of Maryland, and also a presidential Democratic candidate, will have to be content with a position somewhat farther down the line.

Mrs. Roosevelt will sit at President Hoover's left. On his right will be Mrs. Norman S. Case, wife of the governor of Rhode Island. The New York governor will sit upon her right, one seat from Mr. Hoover.

The executive mansion's social authorities took considerable pains in drawing up the seating list for about twenty-five governors and their wives. As it stood today, Gov. Pollard, as host of the conference, will be given the seat of honor upon Mrs. Hoover's right, directly across from the President. Gov. Case, chairman of the conference's executive committee, will be on her left. Roosevelt, a member of the executive committee, was placed third in the ranking.

CORD DENOUNCES PATERNAL HABITS OF BUREAUCRACY

Demands U. S. Take Halter Off Business.

Governmental extravagance and governmental paternalism and bureaucracy—two economic maladies which are now generally accepted as causes of the business depression—were assailed yesterday by E. L. Cord, automobile and airplane manufacturer, who addressed a banquet meeting of the Illinois Manufacturers' Cost association at the Palmer house.

It is time, Mr. Cord said, that the public should understand the fallacy of the "popular pastime of gold-digging Uncle Sam."

The government must be told to let business run itself, and to quit trying to aid the cripples in business at the expense of capable and industrious workers, he declared.

Mr. Cord appealed for freedom for the young and active, forward looking business men to work out the country's destiny, and he spoke as one of them. He is president of the Cord corporation, which controls the Auburn Automobile company and holds major interests in the Aviation corporation. Mr. Cord believes in fighting the depression with action, an evidence of which may be found in the opening yesterday in Los Angeles of a new one million dollar Auburn-Cord building.

Protests U. S. Restrictions.

Protesting against the government in business policy, Mr. Cord told of increased agitation for governmental restriction of competition in the airplane business, resulting, he said, from the fact that air transportation was the only type of transportation to show a traffic increase in 1931. He continued:

"Can you imagine what America would be today had the automobile business about 1910 been placed under some governmental department or commission which would have prevented Henry Ford from making the numbers of cars at the prices he made them, because he was endangering the investments in livery stables, buggy and wagon factories, or would have said to General Motors: No, you cannot build the Chevrolet because that is Mr. Ford's field?

"In the last thirty years about 800 automobile manufacturers have passed out of existence. Hundreds of millions of dollars have been lost by investors in the stocks and bonds of these companies, but can any man today justify in any way the argument that it would have been for the benefit of the people of the United States to have had supervisory or regulatory legislation surrounding the automobile industry in order to have saved these millions lost in competition?

Many More Millions Made.

"For every million that was lost, many millions have been made by stockholders of the successfully competing companies; but all the millions that have been made by the automobile companies are pennies as compared to the millions that were given to other industries through the greater mobility of man, and are simply chicken feed as compared to the happiness, health and knowledge that has come to the American people through the widespread use of them."

Mr. Cord said he looked to the springing up of new industries to create new wealth, new employment, and the use of untold quantities of raw materials. We will have a big home building boom due to the use of steel construction, he declared.

But a cloud on the horizon, he said, is the extravagance of government. He pleaded for a united demand by all American industry upon congressmen and public officers to bring down public expenditures.

The Illinois Manufacturers' association yesterday sent a communication to all its members, urging them to telegraph their representatives in congress and demand a reduction of federal expenses.

ACCUSED OF THREE ROBBERIES.

George Serocke, 19 years old, of 1843 Oakdale avenue, who is alleged to have robbed the same man three times, was held to the grand jury yesterday in bonds of $60,000 by Judge J. William Brooks in the Boys' court. Joseph Gruedsin of 2461 Foster avenue testified that Serocke took $162 from him in three robberies.

salaries from 3 to 20 per cent: Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit, Los Angeles, Cleveland, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Minneapolis, Cincinnati, and Kansas City.

Further "Large" Saving.

The committee says it believes a "very large annual saving" will result from the reorganization of the administrative branch of the government which the bill authorizes the President to carry, but is unable to estimate the amount.

The committee confesses that its bill represents only a hasty and wholly inadequate attack upon the wastefulness and extravagance of bureaucratic government, pleading in extenuation that it lacked sufficient time to do a thorough job.

This is reminiscent of Speaker Jack Garner's remark that if the Hoover administration would lend real cooperation, 400 instead of only 200 millions could be saved.

The plea of lack of time is a commentary upon the failure of either the legislative or executive branch to awake to the necessity of radical retrenchment until a few weeks ago. More than a year ago the waste of more than 1 billion dollars a year was exposed by the press. Mr. Hoover, however, was not sufficiently impressed to call the new congress into extraordinary session. When congress met in December he failed to incorporate an economy program in his annual message.

Not until February when the popular demand for drastic economy was becoming irresistible did the Democratic house respond with the creation of the special economy committee. A few weeks later Mr. Hoover forged to the fore with the plan for an omnibus economy bill which with modifications and additions the committee accepted.

Bureaucracy Fighting Back.

To defeat even the meager measure of economy proposed by the committee bill the federal bureaucracy numbering 600,000 persons has brought to bear upon the house every ounce of its vast influence. The spear head of this powerful lobby is composed of the 70,000 government workers, who with their families constitute two-thirds of the population of Washington.

The struggle will begin tomorrow with the effort to defeat the special rule reported by the rules committee authorizing the attachment of the economy bill to the legislative appropriation bill now pending in the house and limiting the debate and the number of amendments that may be offered. Only by sending the measure to the senate attached to an appropriation bill is there any chance of getting an economy bill through congress, at this session.

Hinges on Rule.

The vote on the rule will determine the fate of the bill. If the opposition can defeat the rule it will be able to tear the measure to shreds, if not to shelve it altogether for this session. If the rule prevails the bill will be passed, even if modified by amendments which the rule limits to forty.

The fighting will wax hottest over the provision for the 11 per cent cut of salaries above $1,000, which Chairman John McDuffie [Dem., Ala.], of the economy committee estimates will save 67 millions. For this section the administration leaders will endeavor to substitute President Hoover's plan for a five day week and enforced furloughs without pay which the White House estimates will save 83 millions with less hardship for employés.

There will also be a bitter fight over the plan to consolidate the war and navy departments into a department of national defense and over the restriction of veterans' compensation.

Mountain of Material.

The economy committee had before it a vast mass of economy proposals, the consideration of which was postponed in order to get a bill before congress without further delay. Members of the committee were astounded for example, by the travel expenses of the bureaucracy which is nearly 50 millions of dollars a year.

The allowance for travel expense budgeted for the fiscal year, 1933 compared with the amounts for 1932, follow:

Legislative establishments	$ 8,935	$ 8,935
Executive office and independent establishments	6,534,691	6,812,418
Dept. of agriculture	3,770,954	4,356,956
Dept. of commerce	1,545,180	1,851,694
Dept. of the interior	1,336,763	1,392,207
Dept. of justice	7,177,952	7,069,426
Dept. of labor	1,804,908	1,208,220
Dept. of the navy	5,374,390	5,353,038
Postoffice dept.	6,066,310	6,063,129
Dept. of state	856,292	780,920
Treasury dept.	3,711,256	3,835,043
War dept., including Panama Canal	8,988,071	9,860,533
Total	$47,178,692	$48,655,509

Money, Money, Money.

Representative John J. Cochran [Dem., Mo.], a member of the economy committee, called particular attention to the vast amount of traveling connected with the multitudinous services performed by the government for various interests. In the department of agriculture alone he cited $36,684 as the travel expense of forest pathologists, $65,539 for blister rust controllers, $84,340 for barberry bush eradicators, $84,050 for the experts on horticultural crops and diseases, $30,000 for phony peach eradicators, $36,380 for sugar plant investigators, $28,753 for experts on cereal crops and diseases, $17,700 for investigators of forage crops an ddiseases, and $10,000 for promoters of dry land agriculture.

"Here we find that $13,350 is being spent this year on travelers who are introducing foreign plants," said Congressman Cochran. "Some idea of the traveling involved is conveyed by an outgiving of the department of agriculture press agent on April 18, reporting the return of Allison V. Armour and his research vessel, the S. S. Utowana, with a staff of department of agriculture specialists from a cruise in the Caribbean.

"The object of this expedition, we are informed by the press agent, was 'to find, if possible, the original ancestor of the long staple sea island cotton.' Reading further we find that 'no trace of the ancestor of the sea island cotton was discovered.'"

What, if any, travel expense to the government was involved in this expedition is not clear. According to the press agent, Mr. Armour placed his yacht at the disposal of the government.

NINE HOUR PARLEY FAILS TO BRING A MILK WAGE ACCORD

Agreement on a new wage contract for Chicago and suburban milk wagon drivers appeared distant last night following a nine hour meeting between representatives of local milk dealers and of the drivers' union.

Committees headed by Dr. Fred D. Walmsley, for the dealers, and President Robert F. Fitchie, for the drivers, met at 2 o'clock yesterday at the Hotel La Salle. They adjourned shortly before 11 o'clock last night. Dr. Walmsley said that no definite proposals had been offered by either side, and that there was nothing to take back to their respective organizations.

The new contract is to replace the one in effect for five years, which expires May 1. Drivers now receive $50 weekly. They were asked to take a $10 cut, but flatly refused, indicating, however, that they are willing to accept what they consider a reasonable reduction. The new pay scale will affect 6,700 drivers in the city, and 500 in the suburbs. About 500 others are unemployed.

Casts Off Her Clothes in Jail to Protest Arrest

Miss Lucille Strong, 27 years old, was arrested yesterday afternoon when she tried to take a fur coat from the store of Albert Cohen at 3020 South State street. She was taken to the detective bureau and locked in a cell. A little later, when detectives wanted to take her to the bureau of identification for pictures and finger prints, the matron informed them that Lucille would have to stay in a cell. She had gone on a clothing strike, tossed all her garments into the corridor, and refused to don them again.

REDUCING TAXES IS PUBLIC'S JOB, STRAWN ASSERTS

Blames Troubles on Free Spending of Past.

It is up to the people of the country themselves to bring about a reduction in taxation, Silas H. Strawn, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, told the Rotary club at its luncheon in the Hotel Sherman yesterday. In the days of prosperity, he said, the people demanded all sorts of improvements without regard for the cost.

"Now the question is not how to escape the burden we have imposed on ourselves but how to meet the situation," Mr. Strawn said. "We have gone on and on increasing the cost of government until we now find ourselves in a very disenchanting situation."

Raps Veterans' Bonus Plan.

Discussing the proposal for a soldiers' bonus payment, Mr. Strawn said: "I do not think it a mark of patriotism for veterans to demand the huge sum of $2,000,000,000 at this time. In 1931 we paid out one-ninth as much for veterans' benefits as we did in the previous 100 years."

Touching on the Chicago situation he remarked: "I have no sympathy for the tax striker. It is the duty of taxpayers here to pay. I can sympathize with those who can't pay, but in many cases there was no provision made for any payments. People went on buying luxuries which they could not afford, and now they complain they are not able to pay."

Reviews Situation Abroad.

Mr. Strawn reviewed his observations on his recent trip to Europe. He said that he was struck with the feeling in England where he declared the nation is bending every effort to combat the depression. In France he noted a spirit of nervousness, a large part of which was induced, he said, by the drop in that country's exports.

Discussing the decline in foreign trade of the United States, Mr. Strawn said:

"We cannot expect to return to our prosperity unless we regain our foreign trade, of which we have lost about 53 per cent. President Hoover has been quoted as saying that about 10 per cent of our production goes into foreign trade, this volume supporting about 2,400,000 families."

Drive on Costs Grows.

George W. Rossetter, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, yesterday told of new pledges for the support of his organization in its national campaign to bring about reduction of taxation through curtailment of government expenditures. Three cities which have enlisted in the campaign are Des Moines, Ia., Ashatabula, O., and Cape Girardeau, Mo.

Cost of Relief for Vets by 1945 Will Equal Expenses of War

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.]—"You recall, of course, what Gen. Sherman said concerning hostilities," suggested Representative Hawley [Rep., Ore.] to Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines as the head of the veterans' administration today concluded his testimony on the bonus bills before the house ways and means committee.

BRIG. GEN. FRANK T. HINES.

"I have," replied Gen. Hines. "And what he said," continued Mr. Hawley, "might also be said to apply to the peace after the war."

Again Gen. Hines agreed.

For he had just informed the committee that to date the federal government has spent 6 billion dollars for the benefit of world war veterans.

Will Equal Cost of War.

"And at the present rate," he said, "without any new legislation, the government will have spent approximately 21½ billions by 1945—an amount equal to the cost of our actual participation in the war."

"In other words," Mr. Hawley remarked, "the after effects are as expensive as the actual conduct of the war."

They are, Gen. Hines concurred, and pointed out that the relief and compensation of all the veterans of all American wars prior to the world war totaled to date only 8 billions.

Billions and hundreds of millions were tossed back and forth as the veterans' administrator told what some of the 57 varieties of bonus measures now pending in congress would take from the treasury.

The Patman bill for payment in full of the bonus certificates, plus remission of interest would mean an appropriation of $2,422,826,014.16, said Gen. Hines, in addition to paying out the $183,327,327.16 which was in the bonus retirement fund on the date the estimate was made.

Interest Will Total Billion.

To cancel the interest on loans outstanding from the present to 1945, as other measures contemplate, would cost the government, Gen. Hines testified, something like $1,016,000,000.

The plan to pay off in full now, he explained, was equivalent to increasing the original bonus by $1,600,000,000.

In addition to federal aid, the veterans have received 520 millions in bonuses and various sorts of relief from the states, said the general and some 70 millions have been spent on state soldiers' hospitals and homes.

There were suggestions from Democratic committee members that the interest charged veterans on bonus loans was pretty high.

Based on 4 Per Cent Earnings.

It was explained to them that the annual appropriations, normally about 112 millions, put into the bonus certificate retirement fund are predicated on the fund drawing 4 per cent interest, compounded annually.

"To lower or wipe out the interest simply means," said Gen. Hines, "that larger appropriations would have to be made in order to meet the maturity requirements of the certificates."

Tables and tables, and still more tables were read into the record. Gen. Hines went into detail as to some of the acturial and highly complex features of handling three and a half million paid up 20 year endowment policies, which, of course, is what the bonus certificates are.

The face value of the certificates now in force, he said, "totals $3,513,692,937. Exclusive of veterans who have gone to banks, 2,529,744, as of March 31, had secured loans from the government totaling $1,326,828,521. Banks have loaned an additional 60 millions.

Use War Insurance Funds.

In order to make these loans, said Gen. Hines, it had been necessary for congress to authorize the use of 362 millions from the trust fund set aside to pay the holders of converted government war risk insurance. That fund, he explained, had been very advantageously invested in government securities, so that it drew 4.59 per cent interest. Should certificates be paid in full, the insurance fund would have to be reimbursed. And Gen. Hines wanted to know what government securities could be bought now that would yield anything like the old interest.

He told how—though only 7 per cent of them had really wasted it—only 32 per cent of the veterans who borrowed under the 50 per cent loan act passed at the last session had been in serious need.

And he told how the average veteran with an average certificate of $1,000 maturity value on which he had received an average loan of $500 would—if he remained average and did not pay off the debt but let the interest mount up—receive only $66.25 when the certificate matured in 1945.

His arguments however, seemed to have little effect on the veterans who crowded the room.

School Inventory Plan Will Go to Board Today

Col. Howard P. Savage, business manager for the board of education, announced yesterday that he would present his plan for an inventory of the physical properties of the public schools at today's board meeting. Thousands of dollars will be saved by the inventory, according to Col. Savage, who said the plan would prevent waste and duplication of future purchases.

AMERICANS WHO LIVE ABROAD HIT BY INCOME TAX

Committee Eliminates Old Exemption.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.]—Americans living abroad were brought under the income tax provisions of the billion dollar revenue bill today when the senate finance committee eliminated from the measure the section exempting such persons from payment of taxes in this country.

SENATOR HIRAM BINGHAM. [Fotograms.]

The action was taken without a roll call vote over the opposition of Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.].

By reason of the move, Americans residing in foreign countries and working for American firms will be subject without credit for their foreign taxes to the taxes imposed in this country. The only exemption permitted is to cases where the tax paid by American citizens to foreign countries is heavier than the tax imposed here.

Affects Army, Navy Men.

Senator Tom Connally [Dem., Tex.], who suggested the change, stated that it will affect army, navy and marine officers and American diplomatic and consular officers as well as citizens of this country working in branch factories and offices abroad.

The committee today also raised the exemption for insurance company reserve funds from the 3½ per cent passed by the house to 3¾ per cent, "or actual reserve." This, it was explained, will include the small companies which use four per cent as their reserve.

Couzens for 1918 Taxes.

Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.] proposed an amendment which would knock out the entire schedule of income tax rates and surtaxes imposed by the house and substitute the war time schedule as contained in the revenue act of 1918. Under this plan the rates would ascend to a maximum of 65 per cent on incomes of more than one million dollars, as compared to a maximum of 40 per cent.

ATTACK DIVORCE CLAIM BY WIFE OF E. C. WALLER

Charge Her Real Home Is in California.

Depositions in which it was charged that the real residence of Mrs. Alice Miriam Hall Waller, 1203 North State street, is a home which was purchased for her in Coronado Beach, Cal., by Howard Clark Davis, Boston financier, were presented yesterday to Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude in a hearing in connection with Mrs. Waller's bill for divorce against Edward C. Waller Jr. It was also charged that Mrs. Waller deposited $64,000 in California banks at a time when her husband was without funds.

The hearing was not upon the facts of the divorce bill, which charges desertion, but was an action brought on behalf of the $5,000,000 estate of Edward C. Waller Sr., contesting Mrs. Waller's residence and asking that the bill be dismissed on the grounds that neither party to the action is a resident of Illinois.

Obtained by Mother's Lawyer.

The depositions were obtained by Attorney John R. Heath, who represents Mrs. Mary Kirk Waller of Lake Forest, mother of the younger Waller, and the Northern Trust company and Central Republic bank. Mrs. Mary Waller is administrator of her husband's estate. Mrs. Alice Waller charges in her bill that her husband assigned his interest in the estate in trust to the two banks for the purpose of "defrauding his creditors and defeating the claims" of herself and her two children.

The first deposition was that of Waller himself, in which he states that he is a resident of Miami, Fla. He was not in court. His wife sat through the hearing behind her attorney, George L. Schein. She is to take the witness stand this afternoon.

Tells of California House.

In 1928, Waller stated, Davis occupied a room for a time in the Waller apartment at 2300 Sheridan road. Late in December of that year, he said, he and his wife went to Coronado Beach. He left on a three months' trip, he stated, and when he returned found that his wife had moved to another house.

"Who owned the house?" he was asked.

"My understanding was," he replied in the deposition, "that Davis bought the house and gave the beneficial interest to Mrs. Waller, leaving the certificate of title with a trust company."

"Did you visit him in the house," Waller was asked.

"My understanding was that he was visiting us," he stated. "The house had been transferred to Mrs. Waller and he was to have a room in it whenever he wanted it."

Separated in January, 1930.

The Wallers separated in January, 1930, and Mrs. Waller still lives in the house and keeps their children, Mary Langhorne, 8 years old, and Edward C. Waller III, in school at Coronado Beach, her husband stated.

Attorney Heath also presented a number of depositions from servants and public utility companies in support of the contention that the house was Mrs. Waller's real residence. One was made by Andrew Darling, manager of the telephone exchange in Coronado Beach, who said that telephone service in the house had been established in Mrs. Waller's name on March 18, 1929, by Davis.

"Davis was a big, handsome, stout fellow," Mr. Darling stated. "I remember him well. He signed the application card in Mr. Waller's name 'by H. C. Davis,' and said that he was arranging the phone for Mrs. Waller and her husband, who would join them later."

Waller was one of the principals in the famous city hall expert fee case a decade ago. A suit to compel restitution of $580,000 in fees which he received from the city in a single year is still pending in the courts.

Financier Twice Divorced.

Boston, Mass., April 26.—[Special.]—Howard C. Davis, millionaire Boston real estate operator and financier, named today in Chicago dispatches as involved in the divorce case of Mrs. Edward C. Waller Jr., could not be reached here today for comment.

Davis has been twice married and twice divorced. His second wife was the late Mrs. Adelaide Pierce Davis, who before her marriage to Davis was the wife of the late John Bartlett Pierce, vice president of the American Radiator company. The second Mrs. Davis was named in the divorce suit brought by her husband's first wife. She was drowned last July while boating with her financial manager, Richard H. Bennett of New York, by moonlight on Lake Suntaug off the shore of her estate in West

In 1918 Davis' first wife, Mrs. Aida L. Davis, whom he married in Boston in 1910, filed suit for divorce, naming the then Mrs. Pierce. She filed a suit for $100,000 for alienation of affections against Mrs. Pierce. The divorce was granted and the alienation suit was settled out of court.

In May, 1931, Davis and Mrs. Pierce were married. In February, 1931, the second Mrs. Davis brought suit for divorce at Miami, Fla., charging cruelty. The decree was granted.

Davis, who is a director in several eastern corporations, was formerly head of the Peabody planning board. He is a graduate of Dartmouth, where he was an athlete.

FIND NUDE BODY OF 'RIDE' VICTIM IN WISCONSIN

Webster, Wis., April 26.—(AP)—The nude body of an unidentified man, penetrated by three .45 caliber bullets, was found on the shore of Frenstad lake near here late today.

The victim, apparently about 55 years old, was 5 feet 8 inches in height and weighed 150 pounds. He had gray hair, a neatly trimmed mustache, and was slightly bald.

Two guns, one a .45 caliber and the other a special .38 caliber pistol, were found a distance from the body which was lying on the watery edge. The man had been dead only a few hours.

Authorities expressed the belief the dead man was a victim of gangsters and probably had been taken for a ride.

BRITTEN LEADS FIGHT ON CLOSING OF GREAT LAKES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.]—Another effort to save the Great Lakes naval establishment from abolition as a part of the navy department's economy program will be made in the house Thursday, when the navy supply bill is scheduled for a final vote.

Failing in their efforts last week to amend the bill to prevent abandonment of reservist training on the Great Lakes, Representatives Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.] and Robert H. Clancy [Rep., Mich.] announced today that they will make an effort to send the bill to committee with instructions that the funds needed for carrying on the lakes training activities be included in the appropriation.

Would Scrap Ships.

The necessary money for maintaining and operating the training ships used on the great lakes was eliminated from the 1933 appropriation bill on the recommendation of the navy department. It was proposed that the five ships, Wilmette, Wilmington, Dubuque, Paducah, and Hawk, be decommissioned and sold for junk and that the civilian sailors of the reserve corps be transported by rail to the Atlantic seaboard for their summer cruise.

Representative Clancy during general debate on the bill charged the navy department with engaging in false economy in recommending the abolition of the ships. The proposal, he said, was to junk the vessels, two of which were completely overhauled last summer at a cost of $150,000. Only one of the ships, according to Mr. Clancy, can be called obsolete.

One-Thirtieth of Dry Fleet Cost.

"Some say we cannot afford this $100,000 appropriation for national defense," he said, "but we can afford about $3,000,000 a year on the Detroit front for a fleet of rum chasers and patrolmen."

Asserting that the Detroit border patrol has proved to be the "most corrupt force in the history of American police work," Mr. Clancy assailed his colleagues for providing such activities with necessary money and then refusing $100,000 for the "highest type of American manhood, sober, honest, patriotic, and intelligent."

If they would lay up one of the salt water prohibition cruisers for a year, he told the members, the money saved would run the entire great lakes training fleet for at least two years.

J. K. DERING'S WIDOW SUED BY SISTER-IN-LAW

Charged with Unfair Division of Estate.

Mrs. Alice W. Dering, 310 East Pearson street, filed a bill in the Circuit court yesterday in which she charged that her sister-in-law, Mrs. Edith S. Dering of Lake Villa, had dissipated the estate of Jackson K. Dering, coal operator and horse fancier, and had failed to turn over to her a sixth of the estate, due her under Jackson Dering's will.

Mrs. Edith Dering is the widow of Jackson Dering and is executrix of the estate, with the Chicago Title and Trust company. She is now in France on a world tour. Mrs. Alice Dering is the widow of Charles L. Dering, also a coal operator and a former president of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

$4,000,000 Estate Alleged.

Attorney John D. Clancy, who represents Mrs. Alice Dering, asserted that Jackson Dering's estate had been estimated at $4,000,000 at his death. A final accounting presented by Mrs. Edith Dering disclosed that the gross assets were $1,723,806. Mrs. Alice Dering has refused to approve the accounting. Jackson Dering died in 1925, bequeathing a sixth of his estate to his brother, Charles, who died in 1930, leaving his interest in his brother's estate to his widow.

Mrs. Alice Dering names as co-defendants in her suit the trust company; Mrs. Edith Dering's attorney, Clarence B. Cardy, and Jackson K. Dering Jr., an officer of his father's coal company and a co-trustee under the will. The action is one to construe the will and for an accounting.

Improper Division Alleged.

One of the charges in the suit is that Mrs. Edith Dering, by an alleged improper division of the assets of the estate, got $70,000 more than she was entitled to. Her husband's will left her a third of the estate, after funeral expenses and debts. Mrs. Alice Dering charges that her sister-in-law took her share before the expenses and debts, aggregating $250,000 had been paid, thus diminishing the shares of the other legatees.

Charges Weight Fraud in Sales of Passover Bread

City Sealer Joe Grein charged yesterday that manufacturers and retailers defrauded Chicago Jews of more than $30,000 during the recent Passover season by short weight sales of matzos, the unleavened bread used during that period. Some packages of matzos were found to be half a pound short in five pound quantities, and as much as four ounces short in one pound cartons, he said. He said he had ordered a number of manufacturers to show cause why they should not be prosecuted for giving short weight, and is withholding their names pending their answers.

SOCK WITH FENCE PICKET SPEEDS MATT TO JAIL

Robber Routs 2 Families on the Way.

For a few minutes last evening the adventures of Matthew Blasy, 28 years old, of 500 South State street, a convicted robber, brought excitement to the neighborhood of Leland avenue and Lincoln street. They started with an attempted robbery and ended in the North Damen avenue police station.

Just before closing time, Blasy invaded the National Tea company store at 4701 North Damen avenue. His appearance sent Bertha Moberg, 4014 Greenview avenue, the manager, and Elizabeth Redmond, 4840 Sheridan road, a clerk, screaming to the street.

Socked with Fence Picket.

Their screams reached Merrill Williams, 18 years old, of 4948 Lincoln street. At the time he was ripping a picket from a broken fence. Williams ran to the store in time to meet Blasy. Ignoring the latter's gun, the youth swung hard with the fence board, and sent the robber limping away.

By this time a police squad was hurrying to the scene, and Blasy darted into a home at 1832 Leland avenue. A woman and several children, occupants of the home, ran to the street, shrieking. Police rushed into the house, but Blasy had departed.

Routs Another Family.

Still seeking shelter, the bandit ran into a home at 4711 Lincoln street, just as Mrs. Mary Bauer and her two children were sitting at dinner. The three fled.

Blasy dashed to the second floor, and into the bedroom of Miss Josephine Dennehy, a roomer. The next instant she joined the Bauers, adding her screams to theirs.

Blasy's adventures ended there. Policemen Martin Mullin, Charles Jeffers, John Kramer, and Frank Gleason trapped him in the home. They locked him up at the station. Their records show, they said, that Blasy appeared in the Criminal court several months ago on a charge of robbery, and was sentenced to one to ten years. Thirty days later he was placed on probation, they said.

SOLVE MYSTERY OF KIDNAPING OF WILLY WIETOR

Mrs. Irene Wietor, 6502 North Leavitt street, talked excitedly on the phone last night to Desk Sergeant William McSween of the Rogers Park station.

"My baby," she cried, "little Billy—he's 3 years old—is kidnaped. I left him in his crib and went out to a delicatessen for a minute or two and when I got back he was gone."

Lieut. William Lange broadcast the news. He asked for finger print experts. "If there's a ladder at the window, don't touch it," he commanded. "Look close at all the doors and windows. If there's tracks in the yard don't disturb them."

Among the first arrivals at the Wietor home were Policemen Timothy Donahue and Arthur Buhrke. They looked at the doors and the windows. Then they inspected a clothes closet in the room where little Billy had been left. As the door swung open there was the youngster, sound asleep on the floor.

PRODUCE AND YOU CAN SELL GOODS, FORD'S ADVICE

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.]—"If the people who quit business to go into gambling a few years ago would stop gambling and go back to work at producing they could sell all the produce," Henry Ford said today after a conference with President Hoover.

Mr. Ford said that for three months he had been working on a plan to combine farming and industry, under which industrial workers could save $500 a year by raising their own foodstuffs. He said he was not quite ready to make the plan public in all its details, but that it would be announced in the near future.

"I told the President that we are selling all the motor cars we can make and we are getting lots of cash, some of it in big bills," Mr. Ford said. "I mean by big bills the old style large size ones that might have been in hiding."

Woman Found Dead in Bath Is Identified as Chicagoan

The body of a woman who was found dead in a bathtub in her room in the Schroeder hotel, Milwaukee, on Monday evening was identified last night as that of Mrs. Calla L. Older, 50 years old, of Chicago, by her husband, F. R. Older of 1032 East 46th street, a traveling salesman. It is believed that her death was accidental. The Olders came to Chicago from Fort Madison, Ia., nearly a year ago and separated eight months ago. Mrs. Older lived with friends at 18 East Elm street.

AUTO THIEVES SENTENCED.

Charles G. Jones, 22 years old, and Delbert W. Hall, 21 years old, of Valparaiso, Ind., were sentenced yesterday by Federal Judge John P. Barnes for the theft and interstate transportation of four automobiles. Jones was sentenced to five years and Hall four years in Leavenworth penitentiary.

County Commissioners Back New $20,000,000 Relief Bonds

Approval of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission's request for a new $20,000,000 state bond issue to care for the poor and jobless next winter was voted unanimously by the finance committee of the Cook county board yesterday.

Edward L. Ryerson Jr., president of the commission, won the board with his explanation of the probable needs when cold weather comes again. He left for Springfield immediately with the hope that the county approval will serve as a favorable lever upon the legislature, which is now considering the bond issue. If adopted there, it will be placed before the voters in the fall for approval.

The unanimous approval came after searching questions had been asked by several commissioners as to the size of the personnel distributing charity through the Joint Emergency Relief fund's organization; the cost of administration, and the method of appointing the workers. Mr. Ryerson had ready answers to all these inquiries.

Same Amount as Previous Bonds.

The bill is of the same kind and for the same amount of bonds as that passed by the special sessions of the assembly early in the year when it became apparent that the $10,000,000 fund raised by private subscription last fall would be insufficient to meet charity needs during the cold months. It provides, as did the first, that counties needing funds for their poor may borrow from the $20,000,000 twenty year bond issue, reimbursing the fund by pledging their shares of the county gas tax share. Each is dependent upon a referendum which, if not passed, would result in raising the state tax levy.

"The first interim report of the relief commission is before you," said Mr. Ryerson, beginning his discussion. "It will show you, I believe, the unquestioned need of the additional funds we are now asking. I understand that in addition to the bond issue, it is planned to attempt the raising of a $7,000,000 fund by private subscription next fall to augment the total. It is difficult to say just how much we will need, but this is the best estimate."

Points to Large Payments.

"But, Mr. Ryerson," interjected Michael J. O'Connor, deputy county controller, "a $40,000,000 bond issue, the total which would be before the voters in the fall, would require a principal payment of $2,000,000 and interest of $2,500,000 from the county. Our gas tax share [one cent of the three cent state levy] doesn't bring us that much." This following discussion ensued:

MR. RYERSON—You are assuming that Cook county will use all the bond issue. It will probably use sixteen or sixteen and one-half millions.

MR. O'CONNOR—We would lose about three-fourths of our gas tax share then. We have practically eliminated our levy for highway purposes; we might, because of this, have to resort to it again.

MR. RYERSON—I appreciate that, but I see a picture which shows that unless this situation is met it won't make much difference if you have roads or not. I have a strong feeling, too, that the county share [1 cent] may be larger in time and perhaps not so long a time. [Mr. Ryerson was referring, it was assumed, to the agitation throughout the state to divide the 3 cent gas tax so that counties and towns will get a larger share.]

COMMISSIONER WILLIAM BUSSE—Will you be able to sell the bonds?

MR. RYERSON—There is no question that we will sell the bonds.

Questioned on Charity Workers.

After a few questions from Commissioner Peter M. Kelly as to what part employés of the different charities perform in the charity organizations, President Emmett Whealan asked the size of the pay roll of the Joint Emergency Relief fund.

MR. RYERSON—In February and March it was about 6¾ per cent of the amount expended, which was between six and seven millions.

MR. WHEALAN—How many employés do you have?

MR. RYERSON—About 1,500, including auditors, case workers, supervisors, and clerks. It would never be possible to administer relief as cheaply as we do if we did not have 400 volunteer workers and our quarters rent free. It could easily run to 15 per cent. Cleveland is spending $550,000 a month for poor relief and is spending 18 per cent for administration costs. I don't know if the people will vote this bond issue, or even if it will pass the legislature, but I know it won't pass in Springfield if the county board isn't for it.

On motion of Commissioner Dan Ryan the issue was then approved. It will probably be considered by the full board today.

Suggests Wage Arbitration.

Another important action of the committee was to suggest arbitration of the wage controversy at the psychopathoc hospital, where 41 employés went on strike after 27 other employés had been fired, including many high on the civil service list. Commissioner Amelia Sears proposed the course.

A resolution directing State's Attorney Swanson to obtain from all receivers, trustees, and bondholders' committees information showing the legal description of properties in receivership and what taxes are due or delinquent was introduced by Mrs. Edward J. Fleming. It will be considered by the full board today. Mrs. Fleming explained the resolution was aimed at the collection of overdue taxes on properties in receivership.

JOHN HAMMILL INDORSES LIQUOR FOR CANADA ONLY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TRURO, N. S., April 26.—John Hammill, former governor of Iowa, said today that repeal of prohibition in the United States would be a decided step backwards.

"The automobile would become a menace on the highways," he said. "Conditions are very different in the United States than in this country."

Government control of liquor, however, as practiced in the provinces of Canada, is a decided success, he said. He explained that he is in favor of unprohibited liquor in Canada, "as the people of this country are of a different temperament."

BODY TAKEN FROM RIVER.

The body of Joseph Mendoza, 45 years old, 2100 South La Salle street, was taken from the Chicago river yesterday at 14th street. The police said he had committed suicide.

PAY $16,000,000 TAX AT DISCOUNT WITH WARRANTS

Large Property Owners Buy Up Old Notes.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Many large property owners have paid their 1930 taxes, in part, with tax anticipation warrants. During the last two months, these warrants have been offered by banks and brokerage houses at discounts of from 2 to 8 per cent. By the purchase of them, many property owners have discounted their tax obligations.

These taxpayers have turned in warrants and interest for a total of $15,955,382 to meet their taxes. In previous years the largest total of warrants used for paying taxes was only $400,000.

If the warrants were bought at an average of 3½ per cent discount, the taxpayers using them this year have saved $518,000 by the purchase of the warrants. In addition they were credited with $1,132,707 interest when they paid their taxes, because the interest earned, but unpaid, on tax warrants is applicable on tax bills.

Cash Borrowed and Spent.

The tax anticipation warrants are issued by the various local governments which spent the cash they got for them in advance of the tax collections. These warrants, under the statute, can then be taken to the county collector and then turned in, together with accrued interest, as cash in the payment of taxes.

The only difficulty in the use of them for paying taxes lies in the fact that a warrant must be used to pay the taxes of the particular fund against which it has been issued. For example, a city corporate tax warrant can be used to pay only city corporate taxes. It cannot be used to pay school, park, library or any other kind of taxes. One large bank and two brokerage houses are known to have put on special staffs to reckon the percentage of each kind of warrants a taxpayer needs to pay his tax bill.

Who Gets the Warrants?

County Treasurer McDonough has distributed among the principal governments a total of $62,382,598 from 1930 tax collections. Of this total, $14,822,675 has been in tax anticipation warrants and $1,132,707 in interest on those warrants. Mr. McDonough compiled a table yesterday showing the amount of warrants and interest he has distributed to the local governments:

Fund—	Warrants.	Interest.
City, corporate	$ 4,572,600	$361,625.45
City, bonds	939,000	26,896.85
Schools, educational	5,763,300	478,662.95
Schools, building	1,383,000	152,364.52
Sanitarium	65,000	4,437.85
Library	39,000	2,646.73
Firemen's pension	6,000	152.16
San. dist., corporate	129,800	8,029.39
San dist., bonds	394,000	23,057.45
West park	46,475	443.53
South park	1,000	.....
Lincoln park, bonds	24,000	33.68
County, corporate	975,000	77,273.15
County, highway	2,000	103.53
Totals	$14,822,675	$1,132,707.02

The tax collections yesterday dwindled to a total of $707,917, of which $678,275 was on real estate and the remaining $29,642 on personal property. Monday the collections were in excess of $1,300,000 and on Saturday and Sunday more than $6,000,000.

The treasurer's office staff said the announcement that the penalty date is to be deferred is one cause for the slump in payments.

Those who paid yesterday were largely small property owners, the average payment being less than $130, while on Monday the average was $164. The total collections of the 1930 taxes now total $102,706,000. A comparison of the taxes levied with those collected by classes of property follows:

Property—	Levied.	Paid.
Railroad	$ 13,339,415	$ 8,444,661
Personal	55,492,275	18,408,133
Totals	$290,283,770	$102,706,433

There still remains $187,577,337 to be collected, and the railroads made no payments yesterday or Monday. Several substantial payments have been promised for today. One promise is from a steel corporation and another from a large estate firm.

ARRAIGNED AS BIGAMIST.

Jack Wellines, 33 years old, arraigned in the Felony court before Judge John J. Rooney on a charge of bigamy, yesterday obtained a continuance until May 23. Wellines was arrested Monday on his arrival from Detroit when his wife, Frances, told police that she had information that he had married two other women.

EXCHANGE $250,000 IN BOARD WARRANTS; CROWD IS ORDERLY

Tax anticipation warrants amounting to $250,000 changed hands yesterday at the school board office at 126 North Wells street. Teachers, school employés, merchants and business houses obtained the warrants in exchange for scrip and "N. S. F." pay checks for the last half of April and the month of May, 1931.

More than 1,200 persons obtained warrants in contrast to the crowd of 3,500 on Monday when twelve women fainted. Yesterday's crowd was orderly. Arthur Schweitzer, in charge of the warrant office, said that the early rush was due to a false rumor that the school board had only a limited supply of warrants.

750 PAY ROLLERS OF WEST PARKS ARE DISCHARGED

All Temporary Employes Are Dismissed.

Seven hundred and fifty temporary employés of the west park board were ordered discharged yesterday as employés of the system got their first pay checks since July 1, 1931. Three hundred of the pay rollers are already gone and the remainder will go before May 1, board officials said. The 750 ordered dismissed represent half of the park board's pay roll.

The pay day was made possible by the purchase of $200,000 worth of 1931 tax warrants by loop banks, and it is presumed that the dismissal of pay rollers was a condition to the banks' purchase. The bankers had refused to buy the park board's warrants in the past, it was understood, because of the swollen pay rolls with which the board, controlled by Gov. Emmerson, backed the unsuccessful candidacy of Omer N. Custer for governor.

Charges Pay Roll Padding.

Edward J. Brundage, one of Custer's opponents, charged during the primary campaign that scores of Custer workers had been put on the park pay rolls as "lagoon watchers" and in other nonessential positions, despite the fact that the board's treasury was empty and it had defaulted on bond issues.

Robert J. Daly, secretary of the park board, said that employés, already paid for the first half of March, will get their pay checks today for the second half of the month.

He expressed hope that further tax warrant purchases by banks will make it possible to catch up on back pay rolls. These obligations have been somewhat reduced by the fact that many employés have taken as much as five months' back pay in tax warrants.

Orders Five Day Week.

While only one small reduction in the number of pay rollers was made prior to the primary, the board instituted economy measures in January, several months after it had defaulted on its bonds, Charles MacGowan, superintendent of employment, said yesterday. A five day week was ordered then. On Feb. 15 the board ordered all of its employés except the park police and a few others placed on half time. Labor unions objected to this and the order was modified to apply to temporary employés only.

The board did dismiss 75 employés in the athletic department on March 15. The closing of neighborhood playgrounds which this move necessitated brought protests from citizens, and the athletic department was reopened a few days after the primary.

City Receives $10,000,000.

The city received $10,000,000 in 1930 tax collections yesterday, and other tax spending bodies got $3,935,000. These funds were used by all of the governments except the forest preserve district to redeem 1930 tax warrants.

The forest preserves have no tax warrants outstanding, but have defaulted on $1,960,000 worth of their bonds. Rudolph Mulac Jr., controller of the district, said that $380,000 will be turned over to the First National bank, trustee, in a few days to redeem two of the defaulted issues. The remaining $340,000 which the preserves have in cash will be held until further collections make it possible to redeem other issues.

County employés were paid yesterday for the last half of December. Their pay checks and the mothers' pension roll for the first half of January, which was also paid, totaled $450,000.

Maurice F. Kavanagh, chairman of the finance committee of the county board, announced that employés will be paid within a week for the whole month of January. The payments will be made out of $1,500,000 in fee collections in the offices of County Treasurer McDonough and County Clerk Sweitzer.

RAID COLLECTION AGENCY; SEIZE 37 MEN AND GIRLS

Thirty men and seven girls, employés of the Ogden corporation, which occupies large offices on the 19th floor at 134 North La Salle street, were arrested yesterday in a raid by police under orders of the state's attorney's office.

The corporation was a fake collection agency, according to information furnished by the Better Business bureau which said that it took in $3,000 a day by a system of telephone solicitation. Officials of the company were said to be Stephen Kirst, Arthur Hesse and Morris Shapiro.

According to Assistant State's Attorney Thomas D. Duffey, who questioned the prisoners, the agency promised to collect bills for a commission of 15 per cent. Later, the creditor would be notified that a bank account of the debtor had been located but that money would be needed to start suit. Usually, this was a ruse to get money out of the creditors, it was said, and a suit was rarely filed.

More than 600 complaints were filed with the Better Business bureau, according to Flint Grinnell, director.

CONVICT MASSIE OF MURDER, IS PLEA TO JURY

Rape Does Not Justify Killing, Lawyer Cries.

tem and the people of the territory are on trial here on a charge that they cannot maintain law and order in this community. No twelve men ever had power to perform a greater service, or harm, than you.

"If they did do this act of which they are accused and are guilty, they must be convicted. It is a difficult test for you because of the unprecedented emotional factors involved. That is all the more reason why the test must be met unflinchingly. The prosecution makes no cry of vengeance, no song of hate, but it asks you to perform your duty so that law and justice may prevail.

Sorry for Defendants.

"My feeling is one of extreme sorrow for the defendants. But I ask you not to let sympathy and emotions interfere with the calm performance of your duty. The scene, with this young woman [Mrs. Thalia Massie] on the stand and this mother and the husband, was calculated to stir your emotions. They have suffered terribly. But you cannot follow your feelings. We cannot undo these things. If a crime was committed you are bound to find that fact. Mercy and clemency are for the executive."

Behind a row of law books, facing the judge, Darrow sat making pencil notes. He was, as so often before in his court career of 50 years, confronted with a difficult hill to climb. He believes that men are guided largely by emotions, not reason, and he planned his defense along this line.

Everybody in Honolulu wants to hear his final plea and requests were made to Judge Charles S. Davis to permit a radio broadcast of the Chicago lawyer's speech. The judge merely smiled in answer to the appeal. His court has been run in this trial with formality, order, and quiet dignity. Its conduct, indeed, has been superior to that in most mainland courts. Only once did the spectators manifest themselves and that was in applauding Mrs. Massie after she had torn up a questionnaire which Prosecutor Kelley had handed her for purpose of identification.

Urges Verdict of Guilt.

Ulrich explained the indictment of murder in the second degree in which the elements are premeditations but in which, he said, deliberation is not necessarily present. He read from Judge Davis' instructions to the effect that no man is permitted to take the law into his own hands, but is held responsible for acts which result in death. [The judge's instructions to the jury, according to procedure here, are furnished each side in advance of the final arguments.]

"No man can take the law into his own hands, and the alleged fact that the accused assaulted the wife of one of the defendants furnishes no defense for any of the defendants," he cried. "If you believe that these four defendants entered into an enterprise which might result in death, and they unquestionably did, you must find them guilty."

Ulrich emphasized the word "must."

The associate prosecutor said that in regard to the plea of insanity the court would instruct that in order to be insane a person must be bereft of ability in the nature of the act performed, and that even if he were insane at the actual moment of the deed he must still be convicted if sane at the time the undertaking was planned.

Doubts Sincerity of Defense.

Ulrich told the jury that what happened to Mrs. Massie could not be considered as justification, but merely as having a bearing on the mental condition of Lieut. Massie. He said he doubted the sincerity of this defense and suggested that its real motive was to arouse the sympathy of the jury. He said that Massie's testimony that he did not want to kill Kahahawai was unnatural.

Ulrich asserted that all of the defendants with the exception of Massie had practically pleaded guilty. All the evidence in the case shows an intent to kill, he declared, picturing Kahahawai as tried by a jury of four, the most prejudiced in the world, and one which demanded a confession.

"Who wouldn't lick his lips and tremble with death staring him in the face?" he exclaimed.

"The whole affair reeked with criminal conduct," the assistant prosecutor went on, "for they had a houseful of guns which they intended to use."

He argued that Kahahawai was conscious for from three to five minutes after the shot had been fired and had lived from fifteen to twenty minutes and yet no steps were taken to save his life.

"No one phoned for a doctor, because they intended for him to die," he declared.

Ulrich passed the picture of Kahahawai's dead body to the jurors, showing the bullet mark. He also exhibited to the jury the chart which showed how the bullet had traveled in a downward direction.

"This conclusively shows," he said, "that Massie could not have been sitting as was said, but that it is obvious that whoever fired the shot was standing some distance away, that it was fired from the side and while Kahahawai was not looking."

It is not known just what did happen, Ulrich said, but he told the jury that it could not believe the truth of Massie's testimony. Ulrich turned to the defendants as he made his points against them and seemed to relish his job.

He derided the insanity defense and especially the claim of amnesia after the killing. He said they would never have taken "an automaton" along on the job of disposing of a 200 pound body and have left Jones, an able seaman, at home. He said the defense hoped to use insanity as a peg on which to hang the verdict.

"Cannot License Murder."

It will be argued by the defense, Ulrich said, that rape justified this action. He admitted that there is of course nothing more terrible than was indicated had happened here. But, he went on, "you cannot make Hawaii safe against rape by licensing murder."

"Hawaii has to be safe for our women," he argued, "and no greater blow can be directed against that goal than to condone crime."

The prosecutor told the jury it has no right to consider the defendants' station in life.

"If the case were reversed," he asked them, "could you imagine what consideration Kahahawai would get in a court of law if he had taken Massie to his poor home, shot and killed him. If his excuse were trigger-insanity, he would have been laughed out of court."

What case could there be, he asked, when a man is driven to murder, where this form of insanity cannot be claimed?

"If you accept this defense," Ulrich told the jury in effect, "you will publish to the world that, as far as Hawaii is concerned, a murder may have a good defense as long as there is money to hire a trigger-insanity expert. Hawaii would then be unsafe against the crime of murder. It is the easiest defense in the world to produce and is always available."

Ulrich concluded with a new plea to the jury of the importance of their act in its effect on the political and economic future of the island.

"This building," he said, "is dedicated to justice. Minds poisoned with hatred passed a sentence of death upon Kahahawai for an offense which any one may now well say he was entirely innocent of. That was a defiance of the sovereign power of Hawaii, and now through lavish expenditure and the services of a great attorney they ask you to make Hawaii's shame complete.

"The eyes of the world are on you today. The world is awaiting your message. Write your verdict in plain words, so that the message may be carried into the ether that life here is perfectly safe and that Hawaii cannot be defied with impunity, for we here ourselves can maintain law and order. I ask you to find each of the defendants guilty of second degree murder."

Leisure began his argument for the defense at 11:30 o'clock. He admitted with Ulrich the importance of the issues to be decided. All but one juror, a Chinese, looked directly, it might even be thought hopefully, at this young New Yorker who came here to defend the navy.

The Massies, Darrow's associate said, had a right to believe they were safe when they came here to live in a city famed throughout the world for its beauty and its welcome to strangers. But calamity had blighted the lives of this family, he said, although Honolulu was not to blame.

This entire drama, Leisure continued, has happened many times and in many places. Not long ago, he told the jury, a body of a man was found in this city, a man identified as having criminally assaulted a young wife.

"Under God's law," he said, "he wrote his own death. It might have been your wife. Suppose that the cruel appetite of this man who broke that woman's jaw was not satisfied by one night of debauchery. I feel confident that every man in the civilized world regards the ravishing of a mother, a wife, sister, or daughter as the greatest offense that can be perpetrated. You are here today to determine whether a man whose wife was ravished in Hawaii shall go to prison under the laws if the shock proves too great for the human mind and he takes a human life.

Old as Human History.

"This is as old as human history. When the strain is too great on the human mind our law recognizes that fact. The statutory laws provides in certain instances where a man must take care of himself. Unless human nature is reversed you can only return a verdict of not guilty.

"The prosecution will tell you it is your duty to make this man suffer further. It is easy to be cruel. Your duty to the individual is as great as to the territory and the public good. When an honest jury brings in a verdict of not guilty in a criminal case, that is law and order.

"Self-government is not on trial here. This is not a public question. You are trying the case of the individual. Sympathy, of course, should be included in your deliberations. Insanity explains this act. It is not the plea of an unwritten law. If he wanted to kill, he would have done it three months before. The killing spoiled the confession which he wanted so very much to clear his wife's name."

Leisure detailed points of evidence to combat Ulrich. Before adjournment the court warned the jurors not to discuss the case until it is completely closed.

THE HAGUE, April 26.—Miss Carol Lee Johnson, 21 years old, of Bogolusa, La., once a beauty queen at Simmons university at Abilene, Tex., was married here today to Andre van Assenderp, 24, after a romantic wooing.

When studying at Leyden Mr. Van Assenderp saw Miss Johnson's portrait in a university year book, rushed to America, and became engaged to her. On his return he was graduated from Leyden and was lucky enough to get the last available place in the civil service of Batavia, Dutch East Indies.

Selfridge Is Guest of Former Store Associates

Harry Gordon Selfridge, who resigned as general manager of Marshall Field & Co., in 1904 and founded one of the largest department stores in London, was the guest at a luncheon of his old friends and former associates in the Merchandise mart yesterday. He remarked that his only regret is that he is not "a youth of 21, with no prospects—for if I were, I would go to some undeveloped part of the world and raise as much trouble as possible trying to make it my kind of world." He said leaders of business in this country are not despondent, nor do they anticipate an immediate rebound in business activity.

RUTH NICHOLS FLIES TO CITY ON FAIR MISSION

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Ruth Nichols, aviatrix of Rye, N. Y., flew into the Chicago airport from Des Moines yesterday afternoon, ten minutes ahead of schedule. She is making a 3,000 mile tour in behalf of the international women's congress planned for the Chicago Centry of Progress exposition next year.

When her Lockheed-Vega 240 plane was sighted, Capt. George Fisher, wartime flyer, flew out of Sky Harbor to escort Miss Nichols to the Chicago airport. There she was greeted by a delegation including women from the local committee of the National Council of Women, for whom she is making the tour.

The reception committee, headed by Mrs. Clarence G. Goodwin, chairman of the local council committee, included Mrs. Ora Snyder, president of the Chicago Alliance of Business and Professional Women, and Mrs. Charles Severinghaus, president of the Chicago Women's Aeronautical club. Others to greet Miss Nichols were Dr. Herman Bundesen, representing Mayor Cermak, Frank Mitchell of the Chicago Association of Commerce, and Helen Bennett and Mrs. Martin Kent Northum representing the Century of Progress.

Behind the sirens of the motorcycle police escort, which she declared gave her a bigger thrill than flying a plane, Miss Nichols rode to the loop in the official city car. She will make her headquarters at the Palmer house until her departure tomorrow or Friday for Battle Creek, her next good will stop.

"I have been greeted everywhere with enthusiasm concerning the world's fair, and I believe that a large proportion of the 5,000,000 women the council represents expect to come to the fair, Miss Nichols said.

"I am collecting at each place I visit the signatures of women which will be presented in a petition inviting foreign governments to send representative women to the International Congress of Women at the fair. Nearly every city has furnished its quota of signatures. A million names are expected in the final petition."

This noon, Miss Nichols will be the guest at a luncheon to be given by the trustees of the Century of Progress in the administration building. This afternoon the Chicago committee of the National Council of Women will give a tea at the Palmer house for the experiences in aviation as well as the flyer, who is expected to tell of her plans for the congress.

Miss Nichols is a member of the National Council of Women and vice president of the Women's International Aeronautical association. On May 6, 1931, she flew six miles above Manhatan's tallest skyscraper, setting a new women's record.

FOUND CRUSHED BY TRAIN; HUNT MURDER CLEWS

Police of Gary and Chicago were working last night to solve an apparent murder mystery in which Joseph F. Leslie, 45 years old, a collector, of 8001 South Green street, was the victim. His body was found early yesterday on the Michigan Central right of way at the Pine street crossing in Gary. The legs had been severed by a train and there were marks of heavy blows on the head.

Dr. L. M. Frederick of Hobart, deputy coroner, said there were indications that Leslie's body was placed on the track after he was killed by blows on the head.

Near the Pine street crossing the Gary police found Leslie's automobile, undamaged, with lights and ignition still turned on. According to his widow, Leslie started out for Gary Monday afternoon on business, but he never reached his destination.

The widow said she was sure Leslie had not committed suicide. She said he was working for a Chicago concern as a collector of delinquent accounts. His territory included the foreign areas in the steel district.

The police found that Leslie was a steady home man. Until recently he worked as a salesman for the McNair Realty company in Gary. During that time he lived with his family in their own home at Cedar Lake, Ind.

"WHY SHOULD I WORRY?" Says Mr. Wood

"I don't know much about engines or engine repairs," N. C. Wood, Chicago, confesses to R. J. Casey, famous Chicago News reporter, "but I drive a Buick six and never take up the hood except to change the oil. Years ago I learned the solution to my repair problem."

An Interview by

ROBERT J. CASEY

Chicago Daily News Reporter

Those were the days! On a Sunday afternoon, wind and weather permitting, the boys would gather in Gasoline Alley to discuss the news and take crankcases down and tinker with engines. Garages were machine shops and motorists were patient and long-suffering.

Today, Gasoline Alley is a bit of forgotten geography. A garage is just a place for automobile storage and tools are something that you get with the car.

N. C. Wood of 21 W. Elm Street, Chicago, mentions this merely as hearsay.

"I don't know much about engines or engine repairs," he said to this reporter, "but why should I worry? I drive a Buick six and I never take up the hood except to have oil put into the car. In 44,000 miles my only bill for motor upkeep has been the price of one spark plug. From my experience with cars I know that correct lubrication is what keeps them going. There has never been any oil other than Iso-Vis in this car and it has performed summer and winter, on long trips or in city driving with virtually no wastage between crankcase fillings. Sometimes, as in a 4,000 mile drive up to Canada last year, the same oil has worked at zero and a hundred in the shade. The engine never heated at high altitudes or low and it started readily no matter how cold the weather.

"I am convinced that your luck in driving is better and your upkeep costs are less if you pay no attention to engines and quite a lot to what goes into them."

Mr. Wood's 44,000 trouble-free miles have proved again what Iso-Vis has demonstrated in laboratory tests, in A.A.A. tests and in the White Fleet on the road—Positive Lubrication Protection. LOESCH URGES LIQUOR CONTROL BY GOVERNMENT

Declares for Revision of 18th Amendment.

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 26.—[Special.]—In an address here tonight at the University of Chattanooga conference, Frank J. Loesch of Chicago declared prohibition a failure. He said it was because of the lack of support by a large majority of the American people. In its stead he urged a revision of the 18th amendment to permit state option subject to federal regulations of the liquor traffic.

FRANK J. LOESCH.

Under the Loesch proposal any state that so desired could retain prohibition and federal laws would forbid shipment of intoxicating liquors into a dry state. Mr. Loesch's address in part is as follows:

"The people of the several states have tried many methods of regulating the liquor traffic. In its earlier stages this business was local in character and subject to effective local control. With the expansion of our economic life it became national in scope and organization. State regulation became inadequate. Many systems of control have been tried.

Try to Extend Police Power.

"The eighteenth amendment did not follow the usual course of conferring upon congress the power to deal with the subject. It undertook to impose direct and absolute prohibition of the manufacture, importation, transportation, and sale of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes. It provided that congress and the several states should have concurrent power to enact legislation for its enforcement. For the first time in our history the effort was made by constitutional provisions to extend the police power of the federal government, in a matter affecting personal habits and conduct, directly to every person and every home in America.

Liquor Carrying General.

"The transportation of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes is absolutely prohibited by the eighteenth amendment and the national prohibition act. Yet transportation is general throughout the country by private individuals in their personal baggage and automobiles, and for commercial purposes in trucks, in passenger cars, by railway, and even by airplane.

"There has been much discussion as to the amount of intoxicating liquors now produced or consumed in the United States. Any estimate is little more than a guess. Taking the figures of the bureau, which are certainly not excessive, the amount of illegal liquor of all kinds would be equal to nearly three quarts a week for every head of a family in the United States. This is certainly not prohibition.

Profits Are Enormous.

"The profits derived by the lawless element from this illegal traffic are enormous. The profits of the illegal beer traffic are indicated by the incomes of some of those engaged in this traffic, running into hundreds of thousands of dollars each year, disclosed in recent prosecutions in Chicago. The aggregate revenues from this entire traffic have been estimated at from two billion 500 million to four billion dollars per annum. One of the most conservative estimates is about two billion 850 million dollars.

"One of the most obvious causes for the failure of national prohibition is to be found in the attitude of public opinion. It is axiomatic that no law can be enforced unless it is observed and supported by the great mass of the law-abiding people.

"The great body of the people of the United States favor temperance. Many of these do not believe that a moderate use of alcoholic liquor under proper conditions is immoral or is injurious, either in its effect upon the individual or to the community.

"But underlying this whole problem is an irresistible principle of economic law. Prior to the adoption of the eighteenth amendment, the people of the United States had been accustomed to consume over two billion gallons of alcoholic liquors per annum. The amendment destroyed the domestic sources and obstructed the existing channels of supply. The demand remained. The quality of the domestic supply has been steadily rising and the price is falling. There is clear evidence that drinking among industrial workers and the less prosperous classes of the population is increasing to a corresponding degree.

Another Step Forward.

"We have eliminated the legalized traffic and the saloon. We must now take another step forward and eliminate the bootlegger, the speakeasy, and other aspects of this illegal traffic.

"Many proposals to this end have been submitted. They are generally subject to practical or legal objections. The most obvious suggestion is that the eighteenth amendment be repealed and the entire matter be remitted to the several states. This proposal would mean the immediate reestablishment of the organized traffic and the saloon in those states which did not have prohibition at the time the eighteenth amendment was adopted.

"Experience has demonstrated that any system of liquor control, to be effective, must be complete from the source of production to the consumer. This cannot be achieved unless the federal government exercises its control over the production, importation, and transportation in interstate commerce, leaving to the states the maximum of discretion, as to local regulation and control.

Encounter Some Difficulties.

"With the improvements in transportation, within the last decade, the difficulties encountered by the states in exercising effective control prior to the eighteenth amendment would be greatly increased. No sound reason can be presented for returning to a system which has already proved ineffective and which, under modern conditions, would be even less successful. It is useless to continue to swing from one extreme to the other in dealing with this problem. The basis for a sound solution must be found in the middle ground between these extremes. It would be far better to adhere to national prohibition until the country is ready for an intelligent and constructive solution of the problem, than to return to the futile methods of state regulation which have already failed. For these reasons, among others, I am opposed to the repeal of the eighteenth amendment and the remission of the subject to the states.

"It is proposed that the eighteenth amendment shall be modified or revised to read as follows:

"Section 1. The congress shall have power to regulate or to prohibit the manufacture, traffic in, or transportation of, intoxicating liquors within, the importation thereof into, and the exportation thereof from the United States and all territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof, for beverage purposes.'

"It is next proposed, if the amendment is modified, to create a bipartisan national commission with powers, as to this subject, similar in scope to those vested in the interstate commerce commission with respect to railroads. This commission would have power to fix the alcoholic content of all liquors sold in the United States, to fix the price at which the same should be sold by the federal agencies, and to fully regulate every aspect of the matter within the legitimate scope of the federal government.

Privately Owned Stock.

"One or more national corporations would then be created by congress which would have exclusive power to manufacture, import, transport in interstate commerce, and sell to similar state agencies all liquors of more than ½ of 1 per cent alcoholic content subject to the regulations and control of the national commission. The stock of these corporations would be privately owned and they would be privately operated subject to government regulations through the commission. The profits would be limited not to exceed 7 per cent upon the capital. The excess profits would go into the federal treasury.

"Any state would have the option as to whether it would adopt the system or continue prohibition. If it adopted the system, it would create a similar limited profit corporation within the state subject to regulations by state commission, which corporation would purchase liquors from the national corporation at prices fixed by the commission, and would have the exclusive power to sell and distribute the same within the state under state regulation and control similar to that now exercised by the state commissions over public utilities. The sale of liquor would only be permitted at stores of the state corporation subject to the approval of the commission in the original packages bearing the seal of the national commission with labels showing the alcoholic content.

"In the event that the state desired to continue prohibition it would be fully protected from without by prohibiting any shipments into that state; by limiting the individual purchases in the adjoining state; and requiring an accounting therefor upon any indication of misuse. The state would enforce its own laws.

"Under the plan proposed by me there would be no possibility of return of the saloon."

Film Star Divorces Chicagoan

Walked Out

Hollywood, Cal., April 26.—[Special.]—Tom Gallery, Chicago and Los Angeles actor who turned boxing promoter, walked out of the house and the heart of his wife, Zasu Pitts, well known actress, five years ago and never returned save to see the couple's two children, Miss Pitts testified before Superior Judge Roth today. The court granted her a divorce for desertion.

"Have you asked him to return?" she was asked by her attorney.

"Yes, I have," Miss Pitts replied in a barely audible voice. "But he refused."

Under terms of a property settlement agreement, approved by the court, Miss Pitts is given custody of the two children, Ann, 9 years of age, and Don Mike, 9, adopted son. The agreement also provides for division of property.

The Gallerys were married on July 24, 1920, and separated on Nov. 24, 1926. Michael, the couple's second child, was the son of the late Barbara Lamarr, film beauty.

ARREST 15 HERE, FIVE IN TEXAS AS AUTO THEFT RING

A ring of young automobile thieves transporting stolen cars from Chicago to towns on the Texas-Mexican border is believed by the federal authorities to have been broken up with the arrest of 15 Mexicans in Chicago and 5 in southern Texas.

Those arrested in Chicago during the last week were arraigned yesterday before United States Commissioner Walker and held in bonds of $2,000 each. A preliminary hearing on charges of violating the Dyer law against interstate transportation of stolen autos will be held tomorrow.

According to Assistant United States Attorney Edward A. Fisher, the leaders of the gang are Fred Tabor, 17 years old, and Michael Cortez, 19 years old. The other prisoners here are Elaine Mascarello, Felipe Romanos Cecilia Romanos, Caperano Tovar Ysabel Tovar, Juan Tovar, Jesus Vasquez, Tony Pape, Juan Garcia, Courado Lozano, Ralph Cortez, Jesse Tovar and Jose Flores.

Two methods were used by the ring in disposing of stolen automobiles, according to Fisher. Chicago members of the gang would drive the cars to Texas and turn them over to their confederates there, or the automobiles would be sold in Chicago to Mexican families who were preparing to return to their native country, the prosecutor said.

PAID PUBLICITY TO BOOST STOCK PRICES CHARGED

La Guardia Introduces Checks to Writers.

New York Times. These writers were with the newspapers mentioned in 1924 and 1925 when they are alleged to have accepted the checks but most of them, including the New York Times man, are not with the same newspapers now.

La Guardia brought his evidence down from New York in a mysterious appearing trunk several days ago and safeguarded it at a police station, not without publicity. Then yesterday he got together with Chairman Peter Norbeck [Rep., S. D.] and the two men after some consultation with Senator Smith W. Brookhart [radical Rep., Ia.] staged today's hearing.

Newspaper men yesterday were told that a "surprise witness," whose name would be carefully guarded, would appear before the committee Wednesday. Photographers were charged to bring their cameras. Later the hearing was set forward to today. As a result of the advance publicity the largest turnout of senatorial members of the committee greeted La Guardia when he arrived, trunk and all.

Assails Exchange Officials.

President Whitney of the New York Stock exchange and Lee Higginson of the brokerage firm of Lee Higginson & Co. came in for special condemnation by La Guardia. Calling attention to the fact that Lee Higginson & Co. had handled the much deflated Kreuger stocks and bonds in this country, La Guardia asserted that if Whitney had been president of a grocery exchange and Higginson was selling canned beans and conspired to misrepresent as they do in their present occupation, both would have been indicted before now.

Questioned by several senators as to how he knew that financial writers actually had accepted money for printing favorable publicity, he said:

"Here we have the original high pressure publicity sent out by Plummer, the stories which appeared in the newspapers and the checks carrying the indorsement of the writers. That is not all. We have several other names of financial editors who received money but took cash, not checks."

Cites Motorcycle Pool.

As an example of how stocks were inflated, Mr. La Guardia called the attention to a pool which he said operated in the first six months of 1930 in Indian Motorcycle company stock. He said that Plummer had been engaged to handle the publicity by one of the managers of the pool. The brokers handling this pool, he said, were Hansell & Co., with Harry Content, a floor broker.

This stock he said, had a quiet career from 1913 until December 1929, at which time it was traded in at small lots at $5 per share. Mr. La Guardia told the committee that in December of 1929 the Hansell-Content combination "assumed the rôle of market pilots on the stock." Forty thousand new shares were issued, he said, and trading was ballyhooed until on Jan. 4, 1930, 3,700 shares were traded in.

"A publicity campaign was started," Mr. La Guardia said, "and letters were sent to brokers' customers."

In January, 1930, the volume of trading in the stock increased at a price of $4. On Jan. 11 the price had been run up to $7. Then the publicity campaign got under way, with the first statement appearing in a paper in Springfield, Mass. Subsequently an article appeared in the Boston News Bureau and an identical article in the Wall Street Journal on Jan. 6.

Purchase Rights to Engine.

Night letter telegrams were sent out citing increasing business and boosting the stock. There was actually no market for motorcycles, he continued, "so they went to London and contacted a well known motor manufacturer and purchased the American rights of an air motor for 50,000 shares of stock."

"On Feb. 8, 1930," he went on, "a story boosting this motor appeared in the London Daily Mail which later was reproduced here. In all, about 40,000 shares of this stock was dumped on American investors. The air motor was never developed. On June 28, 1930, the stock was selling at $5.50, after reaching a peak of $17, so that in a period of six months the stock had started from $5, reached a peak of $17 and then declined to its original point."

Meanwhile, Mr. La Guardia testified, Louis Coatalen, the designer of the air motor, "had visited America, disposed of his shares and returned to England, contented but disgusted."

The first series of checks was described by Mr. La Guardia in connection with two alleged pool operations in Savage Arms stock occurring in the spring and late fall of 1924. He named Jackson Bros., Boesel & Co., as the brokers in these transactions, but did not testify concerning the source of the money used for publicity. He put the following checks, all signed by Mr. Plummer, in the record:

July 24, 1924, $50 made out to cash and indorsed by J. F. Lowther, then on the New York Herald-Tribune.

July 11, 1924, $140.50 made out to cash and indorsed by William J. Gomber, then with Financial America.

July 15, 1924, $50 made out to cash and indorsed by Richard Edmondson, then with the Wall Street Journal.

Dec. 8, 1924, $184 made out to cash and indorsed by Charles T. Murphy of the New York Evening Mail.

Dec. 5, 1924, $200 made out to cash and indorsed by William J. Gomber.

Dec. 5, 1924, $200 made out to cash and indorsed by W. F. Wamsley, then with the New York Times.

Pure Oil Series.

The second series of checks indorsed by financial writers was presented by Mr. La Guardia in connection with what he termed "rigging" of Pure Oil stocks. They were entered in the record as follows:

Jan. 20, 1925, $468 made out to cash and indorsed by Richard Edmondson.

Jan. 22, 1925, $184 made out to cash and indorsed by J. F. Lowther.

Jan. 6, 1925, $284, made out to cash and indorsed by William J. Gomber.

After the hearing adjourned, Chairman Norbeck exhibited to newspaper men four specimen checks entered in the record but not included in Mr. La Guardia's testimony. The chairman said these checks had been used in one of the stock promotion campaigns but did not designate which one. The checks were drawn on the Central Union Trust company of New York City. All were made out to cash and signed by A. Newton Plummer. They follow:

Dec. 5, 1924, $184 indorsed by Charles T. Murphy.

Dec. 8, 1924, $800 indorsed by A. Newton Plummer and Herbert J. Gotterwach.

Dec. 20, 1924 $200 indorsed by W. F. Wamsley.

Mr. La Guardia withheld from the record a large number of checks which were alleged to have been given to Plummer's payoff man who distributed the cash. He suggested that the name of the payoff man be withheld until the committee has considered appropriate action.

Certain of these checks he enumerated as follows:

July 17, 1924, $300.
July 31, 1924, $1,000.
Jan. 9, 1925, $400.
Jan. 8, 1925, $600.
Jan. 23, 1925, $800.

Mr. La Guardia gave to the committee this explanation of the manner in which he charged the publicity of stock pools was promoted. Mr. Plummer, he said, would prepare an article on a particular stock and would send out copies of his stories to newspaper men, who, he said, would reprint extracts in their newspapers. Plummer operated, according to Mr. La Guardia, first under the title of publicity counsel and subsequently under the name of "The Institute of Economic Research."

He was in business for ten or fifteen years. In some instances he was given blocks of stocks which Mr. La Guardia said were utilized to convince newspaper men that his stories were good. The intimation was that the profits from advances in stocks were distributed among financial writers.

Files Letter to Press Agent.

In this connection Mr. La Guardia put into the record a letter to Plummer, signed by O. L. Gubelman, dated July 28, 1924. The letter follows:

"I am in receipt of your letter of this date confirming the publicity work on Pure Oil for one month, for which your are to receive $2,500 in cash, check for which was sent you today.

"I also hereby confirm giving you an option on 500 shares of Pure Oil common at 25, and 500 shares at 25½, good for thirty days from date hereof.

"I note from your letter that you consider the first month as running from this date to Sept. 1.

"Your very truly,

"O. L. GUBELMAN."

Under the signature of Mr. Gubelman was the initial "M."

"Did the Pure Oil action succeed?" asked Senator Gore of Oklahoma.

"I understand that all these were successes to everybody but the investor," replied Mr. La Guardia.

Mr. La Guardia gave to the committee literally thousands of newspaper clippings in connection with his testimony, and reports prepared by Plummer on the results of his activities. Mr. La Guardia testified that Plummer reported the following results of his Savage Arms promotion:

"Stories appearing 605 times in 228 newspapers, with combined circulations of approximately 11,000,000 in 157 cities with a population of about 29,000,000."

Questions Brokers' Denials.

Mr. La Guardia began his testimony with an attack on the members of the New York Stock exchange. He asserted that brokers are not telling the truth when they state they have nothing to do with the ballyhooing of stocks and the distribution of publicity designed to stimulate sales of securities.

"I am prepared to state," he said, "that any such statement is false and knowingly so. Misstatements are often profitable, and may be used to send stocks up or down. I will give you an instance. On March 3, 1932, the firm of Hornblower & Weeks sent out a statement saying, 'We anticipate a period of accumulation in anticipation of a bull market.'"

Mr. La Guardia said the statement set forth that bond prices had increased steadily and that the firm professed to anticipate further increases in February. He quoted the statement as saying that bond prices in their steady increase had appreciated 780 million dollars since January, 1932, and that the depression had actually ended. "We therefore urge the purchase of sound securities," was the advice offered by the brokers, according to Mr. La Guardia.

In the meantime, said Mr. La Guardia, no such bull market developed and no such prophecy was justified, as a study of the market showed steady declines.

Disagrees with Whitney.

Coming down to the real matter which he said brought him before the committee, Mr. La Guardia adverted to the testimony of President Whitney of the New York Stock exchange before the senate banking committee and in January, before the house judiciary committee, of which La Guardia is a member. He quoted Mr. Whitney as saying that legal regulation of the stock exchange is not necessary and then exclaimed:

"I say that statement is not true and that Mr. Whitney knew it was not true when he made it."

"Did Mr. Whitney perjure himself before this committee?" asked Senator Couzens.

"I have not read all of his testimony before this committee," replied Mr. La Guardia. "He was not under oath before our committee, but if he had been under oath we would have gone after him for perjury."

LA GUARDIA'S STOCK RIGGING INFORMANT INDICTED AS FORGER

New York, April 26.—[Special.]—Arthur Newton Plummer, whom Representative Fiorello La Guardia mentioned in his testimony before the senate finance committee in Washington today, charging that financial writers were paid to ballyhoo certain securities, is under indictment here on a charge of forging General Motors stock certificates.

Plummer, who gave his occupation as publisher and his address as the Hotel Langwell, was arrested on Jan. 9 last. Two days later he was indicted on two counts on a charge of forgery in the first degree. He is now at liberty in $5,000 bail.

Seven men were indicted with Plummer.

It is charged that all of the defendants took part in forging a certificate for eighty-five shares of General Motors stock made out to Henry W. Lindsay on March 18, 1931.

ALLMAN ORDERS POLICE QUIZ IN HOSPITAL CASE

Separate Inquiry Also by Bar Association.

Police Commissioner Allman announced yesterday that he had ordered an investigation of charges that policemen had acted as "runners" for the Keystone hospital in cases involving traffic accident victims. Dr. Lewis K. Eastman, owner and president of the hospital at 1623 North Kostner avenue, has been cited to appear before the state medical board on May 6 to answer charges of malpractice and attempted blackmail.

The complaint, drawn by the state department of registration, charges that certain policemen were engaged to bring accident victims to the hospital where legal counsel was arranged for them. Commissioner Allman will investigate records of accident cases to learn whether there is any ground for this charge.

Bar Association May Act.

Meanwhile the Chicago Bar association, through its attorney, John L. Fogle, revealed that it will look into the matter of alleged collusion between certain attorneys specializing in personal injury cases and members of the hospital staff. The grievance committee of the association is scheduled to meet at 1:30 p. m. today to discuss the charges.

Mr. Fogle also said the Bar association would be represented at the hearing before the medical board when charges will be aired that the staff of the Keystone hospital deliberately neglected three patients injured in traffic accidents so that lawyers could collect larger damage settlements.

The grievance committee, Mr. Fogle said, also plans to interview traffic victims treated at the Keystone hospital and question them on the nature and treatment of their injuries, the names of their attorneys and the manner in which the attorneys were retained.

Asks for Records.

In addition to his investigation of police "runners," Commissioner Allman asked for records of two cases in which the hospital figured. He instructed Capt. Thomas Duffy of the Cragin district to produce records in the case of Frank Pajewski, 18 years old, who was brought into the hospital with a fractured ankle on Feb. 21, 1930, and whose leg was subsequently amputated.

The other case is that of Dr. Clifford K. Timmons, arrested at the Keystone hospital by two Cragin officers, John Sloan and Walter Scully, on an abortion charge. Timmons was acquitted before Judge Samuel Trude, who termed the arrest "an outrage." In a civil action now pending, Dr. Timmons charges that he was arrested after refusing to pay blackmail.

Officers and directors of Lions International from all parts of the country attended the weekly luncheon of the Central club of Chicago in the Hotel La Salle yesterday. The guests included Julien C. Hyer of Fort Worth, Tex., international president; Charles H. Hatton of Wichita, Kas., first vice president, and Roderick Beddow, Birmingham, Ala., second vice president.

A large crowd early last evening watched firemen battle flames which swept from the basement to the roof of a four story building at 1242-44 Milwaukee avenue. Traffic in Milwaukee avenue, Division street, and Ashland avenue was tied up for more than an hour. The flames, which apparently started from an overheated furnace, were extinguished with a loss estimated at $20,000.

BEG YOUR PARDON!

It was incorrectly stated in THE TRIBUNE of last Friday that the Midland club was delinquent in the payment of 1928 and 1929 taxes on property at 21 East Van Buren street, which it leased from the L. Z. Leiter estate. The club is neither the owner nor lessor of this property. The Midland club is located on eight floors leased in a building at 17½ West Adams street and is not delinquent in any taxes. The records in the county clerk's office show that the tax bills for the Van Buren street property were sent to the Leiter estate in care of the club.

ICELANDERS AIM TO PUT STATE IN CONTROL OF RUM

Government Monopoly Would Run Business.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, April 26.—Iceland's bill for abolition of partial prohibition, which was recently introduced in the althing by a combination of two parties which together control the chamber by a huge majority, would keep the liquor business, if and when it is opened, in the hands of a government monopoly.

There is some possibility that the bill will not be voted upon before dissolution of parliament. It was introduced and sponsored by three members of the government party and two of the Independence party. These two groups control all but five seats in the althing. The other seats are held by the Socialists, who are supporters of prohibition. The bill was introduced because advocates of reform were impatient with another bill which would legalize beer.

Premier Is Prohibitionist.

Neither bill has been considered yet, and the fact that Prime Minister Thorhallsson and several other members of his government are prohibitionists may keep both bills off the floor.

Under the terms of the new measure only the government would be allowed to import intoxicants.

All sales, this measure proposes, would be left in the hands of the wine monopoly, which would be allowed to double the cost, including transportation and duty charges when marking prices for retail. The monopoly would have power to open shops in all villages of more than 300 inhabitants, but villages would be allowed to prohibit sales of intoxicants by local option if they liked.

Prohibition 20 Years Old.

Proponents of the bill point to a steady increase in drunkenness in Iceland since the 60 per cent majority voted for total prohibition 20 years ago. This has since been modified because of pressure from Spain. As Iceland's largest customer for fish, Spain refused to deal further with the island until it admitted her wines.

ASKS ANNULMENT; DIVORCE IS NEXT, THEN MARRIAGE

Meyer Marks, 2651 Devon avenue, appeared before Superior Judge Harry B. Miller yesterday seeking an annulment of his marriage to Sarah Jackson Marks of Detroit. He asked the court action so he can divorce Sofia Hoffman Marks of London, England. Then he plans to remarry Mrs. Sarah Marks and legitimize their 6 year old daughter, Marilyn. Judge Miller, convinced of Marks' sincerity, indicated he would grant the plea.

Marks explained that he married Sofia in 1912, before he emigrated to America. Shortly before he left England, he said, he had been informed that his wife had divorced him. When he entered this country he told immigration authorities he was single. He married his second wife in Detroit in 1930. Later they moved to Chicago.

Recently he learned there had been no divorce when federal authorities informed him that Sofia was seeking him through the British ambassador. They told him that to clear his record he must annul his second marriage and divorce his only legal wife. His second wife, who appeared in court yesterday, said she would help her husband in every way.

SPAIN DRAWS UP NEW RESTRICTION AGAINST CHURCH

MADRID, April 26.—(AP)—A new battle between the church and the government looms in Spain over the question of participation of the clergy in politics and subjugation of all religious beliefs to the laws of the republic.

The cabinet expects soon to submit to the national assembly a new proposal, an amplification of the so-called "religious articles" of the new constitution, which brought about the downfall of the government of President Alcala Zamora last October.

The effect of the measure would be directed primarily against the Catholic church, because about 95 per cent of the population is estimated to be Catholic.

Important points in the projected law call for equal recognition of all religious creeds before the law, but acts of worship must be confined within the churches. Outside meetings or processions must receive special government permission three days previous to their celebration. No political activities or meetings can be held within churches.

"Just THINK . . he said I looked CHEAP"

"THAT'S how I learned that there's one thing even a loving husband won't forgive . . . a cheap, painted look!"

No woman wants to repulse men in this way. Yet you may—without even knowing it. Ordinary lipstick can so easily look overdone.

Tangee can't possibly make you look painted. It isn't paint. It's a marvelous new discovery that changes on your lips to the one color most becoming to you. It brings new beauty to your make-up.

Cheeks Mustn't Look Painted!

Tangee Rouge changes on the cheeks—just the way Tangee Lipstick does on your lips. It gives the color most becoming to you . . . ends that "painted look." When you get Tangee Lipstick, ask for Tangee Rouge.

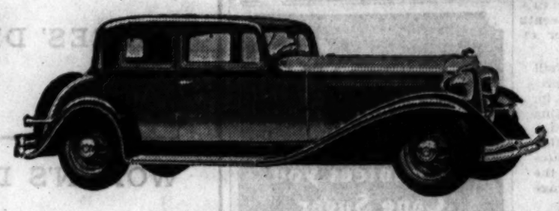
My name doesn't matter— but millions share my opinion



Even if I told you my name you wouldn't know me. I am just the average American. There are millions like me.

Like most people, I'm not an automobile expert; couldn't take a car apart and put it together again for the life of me—but I know what a car has to have and has to do to make a hit with me. And I'm here to say that I am a dyed-in-the-wool Chrysler fan.

I like the distinction and smartness of a Chrysler. I like the snap and dash, the smoothness and silence, the strength and safety of a Chrysler. There's something about a Chrysler that makes a fellow feel alive and up-to-date.

Believe me, when you get into a Chrysler and feel the wonderful results of its patented Floating Power engine mounting—when you drive a few miles with Chrysler's automatic clutch—stop a few times with Chrysler's hydraulic brakes—you don't need anybody's testimony that Chrysler is the most satisfying car on wheels.

I'm telling all my friends to drive Chryslers. It's the friendly thing to do.

HORNER STUDIES WAYS TO HELP STATE FARMERS

Their Taxes Must Be Cut, Says Nominee.

Although the election is more than six months distant, Probate Judge Henry Horner, Democratic candidate for governor of Illinois, yesterday revealed that he has been studying state problems. The plight of the farmer in particular, he said, was engaging his attention.

"Having lived all my life in Chicago, downstate folk might naturally suspect that I am indifferent to their problems," declared the nominee. "I could not have been unconcerned, however, because the difficulties of the farmers and the difficulties of the city dwellers are traceable to the same source. So long as the troubles of the farmer remain unsolved, the troubles of the cities much grow.

A Producer and Consumer.

"We are primarily, I believe, an agricultural country. Our industrial prosperity is almost entirely dependent upon the prosperity of our own farmers. The American farmer is not only a producer but a consumer as well. We cannot hope to see a recovery of our industries until the farmers acquire greater purchasing power than they enjoy now.

"I do not pretend to be, as most candidates do, a farming expert. If it should be my good fortune to be the governor of Illinois, I shall call a conference of representative farmers and ask them to select a small group of their own men to advise me on all matters affecting them. I shall find out in what manner we can influence national action, either directly through the federal government or through some association of representatives of various states.

Farmers Will Be Heard.

"I feel confident that we should thus be able to make the voice of Illinois heard on behalf of the farmers. That voice will not be simply the utterings of bankers, lawyers, or theorists. It will be the voice of the farmers themselves, pointing out their needs and offering practical solutions."

The judge pointed out that some politicians dismiss the question of the betterment of agriculture by saying that it is a national and international problem and that the governor of a state can do little to improve the lot of the farmer. This is only partly true, he asserted.

Promises Tax Reduction.

"One thing the state government can do without doubt," he said. "It can and should reduce the farmer's tax burden. Neither farm land nor city real estate can longer bear the tax burden. It has not the capacity to pay and part of that burden must be shifted from the land to something else.

"The state should aid in the development of coöperative movements amongst the farmers so that they themselves, in a measure at least, can secure the highest obtainable price for their products."

12 JAP COTTON MILLS REOPEN AT SHANGHAI

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, April 26.—Twelve Japanese cotton mills resumed work here today after having been closed for three months as a result of the Sino-Japanese hostilities.

An official report from the Japanese consulate said some 25,000 Chinese laborers, representing 40 per cent of the normal employment, resumed work. T. Funatsu, director general of the Japanese cotton mill owners' association, said no trouble was experienced in connection with the resumption of business since most of the workers were former employés.

Special precautions were taken to prevent communist elements from taking advantage of the situation to cause trouble. Several mills in the Yangtzepoo district were unable to resume work because of occupation of their premises by Japanese troops. These mills are scheduled to reopen when the troops are withdrawn.

CELEBRATE TONIGHT

MR. AND MRS. JOHN E. WILKIE.

Wed 50 Years

John E. Wilkie, former chief of the United States secret service, and Mrs. Wilkie will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary this evening with a reception in the home of their daughter, Mrs. Ira June Owen, 349 Hawthorne lane, Winnetka.

At the time of their marriage on April 27, 1882, Mr. Wilkie was a member of the staff of THE TRIBUNE. He later was city editor of this newspaper. He was made chief of the United States secret service in 1898, during the Spanish-American war. He held that office until 1910, when he was placed in charge of all special agents of the United States customs, both in the United States and abroad.

In 1913 Mr. Wilkie resigned from the federal service to become vice president of the Chicago Railways company. He still holds that position, and in addition is assistant to the vice president of the Chicago Surface Lines. Among the guests at the reception this evening will be Walter Mead of Milwaukee, who was present at Mr. and Mrs. Wilkie's wedding 50 years ago.

Mail Box Thief Given 5 Years in Leavenworth

Frank Vossel, 37 years old, 4004 Clarendon avenue, was sentenced to five years in Leavenworth prison by Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday on a plea of guilty to stealing letters from mail boxes. Emily Collins, Vossel's common law wife, and Noble Jahnke, his nephew, were given two years each for complicity in the same offense.

STIMSON SEEKS TO AVOID CRASH AT ARMS PARLEY

Deadlocked Envoys Stall; Await French Election.

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, April 26.—The disarmament conference today solemnly began the arduous task of marking time by attacking, in technical commissions, the question of what armaments are offensive and what are defensive.

The British, who want to ban submarines, contended that they represented considerable danger to civilian populations. Capital ships and aircraft carriers, Admiral Dudley Pound thought, are hardly of offensive character. During the war surface vessels, he said, were largely used for convoy work, but submarines did lots of harm to civilians.

Italy Attacks Capital Ships.

The Italians figured that capital ships and submarines were of particularly offensive nature and that aircraft vessels represented considerable danger to civilian populations.

Baron Werner C. von Rheinbaben, reiterating the German proposals to abolish ships over 10,000 tons, said that at the Washington conference it was agreed that ships above a certain size and guns above a certain caliber were offensive. Germany was forbidden submarines, he said, so as to deprive her of means of offensive action. At the moment, Baron Rheinbadan said, Germany is not pushing its proposal for the abolition of fortresses commanding narrow waterways.

Senator Claude A. Swanson, American delegate, kept his powder dry during the discussion. Apparently he is reserving his fire for later.

Stimson Seeks to Avoid Crash.

While the technicians were splitting hairs, American Secretary of State Stimson, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain, and Chancellor Bruening of Germany talked about the real issues, on which this conference is deadlocked. Bruening was asked how far he would push his demand for equality of armaments with France. The chancellor is understood to have made it clear that since Adolf Hitler's cleanup in Prussia, a German surrender on this is even less likely. He intimated, though, that immediate and actual equality was not necessarily required.

Premier Tardieu of France was due today, but he did not appear. He sent word that he would appear Friday. Stimson, Bruening, and MacDonald thereupon decided to wait upon him in hopes of getting somewhere in the second clinch. Stimson, it was learned, had hoped to leave Friday, but is willing now to stay over the week-end in expectation of getting Bruening and Tardieu, with MacDonald's help, into a compromise to save the conference.

LAYMAN DEFENDS CHURCH AGAINST RACKET CHARGE

Charges that the Episcopal church has degenerated into a racket were vigorously denied last night by Angus S. Hibbard, widely known business man and churchman. The accusation was made Monday by the Rev. Irwin St. John Tucker before the Episcopal clergy round table at St. James church. The Rev. Mr. Tucker asserted the church is not meeting present day needs and that money getting is its chief aim.

"Mr. Tucker's charge is not borne out by results," said Mr. Hibbard in reply. "It is not true that children swarm out of Episcopal churches into other communions. That accusation probably indicates present day experiences of some individuals."

Mr. Hibbard said that church and Sunday school attendance and confirmations have increased in the past two years. He stated that the charitable work had been greatly expanded.

"Local expenditures have been cut to the bone but the expense of doing good in the community has been increased," he continued. "The reports of the Cathedral shelter, where more than 12,000 homeless men are fed and housed each month, and other central agencies show increased aid."

JAPAN LAUNCHES GREAT OFFENSIVE IN MANCHURIA

BULLETIN.

HARBIN, Manchuria, April 27.—Wednesday.—(AP)—The Japanese army today began its largest offensive since the capture of Chinchow last December when three brigades under Lieut. Gen. Hirose moved out against a force of Chinese troops estimated to number 20,000.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, April 26.—The Japanese government is ready to give favorable consideration to a new formula for Japanese evacuation of Shanghai offered by Sir Miles W. Lampson, British minister to China, who is a member of the league of nations mixed commission on Shanghai.

Sir Miles' proposal, which, if accepted, would be embodied in an annex to the armistice under consideration, is that the Japanese retain liberty to keep troops at Shanghai until effective suppression of the Chinese boycott of Japanese goods is provided for, and that the mixed commission be authorized to call attention to any neglect in carrying out the armistice terms, such as delay in evacuation.

Still Balk at League Plan.

The Japanese government states, however, that it cannot accept the resolution of the league committee of nineteen for settlement of the Shanghai question, even if it is modified by the incorporation of the Lampson plan, since this would involve the admission by Japan that article XV. of the league covenant is applicable, which Japan has steadfastly denied. Article XV. provides that disputes may be brought before the council, which will try to assist the parties to effect a settlement. Failing this, the council has authority by a majority vote to make public its own recommendations.

League Backs Down.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, April 26.—The league of nations assembly's committee of nineteen, to which has been entrusted the task of getting the Japanese army out of Shanghai, decided tonight that if faced with the realities of an independent settlement at Shanghai, it would have to accept it and remake its own resolution to fit.

At today's meeting the British proposed an amendment to the committee's resolution to bring it into harmony with the armistice terms arranged by Sir Miles W. Lampson and Mamoru Shigemitsu, British and Japanese ministers to China, which are reported to have been accepted by Nanking. The small powers had to admit, although they are displeased, that the league will have to swallow the situation.

Name Successor to Gen. Ma.

CHANGCHUN, Manchuria, April 26.—(AP)—The government today appointed Gen. Cheng Chih-yuan as acting governor of Heilung-kiang province in place of Gen. Ma Chan-shan.

They're Milder and they Taste Better too"

THERE'S SOMETHING DIFFERENT about the flavor of CHESTERFIELDS—something about the blending and cross-blending of fine tobaccos—that gets to you, every time.

THERE'S SOMETHING DIFFERENT about their mildness, too. It is the mildness that comes from the ripest, sweetest, mellowest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos. There is no bitterness in them . . . no harshness.

THERE'S SOMETHING DIFFERENT about the taste. It is that good, pleasing taste that comes from the right kind of tobacco, cured in the right way—cured for two years or more. It means that to make CHESTERFIELD Cigarettes, millions of dollars are tied up in tobacco leaf—but it's worth it.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

TELLING IT TO THE STOCKHOLDERS.

Mr. Vincent Bendix is the latest of a number of corporation executives to send a letter to the stockholders of his company calling attention to the menace of high taxes. He has asked the stockholders, if they agree with him, to make their wishes in the matter known to their congressmen.

Similar letters were sent to the stockholders of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. and of the Commercial Investment Trust and, no doubt, of other corporations as well. It is to be hoped that the appeal of the executives of these companies will be echoed by all other corporations, for by such means the citizens of this country who have a stake in its stability can be aroused to the menace which confronts them.

As Mr. Bendix well said:

"In recent days and weeks . . . you have seen a steady drop in security prices, due largely to a governmental policy which undermined public confidence and which threatens to strangle the future of American industry at a time when business needs encouragement, not demoralization. . . .

"Industrial corporations have been obliged by the necessity of the times to reduce dividends, salaries, and wages. Why should these corporations which have already reduced expenditures to meet depressed conditions be saddled with increased taxes? Why should the financial security of the government be endangered by extravagance? The first act of the government toward the balancing of the national budget should be not additional taxes but the enforcement of a rigid economy program.

"The taxes proposed by congress to meet these ever growing expenditures of government will reduce the purchasing power of the consuming public and will add to the costs of the products of industry. Increased costs at this time mean a loss in sales, a reduction in productive activity, and an increase in unemployment. In turn, loss of sales and production drives costs still higher and further impairs our national prosperity."

Mr. Bendix's statement is supported by the movement of stock exchange prices since the tax bill has been under discussion. On March 8 the average closing price of fifty stocks used in THE TRIBUNE barometer was $78.82. On April 23, the day on which Mr. Bendix's letter was made public, the average had fallen to $51. Possibly all of this enormous loss was not caused by the tax bill, but it is difficult to escape the conclusion that the tax bill is responsible for most of it.

Mr. Bendix might have made another point with respect to the congressional tax program. The crushing estate taxes which are contemplated can only result in the enforced liquidation of whatever kind of property is found in large estates. If the decedent owned stocks, bonds, real estate, or anything else, the holdings must be thrown on the market within a few months of his death and this kind of liquidation inevitably causes loss not only to the heirs but to every other holder of similar property. The necessity of liquidating, for example, a hundred thousand shares of United States Steel stock must depreciate the value of all the company's shares and collaterally of the shares of all companies for which this stock serves as a barometer. The loss suffered by the heirs is negligible compared to the loss taken by the country as a whole from this kind of expropriation.

Precisely the same principle applies to enforced liquidation of other forms of property. The forced sale of a business block downtown cannot fail to have its influence on the value of all other business blocks.

The estate tax increases contemplated by congress are expected to bring in no more than 30 or 35 million dollars, but the collection of that sum will cause losses many times as large. It is curious that the same congress which could set up the Reconstruction corporation to put an end to the insanity of liquidation which has seized the country could also contemplate an estate tax which will give new impetus to liquidation.

WHY LAWYERS ARE AGAINST PROHIBITION.

According to the Literary Digest's poll on prohibition, the legal profession of all the professions is strongest for repeal. Lawyers are voting three to one for repeal and in no state is a majority in favor of further continuance of the prohibition experiment.

The fact is not surprising. Lawyers are naturally better informed as to the shocking results of prohibition upon law enforcement than any other profession, and by education they grasp the significance of conditions from the viewpoint of government. They know better than the layman the nature of law and the essentials and limits of its enforcement. They also realize more fully than most laymen that the intrusion of a police ordinance into the fundamental law of the nation is a mischief of the most serious character.

In short, the 18th amendment not only has produced the evils against which laymen are revolting throughout the country, but it is a repudiation of governmental and legal principles which lawyers more than laymen have come to realize was and is certain to demoralize the law and government of a free people. The legal profession was not as foresighted, as prompt to grasp the governmental implications of national prohibition as it should have been and would have been if constitutional law were as important a part of professional instruction and thought as it was in previous generations. It was almost as willing to try the experiment and has been as patient with its foreordained failures as laymen. But bar polls have shown in recent years that this complacency no longer exists. The leaders of the bar are overwhelmingly opposed to prohibition and discussion of its constitutional aspects has taken a more and more conspicuous place in public controversy.

A WAY OUT FOR THE UNEMPLOYED.

Get the unemployed and their families out of the cities and back on the land where they can be self-sustaining. That is a proposal which is frequently made as a solution of our present difficulties and it is alluring. It happens to be the solution which was applied in all our previous major depressions. As long as there was a frontier, with virtually free land awaiting any one who cared to occupy it, this country had a safety valve for times of depression.

A great many people think that the frontier is gone. In one sense, of course, that is true. There is relatively little unbroken land left in this country and not many places where wild game can be counted upon as an auxiliary food supply. Likewise there are no menacing Indians. But there are vast areas of good farm country which can be had almost for the asking, lands which have reverted to the state for taxes or reverted to the mortgage owner through foreclosure. The land is there, and the improvements are in. The real question is, Do the unemployed in the cities want it? Would they occupy it if they could?

Those are questions to which, we confess, we do not know the answers. If considerable numbers of factory workers, out of employment, want to become self-sustaining on the land, it might be possible to devise a means of placing them on farms. But if the unemployed prefer to take their chances in the cities it would be only a waste of time to try to organize a back-to-the-land movement.

Accordingly, THE TRIBUNE invites its readers, particularly the unemployed, to let us know whether they would like to leave the cities behind and try to earn a living as farmers. Needless to say, this is not an offer of financial assistance in getting back to the land. It is merely an inquiry to discover if any considerable number of families want to make the effort and risk what savings they have left in an attempt to help themselves. If they do, perhaps something can be done about it.

Farming is hard work. The hours are long and the return in money is small. It is probable that the emigrants from the cities would be given relatively small plots of land and encouraged to use it not to grow cash crops, but to supply their own needs. A little pasture, a little corn, a relatively large vegetable garden, a few pigs, a cow or two and, of course, chickens, would be enough, if well managed, to keep a family safe from starvation and preserve self-respect. The question is, Do the unemployed want to try the experiment? We invite replies. Address them to the Voice of the People.

BLOCKING LAW REFORMS.

An example of the obstruction well considered reforms of legal procedure meet in legislatures is the refusal of the codes committee of the New York assembly to report favorably a bill compelling defendants in criminal cases to give notice before trial of the intention to prove an alibi, to state the place at which the defendant claims to have been, and the witnesses who saw him or her there.

Ohio and Michigan have such laws and they have worked well. The Panel, publication of the New York County Grand Jurors' association, which, with other legal authorities, sponsors the measure for New York state, says:

"Why should the state be subject to an ambush at the last minute? Why should not an innocent defendant be more than willing to give his alibi and have the police aid in finding his witnesses for him? They would be glad to do so because a wrongful conviction militates against their reputation."

The only explanation vouchsafed for its action by the codes committee was that it would interfere with the orderly procedure of the law. What it would interfere with is the disorderly procedure of the law. The committee's attitude is characteristic of the bourbonism in legislatures which blocks so many needed improvements in legal procedure. The lay public should light a fire under the small bore lawyers who are sent to legislatures and are the chief obstructionists of law reforms initiated and supported by the ablest men in their profession.

MORE OF THE GOSPEL.

[The Sun, Baltimore.]

M. Tardieu, the French prime minister, is a well advertised "practical" man. He has no time, so one often hears, for illusions and dreams. So it is especially interesting to read that he proposes to intensify the French quota system, the champions of which claim it to be simply a logical development of the protective tariff system. And also to read that at the same time he warns French manufacturers they must reduce costs, else they will be crowded out of the world markets when the depression ends.

The interesting thing about this, of course, is the picture of another of these "practical" statesmen who believe that a nation may pamper its industries behind walls of protection and simultaneously convince the owners of the industries that they must get their affairs down to rock bottom. It sounds very much like ourselves. It particularly sounds like much of the talk that accompanied our post-war emergency tariff act, which was designed to take care of an extraordinary situation, so it was explained, and not to establish a policy, but was followed by the unprecedentedly high Fordney-McCumber act, and then by the still higher Smoot-Hawley act.

In the meantime, our "practical" statesmen, our "hard-headed" gentlemen who have no time for illusions and dreams, may rejoice at the further extension of the quota system by the French. It was in 1930, about the time we were putting the finishing touches on our Smoot-Hawley law, that the French began to limit imports by fixing quotas. At first the quota system applied to imports of agricultural products. But, like all devices of protectionism, it has spread like wildfire. And now no one can be sure that the next few months will not see the system fixed on virtually all French imports. Especially on imports from America.

Our business people have done considerable screaming, and our embassy in Paris has done considerable protesting. But Reed Smoot and his crew will understand what all this is worth, and one must suppose that they will applaud this further application of the doctrine that we may all become rich by refusing to deal with each other.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

WHAT THEY'LL TALK ABOUT.

("President Hoover and Gov. Roosevelt may sit almost side by side and within easy chatting distance at the dinner to be given at the White House Thursday night."—Washington News.)

THE PRESIDENT—Very happy to see you here, governor. What do you think of our little city?

THE GOVERNOR—Wonderful place! Never enjoyed myself so much in my life. What a pleasure it must be to live here.

THE PRESIDENT—Yes, it's nice, but—ah—terribly hot in summer.

THE GOVERNOR—Oh, I suppose so, but then it's hot anywhere in summer. This is a beautiful house, a beautiful house; what a pleasure it must be to live here.

THE PRESIDENT—Oh, yes; yes, indeed. A very nice house to live in, but—terribly noisy in a way, people going and coming all the time.

THE GOVERNOR—Ah, yes, going and coming, going and coming. I was thinking of that.

THE PRESIDENT—I mean the various people who come in and out all the time, diplomats popping in one door and out another every few minutes and tourists and brides and grooms and reporters and statesmen and all that sort of thing.

THE GOVERNOR—Um-yes! But, of course, one gets used to anything. Ah, what a beautiful house to live in!

THE PRESIDENT—Well, yes. That is—yes and no. It's pretty drafty, the rooms are so high and so big. And it's shut in by the Treasury building on one side, the State, Army and Navy building on the other, and all the skyscraper bureaus that have sprung up all around it. It cuts the breeze and makes it pretty hot in summer.

THE GOVERNOR—But the view and the lawn and the trees and the flowers! Magnificent! Simply magnificent!

THE PRESIDENT (confidentially)—The cook has been complaining a good deal about the kitchen sink, and the plumbing in some of the bathrooms isn't extra good. You know this is a very old house, and the best of houses when they get old are bound to develop objectionable features. Then there's lots of noise out in Pennsylvania avenue, which passes right in front of the house; street cars clanging their bells, sightseeing buses with big lunged conductors yelling at the tops of their voices, taxis and autos honking their horns and back firing and everything. I don't think you would get the rest here, governor, that you do in Albany. It may look attractive, but—well (impressively), there's a thorn to every rose.

THE GOVERNOR—What a wonderful house this is. I simply can't get over it. And the rent is free, I believe. And no taxes or upkeep expenses.

THE PRESIDENT—Yes, that's all very true. But there's a lot of paintings hung in the house that cannot be removed or covered up. Believe me, it's a terrible strain to have to live here and look at them every day.

THE GOVERNOR—Oh, well, one can get used to anything. My, what a perfectly lovely house to live in.

THE PRESIDENT—And that isn't all. You must remember it is a very old house and has had lots of tenants and many a drama; even tragedies have been enacted under this roof and (whispering) I think it's haunted! No person with nerves or imagination could stand it to live here.

THE GOVERNOR—What, ghosts! I love 'em! Oh, what a wonderful house! How perfectly fascinating it must be to live here!

THE PRESIDENT—Well, don't say I didn't warn you.

THE GOVERNOR (reflectively)—I wonder how long it would take moving vans to bring household goods down here from Albany.

THE PRESIDENT—I beg your pardon?

THE GOVERNOR—Oh, nothing. I was just thinking out loud. But as I was saying—what a beautiful house to live in.

AND NOW who is this Forgotten Man that Mr. F. Roosevelt, the w. k. candidate, speaks so often and so sadly about? With all kinds of tax collectors after him and laws being made every five minutes to stick more and better taxes on him we can't think of any man in this great country that is really forgotten. And it isn't the man who owns an auto. Let him try to run around with a last year's license on his car; about sixteen cops will tell him in sixteen minutes that he isn't forgotten. And it isn't the man who hasn't a job, the grocery man and the butcher and, oh, so many more, remember him right along. Now, who is this Forgotten Man anyhow? And who forgot him? And why?

AND NOW THE PAPERS throb with the news that an old house in which O. Henry once lived or boarded or walked past in Austin, Tex., has been bought by some of his frenzied followers and is to be turned into a "literary shrine." That sort of thing has become a regular rage and it won't be long before literary shrines are going to be as plentiful throughout the country as hot dog stands, filling stations, and speakeasies. Oh, if O. Henry were only here today! What a grand story he could write about the literary shrine—nertz.

WHY EAT NUTS?

THE use of nuts as a food has never been on a proper basis. We eat them as something of a teaser in connection with our full meals—not to say overfull meals. When used in this way they are placed within reach with the expectation that they will be nibbled during the soup course and before the heavy foods come on. When served in this manner they are eaten largely because they are salted, and thus they do some harm in that they contribute to an excessive intake of salt. Some salads contain a small proportion of nuts.

Probably the principal eating of them is not that done at mealtime, and as a part of meals, but between meal munching. All between meal munching, whether done by adults or by children, does more harm than good. Whatever prevailing method of nut eating we consider the conclusion is essentially the same—it is wrong in principle.

Nuts are so rich in food values that they deserve to rank with bread, cereals, and meats. They are rich in proteids and carbohydrates, in the first of these qualities ranking along with other vegetable potein foods such as soy beans and peas; in the second, ranking with grain foods. Nut meat is richer in fats than lean meats, ranking not far below lean bacon and fat fish. It is richer by far in this food element than are the flours and cereals except those that contain germ as well as starch. Not even the germ including flours quite reach the fat level of nut meats.

In view of all this the claim is made, and can be sustained, that nuts deserve to be ranked along with other staples. That they have not been is because no one has found a way to market them in the standard way that meats and flours are marketed. They become rancid too readily and no one has found an easy, practical way to prevent this. They are too perishable for such trade conditions as are in vogue in, say, the sale of barrel flour.

Another reason runs to the doorsteps of our cooks and dietitians. There are not many nut dishes, and in those we have they are used too much as a garnish. We have a limited number of nut breads and they surpass plain breads in favor always. However, these make use of a sprinkling of nuts for the purposes of flavor. Coarsely ground or pulverized nut meat can be easily mixed in doughs and cooked in an integral part of the bread, and not as a more or less foreign body therein.

There are many kinds of breads, cakes, and crackers that are made with an excess of shortening. The fats of nuts can very well replace the vegetable and animal fats used to give this quality to breads. They supply flavors and calories as well as shortening.

PROBABLY ON WRONG TRACK.

2. What causes it?
3. Does it affect the kidneys?
4. Will dieting help troubles due to uric acid?
5. I am 55 years old, in perfect health, no bad habits. A year ago I noticed a sore place on my elbow. Later it became lame, and now it has extended to the shoulder and all ligaments are stiff and sore. I apply hot applications with little results. I would appreciate your opinion.

REPLY.

1. An organic acid, somewhat akin chemically to urea. A generation ago physicians charged it with diseases enough to fill a five foot shelf.
2. It is the waste product caused by breaking down of the nuclei of cells.
3. To a limited extent. It sometimes forms gravel and stones and thus causes kidney colic. It may possibly be a cause of some forms of Bright's disease.
4. Yes. A person who is subject to gout and other diseases due to uric acid should eat freely of vegetables, and sparingly of meats and eggs, coffee, tea, spices, condiments; and alcoholic beverages should not be consumed. Potatoes and bananas are about the two best foods.
5. You probably have either rheumatism or neuritis. Probably uric acid is not the cause of your trouble.

HAVE AN EXAMINATION.

A Reader writes:

1. Does pleurisy lead to tuberculosis if it lingers, say for a year?
2. Can pleurisy be cured say by operation, that is, in draining the lungs?

REPLY.

1. Yes. More frequently it is tuberculosis, and tuberculosis of the lungs succeeds that of the pleura.
2. There are many kinds of pleurisy. Some varieties are cured by operation.

DIFFICULT TO COLLECT.

Chicago, April 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am a widow with two sons, 31 and 29 respectively. The older one has left home. 1. According to law, is he compelled to send me money, even though my other son is home and working? 2. Also, if the older son moves to the state of Indiana, would this law of sending money still hold good? 3. He intends getting married very soon. In that case does the law provide that he continue to send me money? M. B.

1. Our pauper act requires near relatives to contribute according to their means to the support of destitute persons except that married women are not required to contribute unless they have independent means. Apply to the bureau of public welfare in the county building.
2. Ordinarily it is difficult, if not impracticable, to enforce collection as against nonresidents.
3. It would remain a matter dependent upon your need and his ability to pay.

INSANITARY MEAT MARKET.

Chicago, April 22. — [Friend of the People.]—My work takes me to many retail food stores and I often wonder why the different city bureaus are so lax in their duties. At one particular place on Halsted street there is a meat market which has no license. The owner claims he can "get by" without one. The premises also are in a very insanitary condition. Toilet and sinks are foul, the water leaks on the floor, there is a broken drain pipe, and an old, dirty and rusty galvanized iron covered table is used while making sausage. Also, a very dangerously weak trap door may be found on the floor of the back room. T. M.

An inspector was assigned to make an inspection of the meat market referred to and orders were issued to abate the insanitary conditions. The owner has promised this office full compliance. Another inspection will be made and if conditions are not satisfactory the necessary action will be taken. HERMAN N. BUNDESEN,
President, Board of Health.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE.

East Chicago, Ind., April 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—The mortgage on a building is foreclosed and the former owner is living in one of the apartments. Who is entitled to collect the rent for the first year? J. G.

During the fifteen months allowed for redemption the former owner can collect the rent unless a receiver is appointed.

CHINA-JAPAN WAR, 1895

TIENTSIN, Feb. 18.—The Tsung-li Yamen has requested Mr. Denby, United States minister to China, to suggest to Japan that the peace envoys appointed by the two countries meet at Port Arthur or some place near Tientsin in order to suit the convenience of Li Hung Chang, one of the Chinese envoys. The Chinese government has requested John W. Foster, former secretary of state of the United States, who was selected to assist the Chinese envoys in peace negotiations and who is now at Shanghai, to meet Li Hung Chang at Tientsin.

PEKING, Feb. 22.—Li Hung Chang will turn over the office of viceroy of Pee-Che-Lee to his successor tomorrow and will have an audience with the emperor at Peking on Feb. 25 preparatory to assuming the duties of peace commissioner to Japan.

YOKOHAMA, Feb. 25.—Dispatches received from the commander of the Japanese forces at Hai Cheng say a force of 17,000 Chinese, supported by twenty guns, recently attacked the Japanese troops at that place but retreated after the Chinese artillery had been silenced by the fire of the Japanese batteries.

LONDON, Feb. 24.—The Times will publish a dispatch tomorrow from Kobe, Japan, saying another Japanese force is being mobilized at Hiroshima for the purpose, it is supposed, of making an attack on the island of Formosa.

PARIS.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Matin says: "I learn from a sure source that the Vladivostok squadron yesterday sank four Japanese transports which were conveying 4,000 men."

LONDON.—A dispatch to the Telegraph from Tokio says the Japanese certainly are taking steps to cut off the retreat of the Vladivostok squadron from Gensan. A dispatch to the Chronicle from Shanhaikwan says the report that the railway has been cut between Port Arthur and Newchwang is confirmed.

LIAOYANG.—Between last night and this morning the Japanese forced a passage of the Yalu. Two companies crossed in the vicinity of Wiju. Heavy firing was heard near Tatungkau, where it is believed the Japanese made a feint in order to distract attention from the real point of passage. So far no bridge spans the river. It is believed the Russian fire destroyed the floating parts of the Japanese bridges.

PRINCETON, N. J.—Former President Grover Cleveland announced today that he would deliver a "Henry Stafford Little lecture" on May 2, his subject being "Circumstances of the Chicago Riots of 1894." The riots occurred in his second administration. The lectureship was founded by Mr. Little, Princeton, '44, who died last Sunday, and Mr. Cleveland, his personal friend, was appointed holder. Mr. Cleveland has been unable to deliver lectures for the last two years.

LONDON.—Sir Roger Casement is now a prisoner in the Tower of London. He was moved there on April 25 from Brixton jail. He is reported to have maintained a good front and apparently is without hope of escaping death for treason. It is believed his trial will be speedy. The British government has taken a new and drastic step regarding the Dublin revolt. This was announced in the publication of a proclamation suspending in Ireland section 1 of the defense of the realm amendment act of 1915 which gives to a British subject charged with an offense under the act the right to be tried by a civil court. British regulars from Belfast and England are now in Dublin and have recaptured from the revolutionary faction several important centers which the members of the Sinn Fein party and their adherents had occupied. Marshal law has been declared in the city and county of Dublin. Premier Asquith announced in the house of commons that outside of Dublin the country was tranquil.

FIELD HEADQUARTERS IN MEXICO.—Two Americans were killed and three wounded in an engagement between cavalrymen under Col. George A. Dodd and 260 Villa bandits at Tomachic, in the center of the Sierra Madres, in western Chihuahua, on April 22. The Villa command, under four chiefs, Baca, Cerventes, Dominguez, and Rios, was surprised in the mountains. Reports made no mention of Villa himself being with the band.

TORREN, Mexico.—American Consul Coen at Durango City has advised all Americans to leave the city and is himself considering the advisability of going to the border. A serious situation has been caused through anti-American agitation which has been carried on since the American soldiers and Mexicans clashed at Parral.

NEW YORK.—Fresh revolts have broken out in Prague and other Bohemian cities and members of prominent Bohemian families, including Miss Alice Mazaryk, well known in Chicago and New York for her social settlement work, have been executed by the government, according to advices said to have been received here by the Bohemian National alliance from secret sources in Austria.

NONUNION ELEPHANTS.

Chicago, April 22.—It was with wonder and no little astonishment that I saw the picture of circus elephants being put to work on the World's Fair buildings. True, at some things they take the place of many workmen. However, I cannot believe that God Almighty ever intended that beasts of the jungle should take the food from the mouths of our people. With so many bread winners crying for work it is inconceivable that circus menageries should be requisitioned to do a part of keeping us hungry.

I belong to an organization of laboring men that donated $15,000 to the fair, not in promises, but in cash. The picture of our president was published handing the check to World Fair officials. Then times were better and we were all eating regularly. Still I believe the donation was made to help Chicago and her laboring men. Also it is the common working class that support big amusement enterprises and I believe if Sells Floto appreciate this fact they will recall their elephants and make room for humans to feed their families without seeking charity. JOHN L. BYRNE.

THE JOY RIDE.

Chicago, April 20.—J. M. M. on veteran relief seems all right to me.

He lives best his life who finds therein one grand moment. The war was not all tears and agony, and even if it were, for those who came out whole, and of course they were the great majority, it gave them something better to remember than the depression or contract bridge.

But there are certain facts obtainable in regard to the abuses in war compensation and the expense of it. THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE might do well to reveal them. I know a man who has been too rich to have to work who draws monthly compensation for an injury sustained ten years after the war; at least he told me so. I knew the case of a woman whose husband was a civil war veteran who had asked for nothing all his life, who, on the husband's death, inheriting from him a million dollars, immediately asked for a pension and took $30 a month until she died.

TOO MUCH ABOUT PROHIBITION.

Waukegan, Ill., April 22.—As I have been in Illinois for several weeks I have been reading THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. I had looked forward to the pleasure of reading it, but I must say I have been greatly disappointed.

You seem to have an obsession for the wet and dry issue. As one opens each page this hits one between the eyes. Perhaps the fanatical wets or drys may enjoy this constant thumping on one string, but, to use a common expression, I am "bored to tears" by it.

If the 18th amendment should be repealed do you fancy the millennium will be ushered in? You may be fooling a lot of morons that such will be the case. If you could be more sane and reasonable you might accomplish your purpose, but your exaggerated and biased statements cannot convince thinking people and may drive them into the ranks of the drys. A VISITOR.

HONEST.

Chicago, April 23.—On Wednesday, April 20, as I was about to board a train at State and Van Buren streets, a young man tapped me on the shoulder and wanted to know if I had lost any money. Upon investigation, I found I had dropped $15 out of my purse. Without question he handed me back the above amount.

In the present distressful times it was more than honorable on his part, as well as a very lucky break for me.

In my excitement at the moment, I am afraid I was a little inadequate in my thanks, but I want to assure this young man that words failed me because of the thought of what the loss of the money meant to me. A. C.

NORTH PACIFIC GRAIN GROWERS.

Chicago, April 22.—The undersigned is one of the directors of the North Pacific Grain Growers, Inc., a regional organization of the Farmers' National Grain corporation. Our territory is the states of Oregon, Washington, Idaho, and that portion of Montana which ships its wheat to the Pacific coast.

I am in Chicago at the present time representing our regional organization before the grain freight rate hearing, now in progress before the interstate commerce commission at the Hotel Sherman.

I noticed in your issue of April 21 an article headed "$50,000 Bribe Denied by Grain Head." I am frank to say that I know nothing of the controversy between Mr. Edward E. Kennedy of Kankakee, secretary of the National Farmers' union and Mr. C. E. Huff, president of Farmers' National Grain corporation. However, this article closed with a reference to the North Pacific Grain Growers, Inc., and I am quite familiar with conditions in that organization, and wish to state, as a member of the board of directors, that Farmers' National has never taken over our organization, nor have we sold out to the farm board.

The North Pacific Grain Growers is still a stockholder member of Farmers' National and is in a very healthy and prosperous condition, having been operated last year at a profit of $102,000, which profit would have gone to the grain trade had we been out of the business. If Mr. Kennedy's statement regarding Mr. Huff and the Farmers' National is no more true than his statement regarding the condition of the North Pacific Grain Growers, I am afraid not much confidence can be placed in his assertions. ROY W. RITNER.

MR. MELLON'S BREECHES.

Chicago, April 19.—I do not know who provides the wardrobe for our foreign ambassadors, but if the government does it would be quite a saving to instruct Andy Mellon not to spend any money for knee breeches when he makes his bow to the "kink," but to simply roll up his regular pants and roll them down again when he leaves.

The money saved thereby could be used to buy American soda pop and near beer when it comes Andy's turn to set 'em up to George, and he wouldn't violate the laws of the country he represents. ARMIN SEITZ.

A SOURCE OF REVENUE.

Chicago, April 20.—While our lawmakers are hunting for things to tax why don't they place a good stiff tax on good American money that is being sent back to their native lands by foreigners, both naturalized and unnaturalized? Millions are taken from domestic circulation annually in this manner. How can they find out who sends it and when? I have no suggestion on that point, but I have great faith in the government since they have become so adept at finding out other details of our private lives.

SUGGESTION.

THE ELECTION OF CROWE.

Chicago, April 23.—I have just examined a list of the ward committeemen of both parties who have been successful in the recent election and, to my astonishment, I find that T. J. Crowe of sanitary district notoriety retains his place in the 37th ward. Can it be that the Democrats of this ward approve and indorse the saturnalia of graft and whoopee that flourished under his administration in the sanitary district?

S. O. DOHERTY.

ALLEGED COST OF PHONES.

Evanston, Ill., April 21.—A friend employed by the Western Electric company informs me that the cradle type phones, complete with dial mechanism, cost $1.47 each to manufacture. Readers complaining about the 25c monthly charge may be interested. G. W. B.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The Young Revolutionist," by Pearl S. Buck. [Friendship Press and John Day.] Published tomorrow.

"THE GOOD EARTH," by Pearl S. Buck, was published on March 9 of last year. It was the second novel from a pen whose first book had created so little of a ripple in the literary pond that "The Good Earth" was, so far as the public was concerned, a first novel. It was the story of a simple Chinese peasant and his wife, majestically silent, cloutish exteriorally, inside herself rich and fertile like the earth itself.

PEARL S. BUCK.

It was not a "jolly" book nor an adventurous one. Birth, starvation, tragedy, man's cruelty to his fellow man—and woman—took their way through the pages impressing the reader more with the solemnity of living and its difficulty than with any zest in it. And yet, so potent, is real genius in any work of art, "The Good Earth" found its audience and gave that audience something which it wanted to share with a greater and greater one, until this novel about a Chinese peasant reached heights of popularity which books of the last few years have rarely touched. It has been continuously one of the six best sellers, leading the list for much of the time.

New Book Lacks Power of Other.

Tomorrow there will be published the first book to come from Mrs. Buck's pen since "The Good Earth" made that pen known wherever English is read. It is called "The Young Revolutionist." It is a small volume—really a long short story. It, too, is about China. But at that point the similarity between it and its predecessor ceases. It has none of the rich beauty and power of "The Good Earth." It does not purport to be a novel of the scope of "The Good Earth," nor a novel at all. It is a story simple enough almost for children, of a Chinese boy and how he came to feel "love country," and how he found that the foreign devils were not devils at all but strangely brothers.

Ko-sen was a youth stricken with a grievous disease which no one could cure. For months he lay unconscious. Then his parents took him to the temple and promised him as a priest if he only might not die. When Ko-sen awoke from his long fever to find himself a prisoner in the temple walls, destined for a lifetime of priestly service, separated forever from his mother and his father and his little sister and his little yellow dog, all of whom he loved with a passion, he began figuring on means of escaping.

Takes Refuge in Army.

Also bound to the temple was Fah-li, an orphan who found Ko-sen a brother. Together they finally made their escape and found themselves members of a group of young Chinese who were being trained as soldiers of the revolution. To Ko-sen and Fah-li the revolution meant nothing except a refuge from the searching arm of the temple law. Mrs. Buck describes their lives as recruits and the one great battle in which they took part. In the battle Fah-li was wounded, and when Ko-sen found him death was near. But a strange white faced doctor—accompanied by a native helper—found Ko-sen mourning over his friend, vainly trying to help him, and after much discussion succeeded in taking the two boys to an American hospital, where Ko-sen was to see for the first time the miracle of service for no reward but itself and loving care given not because there were ties of family or friendship, but simply because all men are brothers.

Fah-li died turning to the white doctor with the words "Father, Father" on his lips, and Ko-sen made his way home, passionately eager to see his mother and his sister and his father.

Young China Ko-sen may be, not knowing itself. But "The Good Earth" has no such doubts and questionings. It is old China, the China which is deeply rooted in the soil which gives the book its title.

Ancient Houses United by Ceremony.

JODHPUR, Rajputana Agency, India, April 26.—(AP)—Six days of ceremonials, marking the marriage of Maharaja h Jawai Man Singh Bahadur, the ruler of Jaipur, who is 21 years old and has a permanent salute of 17 guns, and the daughter of the maharaja h of Jodhpur, came to an end tonight.

It was a wedding entirely in keeping with the eminence of the families it linked. They are two of the most ancient houses of India.

The festivities started last Thursday, when the bridegroom-to-be, weighted down with diamonds, pearls and rubies, mounted a brilliantly caparisoned elephant and led his wedding procession through his home city of Jaipur.

On Sunday the young ruler arrived in Jodhpur. At the city gates he was met by all the notables of the state. Guns boomed his salute and he was escorted in a procession of elephants gorgeously accoutred to his temporary residence in Ratanda palace. Admiring crowds cheered him as he made his way through the streets.

That afternoon there were colorful ceremonials as he proceeded to historic Jodhpur fort, five miles away. He made the journey on an elephant. The entire aristocracy and gentry accompanied him afoot.

The complex marriage ceremony, lasting two hours, was performed in an inner apartment of the fort, to which the ruler was led after he had been received in the main hall by a congregation of the most eminent personages in this part of the world.

There followed numerous festivities which lasted until tonight.

The conference has been holding its annual sessions at the Central church, Sedgwick and Hobbie street. The budget adopted is $165,000, to be raised from its 55,000 members. The defeated proposal, made by the Rev. A. C. Rylander of Chicago, asked that the conference restrict its budget to pledged income of $140,000.

Children Have Gleeful Time on Shop Tours

Colorful Clothes Attract Them.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

School is out and the children you don't see in the usual neighborhood juvenile rendezvous are dashing about the shops in a gay adventure of selecting new clothes while there is plenty of time to look. Clothes conscious mothers are taking junior clothes-hounds by the twos and three and gallantly spending hours in timely inspection of things to wear!

Even the most particular mother will be able to approve the splendid profusion of frocks. And the weirdest wish of the youngsters as to a certain color and style can be fulfilled. But best of all shrinking budgets can be carefully stretched to allow for the many and varied values that every shop seems to be featuring. Just like a lot of other things, junior clothes are priced lower than they have ever been during any other vacation.

Take printed cotton frocks for instance. They come in colorful, smart new designs, with special emphasis on dark blue and brown and white prints that can march back and forth to the laundry with a bright and cheerful regularity. These new prints are fashioned with the very new and revived interest in guimpes, copied from the new grownup dresses that also boast about their guimpes. These guimpes are usually of crisp dotted swiss or else the large hole-d eyelet embroidery.

Some of the shops are enthusiastically pushing suits, miniature models with all the dashing sophistication of a size sixteen French original and as many shades of blue are crowding in the junior sections as you see elsewhere.

And dots are as whole heartedly approved by all smart juniors as they are by their grown-up sister shoppers. Some of the most charming and sweet sixteen dance dresses are of softly swinging white chiffon liberally besplashed with rose, yellow, red and cornflower blue dots about the size of a quarter. Crisp embroidered organdies have tiny puffed sleeves, flower like shirts and small bodices, with wide luscious silk ribbon sashes in color to harmonize.

Cherry colored linens brighten all the spring collections. Piques in all pastel tones and good looking printed effects are especially made, to dress the spring school girl and the junior shopper will have just as much fun looking for knitted sports clothes as anyone else. Knitted dresses in some of the most unusual colors, knitted in some of the biggest stitches or holes are merely a collection of rows of rather abandoned examples of how loose and easy yarn can be strung together.

Sweaters bloom and blaze from every shelf. Striped affairs are as gay and gawdy and noticeable as the zoo zebra. With them "young America" will go greedy with stripes and wear berets and roll-your-own caps with inch wide stripes to match. And for the enthusiasts that simply can't get enough. Sock makers have shipped in new stripped socks that will satisfy the most ardent admirer of color and width.

There are a great company of new straw hats in readiness for these youthful plungers . . . smart little pan-size-lids that will hang as engagingly over one ear as tricky French models do on the heads of the big sisters. Some impudent new little models look like the caps worn by Robbin Hood, caps with dashing little feathers and quills slanting up at the side front.

She wears the coveted Phi Beta Kappa key and is one of the most attractive and brilliant young women in society. Mr. Porter was graduated from Yale last June. Plans for the wedding have not been made.

'Should I Tell?' Query Brings Answer of 'No'

Wiser to Be Silent About Indiscretions.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Confusion sits upon my brow when the question of whether to tell or not to tell confronts me in letter form, which it so frequently does. We refer, of course, to the problem of revealing indiscretions of past date, or withholding confessions of them.

Among our group of sophisticates, revealing past mistakes is one of those things dismissed with a shrug, a laugh or a so-called bright witticism, such as "How quaint!" But our sophisticates number a small group and the circles outside of this where the doctrine of leading your life is broadly accepted is not much larger. So that we do find pasts frequently looming up in more or less menacing form.

Certainly the only advice to offer is NOT to tell. Not to lay bare indiscretions you regret and have atoned for to the best of your ability. But, unfortunately, that does not always guarantee the state of mind the inquirer hopes for. If she is the kind of person who will walk with fear as her companion, whose conscience will bother her the more she loves her man—nothing will ease her mind but a confession.

The chief trouble with confessing is that while forgetfulness is promised during the early days of courtship, later on when argument arises the confessor is likely to have her confession thrown back in her teeth. I have had confidences from men who hated themselves for not forgetting after promising to, but with whom the wife's confessed indiscretion remained as a perpetual scar on the mind.

There is something in the male makeup that refuses to compromise with the idea of his wife having relations with another man. Which may be Providence's way of policing womanly virtue. Any way you look at it, the woman who comes with a clean past has the assurance of being freed the doubts and worries that dog the other's footsteps.

Still, when men feel as they do about it, for their peace of mind we argue that not confessing is the best way out. Men have lived to regret, too, taking a woman into their confidences on things that were better left untold. Woman's jealousy, her tendency to morbid brooding may inspire a flame-up at the most unexpected moment.

Studios Suspend Marlene Dietrich and James Cagney

Hollywood, Cal., April 26.—(AP)—Marlene Dietrich, blond beauty from Germany, and James Cagney, two of the best money making performers in motion pictures, were suspended by their studios today because of disputes over their work and salary, respectively.

Hardly more than 24 hours after Paramount studio suspended Josef Von Sternberg, noted director and discoverer of Miss Dietrich, she was lopped off the pay roll for not showing up for work on a picture which Sternberg had refused to direct.

At the Warner studio it was said that notice of suspension had been sent to Cagney, who had been holding out for $4,000 a week instead of the $1,600 he has received under a long term contract.

Cagney said he had not received the suspension notice in the mails. Just returned from New York, he went out to the lot today, walked past executive offices to his dressing rooms, and left later with a big bundle under his arms, saying it contained personal belongings.

Henrietta Allen Wed.

Wichita, Kas., April 26.—(AP)—Miss Henrietta Allen, daughter of former senator and Mrs. Henry J. Allen, and Julius C. Holmes, secretary of the American legation at Bucharest, were married at the home of the bride here late today.

Reduce Prices for St. Luke's Fashion Show

BY JUDITH CASS.

IN keeping with the times the women who raise money each fall for St. Luke's social service work decided yesterday at a luncheon meeting held at Mrs. Charles F. Glore's in Lake Forest to reduce the prices of everything connected with the annual fashion show so this probably means, of course, that the huge sums realized before by these benefits will not be equaled by the proceeds of next season's show.

The show is to be held on Oct. 25 and although the bulk of the work will be done next autumn the committees are being lined up now and as many plans as possible are being formed now.

Mrs. I. Newton Perry is to be press chairman this year and no doubt Mrs. Walter B. Wolf, Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson, Mrs. Augustus W. Eddy, Mrs. Henry Faurot Jr., and Mrs. William P. Hodgkins will be among those most active in making a success of the show.

The fashion show usually nets between thirty and forty thousand dollars for not only do the tickets bring in money, but the exhibitors also pay to have their fashions modeled by the prettiest and smartest young women in society.

Among the members of the board of the hospital who were at Mrs. Glore's yesterday were Mrs. A. Watson Armour and her daughter, Mrs. W. Irving Osborne Jr.; Mrs. Wolf and her daughter, Mrs. Walter F. McLallen; Mrs. John W. Gary, Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed, Mrs. Faurot, Mrs. Hodgkins, Mrs. John B. Drake Jr., Mrs. Sterling Morton, Mrs. Edward R. Finield, Mrs. William E. Casselberry, and Mrs. Harold Eldridge.

Infant Welfare Luncheon.

The press chairmen who supply the papers with news about the various branches of the Infant Welfare society and the newspaper women who relay the news to the public met for luncheon yesterday at the Casino and had a nice party.

There were no speeches, just pleasant informal conversation, but Miss Jeannette Townsend, the extension secretary, did say a few timely words about the increased demand for service by the society on the one hand and the decreased contributions on the other.

She said those who direct the activities of this organization, which cared for 24,787 mothers and children during 1931—an increase of more than 52 per cent over the greatest number it had ever had before in any one year—were determined that the children of today should not suffer in the future as a result of the "change" that is taking place today.

And so the woman's auxiliary and the doctors and nurses are working harder than ever to carry this enormous overload and to raise the funds necessary to carry on the work. Mrs. John H. McIlvaine of Lake Forest acted as hostess at yesterday's luncheon.

Because of illness at Arden Shore, the camp's annual first of May homecoming has been postponed from next Sunday to the following Sunday, May 8. The annual drives for funds for Arden Shore are opening this week, some at committee teas or picnics at the camp, and all with the purpose of raising the average quota of $6,000 in each north shore town.

With the exception of Wilmette, which contributes through its community chest, and Kenilworth, which gives through its Woman's club, members of suburban town committees will be busy through the spring and summer getting subscriptions to support the camp. Demands are, of course, heavier than ever this year, and $50,000 is needed to carry on the camp's summer and winter work.

Mrs. Robert S. Hotz is general chairman for the drive, which will be launched officially on May 1. District chairmen are Mrs. Frederick G. Wacker, Mrs. Robert Hixon, Mrs. George F. McLaughlin, Mrs. Alexander H. Revell Jr., Mrs. Allan Kempe, and Mrs. Phelps Kelley.

Pushes "Frolics" on Eastern Trip.

Mrs. Waller Borden boarded a train for New York yesterday, armed with clippings of newspaper stories about the opening on Monday night of "The Breadline Frolics" in the hope that she can induce philanthropic-minded people of New York and Boston to sponsor a similar benefit show for the unemployed men of both cities.

Last night's performance of the Frolics at the Majestic theater was attended by American Legion groups. The committee in charge hopes that the attendance will be large enough from now on to warrant a long run for the show.

Despite the fact that she plans to move out to her Lake Forest residence on Friday, Mrs. D. Mark Cummings will spend most of her time tomorrow at the White Elephant Rummage shop conducting a sale of materials for home dressmakers. Her assisting committee will include Mrs. Homer Dillenback, Mrs. Howard Bartling, Mrs. Oren E. Taft, Mrs. Eliphalet W. Cramer, Mrs. Charles H. Wendell, Miss Helen Reid and Miss Grace Louise Bosworth.

Mr. and Mrs. Culbreth Sudler of Pasadena, Cal., are being congratulated on the birth of a son, Culbreth Jr., on April 21 at the Good Samaritan hospital in Los Angeles. Mr. and Mrs. Carroll H. Sudler of 232 East Walton place have been traveling in the south and west for about six weeks and went to Los Angeles about a week before the arrival of their new grandson. They have made no plans to return to Chicago and may remain in California through the summer.

News of Travel and Moving.

Miss Frances Glore, the "sub-deb" daughter of the Charles F. Glores, will arrive at home from school in Switzerland about the first of July to spend the summer with her family in Lake Forest.

Mrs. Richard T. Crane Jr. and her

Nagel Remarks on Henry Ford's Movie Interest

'Actor Gives Impressions of His Tour.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., April 26.—The thing that most impressed Conrad Nagel in his recent five months' tour around the country in which he addressed United States senators and congressmen on betterment in the movies and chatted with ever so many notables was the interest Henry Ford expressed in motion pictures. At least that is what Nagel said on his return to Hollywood yesterday.

"Mr. Ford thinks no industry has a better record toward establishing a new public business confidence," Nagel says. "He complimented theater owners and movie exhibitors because they kept their show houses open, thus keeping thousands of persons at work."

Nagel also passed out a word of solemn advice to his fraters inside the picture industry. It was, "People have become discriminating in their taste in motion pictures. You cannot give them poor pictures any more. We must give them good and interesting pictures or the film industry will go broke."

Bill [W. C.] Fields, the veteran Broadway comic and boon friend of Charley [Moran and] Mack, has returned to film work after a couple of years divided between doing nothing (as far as films are concerned) and golfing here. Fields is playing with Jack Oakie in "On Your Marks" at Paramount.

Grand Duchess Marie of Russia, who spent last week visiting movies, greeting old friends and lecturing here at so much per lecture, has left some ruffled feelings to mark her departure from southern California. A collection of citizens at Laguna Beach, headed by Sumner Crosby, sent a formal demand on the grand duchess to make good for a lecture engagement which the Laguna committee acidly asserts she broke with them.

And Mrs. Charles Crail, who is president of the Ebell club—a socially and civically important woman's club—today held a written apology from the former Romanoff princess as a souvenir of Grand Duchess Marie's visit to the Ebell clubhouse.

In the note to Mrs. Crail the grand duchess expresses regret for breaking the club rule against smoking and denies she "derided prohibition as I was said to have done because I am a foreigner and do not consider myself in the right to take a stand on this important American question."

Both families are unusually wealthy and outstanding Catholics. The bridegroom's father, like himself, came to Ireland for his wife. Good morning!

—And be of good cheer! BECAUSE—if you're in movie going mood I've three pictures to sell which I know will please you—two comedies and one adventure film.

"The Misleading Lady" is fun! Never for a minute does it take itself seriously, but romps along with Edmund Lowe cave-manning, Claudette Colbert yipping and struggling, and you-bet-you-your-life-loving her dire predicament! Stuart Erwin—so much like Will Rogers that you have to pinch yourself sometimes to make sure that he isn't—portraying a gentle lunatic. The rest of the cast do their duty in hilariously becoming fashion.

The story, which skips from drawing room to hunting lodge, is about a bored society girl who, sated with the triteness of existence, beseeches one Sydney Parker to permit her to play the leading rôle in his new play.

He: "But, ma'am, you've no name for to give my play fame . . .!"

—and in the next breath he promises that if she'll wangle a proposal of marriage from Jack Craigin, a misogynist—just back from the wilds of Patagonia—which feat would get everybody's name in ALL the papers, he'll hire her.

Well, the lady does what she's supposed to do. But Craigin, discovering the trick, pulls a fast one of his own—which is where the action does a flea stunt from drawing room to hunting lodge and Mr. Erwin makes his appearance in the guise of Napoleon looking for Waterloo while husky gentlemen in uniform, chanting the "Marseillaise," scour the woods in search of HIM.

It's all very well done and amusing. And on the stage:

Bing Crosby crooning
In a style to set you swooning
And your fancies go a-mooning.

[Much more poetry of the sort that I've been writing lately and they'll enter me in Dunning. Long "u."].

"BEAUTY AND THE BOSS."
Directed by Roy del Ruth.
Presented at the Orpheum and Avalon theaters.

THE CAST.

Susie Sachs.....Marian Marsh
The Baron.....Warren William
Ludwig.....Charles Butterworth
Paul.....David Manners
Polly.....Mary Doran
Girl at the Bar.....Lillian Bond
Ludwig's Girl.....Polly Walters
The Count.....Frederick Kerr
Chappel.....Robert Greig
Girl in bathtub.....Yola D'Avril
Girl with dog.....Barbara Leonard

"Beauty and the Boss" is the film version of "A Church Mouse" in which Louise Groody is "legitimately" starring over at the Adelphi.

Haven't seen Miss Groody—but I doubt if her's surpasses Marian Marsh's portrayal of the hungry, shabby, determined little Cinderella stenographer who, by wily and desperate use of her wits, becomes private secretary to a Viennese financier, proves herself a regular mistress of finance, and suddenly blossoms out into a lovely creature—an entrancing combination of naïveté, beauty, and cleverness who bowls over her boss! No more of the story here!

Like "The Misleading Lady" this piece moves glibly along with a song in its heart and its tongue in its cheek. Both Miss Marsh and Warren William—THERE'S an actor!—have an underlying sense of humor that captivatingly colors their respective characterizations. David Manners is nice as the boss' brother, who gets a terrible crush on the surprising "mouse," and dear old Frederick Kerr is heartsome in the sort of part he plays so well. Also, let us not forget, the delightfully nutty Charles Butterworth is also there! Minor rôles are well handled.

"EXPLORERS OF THE WORLD."
Produced by Raspin.
Presented at the Roosevelt.

THE CAST.

James L. Clark and his African expedition.

KIND: Real life adventure film, compiled from the journeyings of several famous explorers. They meet at a banquet and, one by one, relate their experiences, which take you into far-off, fascinating corners of the globe.

QUALITY: Splendid!
PHOTOGRAPHY: Excellent.
DESCRIPTIONS: Engrossing to those who yearn to go abroad strange countries for to see.

AUDIENCE APPEAL: Plenty. We were thrilled as we accompanied Harold McCracken—who headed the Siberian-Arctic expedition for the American Museum of Natural History—to Alaska. Our eyes popped at sights encountered in Asia with Gene Lamb. How marvelous to tag along to Africa with James L. Clark, and with Lieutenant Commander Stenhouse, and Dr. Laurence M. Gould—who went with Byrd to Little America—visit the Antarctic—and learn about Byrd from him!

It was a lot of fun to see Explorer Harold Noice in action! Music may have charms to soothe the savage breast, but No. Noice has found that 10 cent perfume works better. . . . Watch him win over the Tariano Indians who live in isolated Brazilian jungles. . . .!

"Explorers of the World" is alive with interesting material and unusual photographic shots. Both you and the children will find it fascinating.

THIS MAKES IT UNANIMOUS!

daughter, Miss Florence, who are just back from California and are at their residence at 1550 Lake Shore drive for two weeks before they go east to their summer place at Ipswich, Mass., are going to Monticello, Ill., to spend the coming week-end with Robert Allerton. Miss Crane's Chicago friends are not to see the new portrait of her done by Mrs. Cecil Clark Davis for Miss Crane only served as a model for the former Chicagoan while she was in the west, and the picture is not Miss Crane's property.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Hotz are moving this week from Vine avenue in Lake Forest to the Henry Durand house at College and Washington roads in the same suburb. The house has been in the process of remodeling and redecorating for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Dickinson have given up their apartment at 900 North Michigan avenue and have opened Strawberry Hill, their residence in Lake Forest.

Mr. and Mrs. Ewing T. Webb are giving up their apartment at 73 East Elm street this week and moving to Lake Forest where they are joining the colony of "young marrieds" who live the year around in the country.

Miss Comstock Leaves Today.

Miss Ada Comstock, president of Radcliffe college, who has been with Mr. and Mrs. Heyliger A. de Windt in Winnetka for several days, is leaving today for Boston. Miss Comstock spoke at a number of schools, both private and public ones, during her stay here and also was entertained at several social affairs including a dinner given last night by Miss Harriet Leonard and her father, John R. Leonard, at their Winnetka residence, and a reception later given by the Harry J. Dunbaughs of Hubbard Woods. Mrs. Dunbaugh is a trustee of Radcliffe.

Mrs. Henry M. Dawes will open her residence at 101 Greenleaf street, Evanston, at 11 o'clock this morning for a lecture by Dr. Horace J. Bridges on "Gandhi: His Ideas and His Goal." The lecture is the second of a series of four being given at north shore homes for the benefit of the Cradle.

Mrs. Maude Phelps Hutchins and Mortimer Adler will discuss "Diagrammatics" at a meeting of the Renaissance society this evening at the Oriental institute. There will be examples of drawings and literature.

Boxholders for the twenty-eighth annual benefit concert of the Paulist Choristers to be held tomorrow evening at Orchestra hall include Mr. and Mrs. Lester Armour, Mrs. David F. Bremner, Mrs. Edward F. Carry, Mrs. John Vaughan Clarke, Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Cudahy, Mrs. Edward I. Cudahy, Mr. and Mrs. Stuyvesant Peabody, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy, Mrs. Edward Hines, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Cudahy Jr.

Others who will have box parties at the concert are Mr. and Mrs. Evan Evans, Mrs. Joseph B. Long, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Linn, Gen. Frank Parker, and Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey Haggard.

Sale to Aid Lake Forest "Y."

Members of the board of directors of the Lake Forest Y. W. C. A. are arranging a benefit rummage sale to be held on Saturday at the Y. W. C. A. headquarters on Market square. Mrs. Woodbury S. Ober is general chairman of the sale and Mrs. A. Duane Jackson is in charge of the bakery committee. Mrs. Thomas C. Dennehy Jr. is president of the organization and Mrs. W. Scott Bromwell treasurer.

Final arrangements for the Army and Navy ball will be made this afternoon at a tea at 4 o'clock at Mrs. Jacob Baur's residence, 1511 Astor street. A number of well known men have been chosen to appear with Fritz Leiber in the "Inauguration of Washington" tableau scene at the ball, which will be held Saturday in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel. They are G. Bernard Anderson, who will be Robert Livingston; Col. Calvin Goddard as Arthur St. Clair; Benjamin F. Affleck as Samuel Otis; Col. Edward Davis as Henry Knox; George W. Dixon as Baron Steuben; William H. Stewart as John Adams, and Henry H. Melhoos as Roger Sherman. In "Lafayette's Visit to Mount Vernon" Miss Alyce Siqueland and Burt A. Massee as Eleanor Custis and Lafayette will appear with Mrs. Baur and Mr. Leiber, who will impersonate Martha and George Washington.

Rehearsals are being held every evening of the three plays to be given at the Arts club Sunday night, and from one who has attended some of the rehearsals we hear that the plays are to be most amusing and entertaining. The versatile Helen Walton is directing the production of the three which are Thornton Wilder's "Queens of France," Luigi Pirandello's "The Imbecile," and Sartens' "The Cow," translated by Mrs. Walton herself. After the performance, which will start at 9 o'clock, there are to be light refreshments in true European soiré manner.

The Southern Women's Educational Alliance will hold a benefit spring musical on Wednesday evening, May 11, at the Orrington hotel in Evanston. The committee of arrangements includes Mrs. Carter H. Harrison, Mrs. Americus F. Callhan, Mrs. Hal Crompton Bangs, Mrs. John E. Wilder, Mrs. J. Horton Fall Jr., Mrs. Daniel Burnham and Mrs. Hubert Burnham.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles True Adams of 2244 Lincoln Park West are entertaining at dinner Friday night for Miss Sophia Harrington and her fiancé, Jacob Bischoff, and Mackay Stoddard and his bride. After dinner the party will attend the Chicago Welsh Male choir concert at Orchestra hall as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Fargo, who are among the boxholders.

This column owes an apology to Lucius B. Sherman Jr. of Winnetka for writing yesterday that he, instead of his brother, Roger Fowler Sherman, was married on Friday of last week to Miss Ingrid Gwendolyn Thomen of St. George, Staten Island. Lucius B. Sherman is a popular bachelor, and not a bridegroom, as we erroneously stated yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. Roger F. Sherman will return from their wedding trip on May 15.

Put Radio Station on Ocean Liner to Broadcast One Song

New York, April 26.—(AP)—A complete broadcasting station is being built aboard the liner Saturnia to allow Rosa Ponselle, Metropolitan opera star, to contribute one song—"Auld Lang Syne"—to the May 1 program for unemployed musicians.

Miss Ponselle already had arranged pasage to Italy when asked to participate in the program, and suggested the midocean broadcast.

A special corps of engineers will go aboard the Saturnia to supervise the singing 1,200 miles at sea. They will disembark at Gibraltar and return on the first boat.

Angel Food Has Temperament of Prima Donna

Most Particular About Ingredients, Oven.

BY MARY MEADE.

More cake trouble this morning, and this is an occasion for an angel food discussion. Mrs. I. H. writes:

"I have tried twice to make an angel food cake and have failed both times. After mixing my batter very carefully I poured it into a regular angel cake pan and set it into the cold oven. Then I lit the gas, making a very small flame, not changing it throughout the course of the baking.

"After sixty minutes I tested the cake, which had risen quite a bit, and found that it was not thoroughly baked. Also the top was quite hard and I found it hard to pierce when testing the cake [I used a piece of straw for testing]. After about an hour and a half the cake was finished, as the tester came out clean. I removed the cake from the oven and turned the pan upside down. About three-quarters of an hour later I discovered that the cake had fallen out of the pan. However, it did not fall 'clean,' but left a coating of the baked batter in the pan."

First of all, Mrs. I. H., let's remember that angel food batter is a temperamental one at best and is most particular about its oven. The oven should be the kind that insists upon baking a good brown under crust. If your oven isn't inclined that way, one can't promise a good cake. The reason your cake fell was that this under crust had not been well formed and the cake was not sufficiently baked.

In the second place, angel food cake must have varied temperatures during the baking or it will not be baked in an hour. When the baking period extends over that length of time the cake is likely to be dry and tough. Inasmuch as you have no oven regulator, start the cake as you did in a very slow or cold oven, preferably slow, and once it has risen to the top of the pan raise the temperature of the oven to moderate. Then, during the last fifteen minutes of the baking, increase the heat a little more [about the temperature used for cup cakes] and finish the baking.

The top crust should be brown—not dark, but golden like the skin of an orange when the cake is done. Don't test the cake for doneness with a straw, for you threaten its fragility. Angel food will shrink from the sides of the pan when done. Touch it lightly with your finger, and if the cake springs back into place it's done. Turn off the heat immediately when that takes place, and allow the cake to stand in the oven and the top to shrink back to the level of the pan. Then remove from the oven and invert on the legs of the pan, and hang until cold.

The ingredients for angel food must be the freshest of the fresh. Whip the eggs with a wire whisk on a platter or in a bowl with a large base. Take sweeping strokes during the beating and incorporate as much air as possible into those whites. Whip them until stiff, not dry! That means that the whites will peak—with no little tails turning over—though they will have a moist look about them. Then fold in the sugar, two tablespoonfuls at a time, then the flavoring, and lastly the flour in the same way. It is no idle jest on our part that angel food requires a very fine grade of sugar, and that the flour has to be sifted four or five times.

The proportions I use for angel food are as follows:

1 cup of egg whites [about 9 or 10 eggs].
½ teaspoon cream of tartar [added to the whites when they have become foamy].
1¼ cups of sugar].
1 cup of pastry flour, sifted once before measuring.
A pinch of salt [added to the whites before beating].

THE WHISPERER

By ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

"The 'Whisperer' Crimes" have held London terrorized for months. Numerous wealthy persons have been kidnaped and held for ransom. The ransom victim is sent a small wireless receiving set, by means of which the "Whisperer" speaks, using his own short wave, and gives directions for delivering the ransom demanded. Police dare not interfere, because death results for the captive if directions are not carried out.

Joyce Merrow, engaged to Roland Blatch, secretary to Sir Henry Glazeborough, M. P., a leading philanthropist, is taken captive. In Roland's keeping are valuable jewels, donated to Sir Henry to be sold for charity. Roland is forced to steal them for the bandit to insure the safe return of his beloved. When Joyce is again safely home, Roland decides to accept an offer from the bandit to join his band and try to recover the jewels. He is sent to an address where a woman named Connie gives him a facial treatment which alters his appearance. Roland reports every day to Connie, where the Whisperer talks to him through a telephone loud speaker, but remains hidden from view. He is assigned the task of collecting ransom from Lord Whiddon, whose wife is held captive, and is involved in the killing of Lady Whiddon when her husband fails to meet the Whisperer's demands. Roland follows Connie and finds the Whisperer's hideout.

INSTALLMENT XV.

THE BANDIT IDENTIFIED.

There was no one in the room. It was furnished in the same style as the hall, but, like the kitchen, it bore signs that it was never used.

Roland was turning away when he heard a footstep on the floor above—a heavvy footstep—then the grating of a chair.

"Keep cool and watch out!" he warned himself. There was too much at stake to risk all by trying to rush things. He found that by remaining in the room and merely shutting the door—by leaving a tiny crack between door and lintel—he could command a view of the lower part of the staircase.

He was only just in time. The top stairs creaked as some one began to descend. His finger curled round the trigger, feeling the spring.

He would take no risks with the Whisperer. A man who could hold Scotland Yard at bay for months on end would not be easily cowed. He would fire first at the legs to wound—and fire again to kill if the Whisperer should draw a weapon. For himself he took no thought. He was thinking of poor old Glassy—of Joyce.

He would fire first at the legs to wound——

"Good God!"

Roland did not shoot. A dozen theories—all wide of the truth—crowded into his consciousness. Dominating all was the belief that old Glassy had been playing detective himself and had succeeded where all others had failed. Old Glassy might even have killed the Whisperer with his own hands.

He would step out and declare himself. He was about to do so when Sir Henry Glazeborough, instead of advancing toward the front door, turned left and made toward the kitchen quarters.

"That's damned funny!" muttered Roland, hesitated, then followed.

Sir Henry had passed through the kitchen door that gave on to the garden. Roland ran forward. The door resisted—it had been locked on the outside by Sir Henry.

By now the truth had almost broken on Roland. But it was too staggering a truth to be grasped at once. He lost his head, rattled the door.

Then he heard a horn in the garage. He rushed into the front room and looked through the curtains.

He saw Sir Henry drive out in the two-seater.

Then he knew for certain that the Whisperer was none other than Sir Henry Glazeborough himself.

Back through the house in order, in the words of the Whisperer, "to make sure twice."

Roland felt his brain reeling before the stupendous conclusion that the Whisperer was old Glassy himself. He tried to persuade himself that he had been mistaken—that he had somehow jumped to a wrong conclusion. But the facts were too much.

"He came down those stairs by himself. He knew his way through the kitchen. He locked the back door after him. He wouldn't have had time to swing those garage doors back and let himself out—and why should he have sounded his horn? No, his horn opened the doors and shut them again, being attuned, like Connie's horn, to the wireless mechanism."

Taking the three points together he was convinced that there could be no other possible explanation—unless there was some one else in the house.

Most people know instinctively when they are standing alone in an empty house and Roland was quite convinced, nevertheless he began a search.

There were three other rooms on the ground floor. One on the opposite side of the hall was just as the one he had left. The two rooms that faced on the garden were bare of furniture and had no curtains, for a couple of tall trees at the bottom of the garden shielded them from observation.

That finished the ground floor. He went back to the kitchen, picked up his shoes, carried them to the strip of carpet at the foot of the stairs, then put them on.

Although he was convinced there was no one else in the house it would have been foolish to make a search and not do it properly—so he went up slowly, step by step, keeping his eye on the head of the stairs, ears alert for any sound below, his hand on the revolver.

It was the strip of carpet that upset his plans. It was not properly fixed—it was only slightly tacked—and at the top step the tacks had worked loose. It did not trip him, but it caught his foot so that his other foot came down with a loud thump on the landing—which, in that silent house, any one who had been there must have heard. Further pretense was useless.

"Hullo! Any one at home?" he shouted.

There came no sound but his own voice echoing from the walls.

He looked about him, a little uncertain as to his next step. There was one floor above. There were four rooms on the landing on which he stood, two in the opposite wall, and one on each side of the staircase.

He opened the farther of the two doors in the opposite wall. It was a small room with a large number of small deal packing cases piled one on top of the other. The wood was thin and he wrenched one open with his fingers. Inside, as he had suspected, was a small portable wireless set—"the little box." The very number of packing cases confounded him.

"Good heavens! The Whisperer must believe he's going to carry on for years! . . . Is he!"

He went into the room next to it. In the middle of the room was a carpenter's bench. Lining the walls were several well filled tool racks. Standing by itself in a corner was a small metal working outfit complete with a forge. The greater part of the floor was covered with a litter of storage batteries and other electrical paraphernalia. In the opposite corner was a draftsman's desk, over which the electric light had been left burning.

Back again on the landing, he went into the room on the right of the staircase and knew at once that here was the Whisperer's sanctum—the conning tower, as it were, from which he directed his operations. In the center of the room was a long table on which was a great deal of apparatus which would have baffled him but for his knowledge that it must be wireless apparatus. There was a curious untidiness about it all. Three separate cables ran from one side of the table to electric plugs in the wall. They were uncovered and there would obviously be danger of tripping over them.

The stacks of packing cases in the other room and the well equipped workshop had suggested a permanent headquarters. But this room suggested temporary fitments. It looked as if it had been rigged up by a mechanic in a couple of hours—looked as if it could be taken away in five minutes.

In addition to the transmitting apparatus there were three separate telephone rests. Wires from these ran straight from the table to the ceiling. On the table also were pencils and a writing pad, but no sign of any written matter.

There was a padded swivel chair by the table and along one wall a leather sofa. Above the sofa was a book case containing a number of paper backed French novels. Next to the book case was a cabinet, which he opened. Inside were a dozen or so tins of preserved meat, a tumbler and some siphons of soda.

Evidently the Whisperer was in the habit of staying in the room by himself for comparatively long periods of waiting.

He went over to the window. In a recess were six metal cylinders, some four feet in length and six inches in diameter. They were fitted with valves and he recognized them as the kind of cylinders that are used for storing compressed gas.

He turned the valve of one and there came a quick hiss which told him the cylinder was full.

"What the devil does he use those for?" Roland asked himself and had to leave the riddle unanswered. That was a question the police could tackle. There was now no doubt in his mind that he had actually located the Whisperer's headquarters.

Old Glassy! The police would not believe him, of course—but they would set a watch. They would believe when they saw that this was the Whisperer's headquarters—or at least one of his many depots. And the next time the spider walked into his own parlor——

It would be as well, he thought, if he could take something away to prove his tale—something striking and unusual.

It was ready to hand—in a large canvas bag inside the gas cylinders. The bag was full of soft oilskin packages which mystified him at first. But on each package directions were printed—in German.

Correct Posture Helps Appearance.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

There are two points for silhouette concentration, at the moment. The waistline is one; the lower back, the other. You cannot be smart of figure with a protruding lower back line. I saw a demonstration the other day, in which a model proved how straightening up the posture effected a marked change for the better in this rear section. The erect carriage does for the lower back the same thing it does for the abdomen—draws it in and automatically attens it. So, that's point number one in correction.

Another important thing in this connection [you may think it has no connection, but it has a very direct one] has to do with the feature of elimination. The system must be relieved of constipation difficulty, for here in this section about which we are talking is experienced an excess weightiness by those who are not particular about the daily elimination habit.

Diet, of course, will minimize the weightiness back there. It will remove the excess poundage because this fat, as a rule, is of flabby nature. And flabby fat comes off quickly. But exercise is urgently needed, too, because of the very susceptibility to fat formation there.

Mary Pickford showed me an exercise she does daily—not to remove excess fat, for her figure is thoroughly well proportioned—but to preserve a good silhouette outline. She sat on the floor with arms straight out from the shoulders. She rolled on one side until the extended hand touched the floor, then touched the floor on the other, the rolling done consciously to pull on the posterior muscles. You can do this fifty to a hundred times at a sitting and while the lower back is profiting, the waistline, too, is getting trained down. As I have said many times before, I think it better for women, who are not exercise enthusiasts as a rule, to choose one good exercise and stick to it, adding music to the performance when it is possible.

Try this exercise, then, for a flatter silhouette profile and watch that posture of yours, especially if you are inclined to a sway back habit of standing.

"Good Earth" to Be Staged by N. Y. Guild

Will Be Used Early Next Season.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

A dramatization of Pearl S. Buck's novel, "The Good Earth," a vivid and authentic picture of Chinese peasant life, has been acquired by the Theater Guild for staging next season. The book, published a year ago and now in its twenty-second printing, has been put into play form by Owen Davis, author of more than 300 dramas, in collaboration with his son Donald.

The Theater Guild intends to make "The Good Earth" its first or second production of next fall. Alla Nazimova will probably have an important rôle in the cast. The central figure of the story, however, is a man—a grim, indomitable tiller of the soil who personifies the ancient spirit of the Chinese peasantry.

Mr. Davis is the most prolific of American playwrights. He was represented on Broadway last fall by a piece called "Just To Remind You"—the 318th work of his industrious career. Although never regarded as a writer of major importance, he won the Pulitzer prize in 1923 with "Icebound."

Katharine Cornell has extended her engagement in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" at the Harris theater for a third week. Moreover, it is likely that the customers will not permit her to depart until she has rounded out a fourth. On May 14, however, other contracts will take her on the long trail toward the Pacific coast. After brief halts in St. Louis and Kansas City, she will move on to Los Angeles, opening there Tuesday, May 31.

Bert Lytell, who is giving a playlet called "The Valiant" at the Palace theater this week, is planning to appear in Chicago next fall as an actor-manager. He intends to stage a drama called "Survival," written by Daniel L. James, a citizen of Kansas City with no past as a playwright. Mr. Lytell, incidentally, figured in the New York run of "A Church Mouse," in the rôle that is now being acted at the Adelphi theater by Ernest Glendinning.

George Wintz, impresario of "Death Takes A Holiday," Billy Bryant's show boat, etc., announces that he has completed arrangements to bring Elmer Rice's "The Left Bank" into Chicago for a late spring engagement. This piece, which has paralleled the success of Mr. Rice's "Counselor-at-Law" in New York, deals with American literary expatriates in the Latin quarter of Paris.

Higher Prices Stir Interest in Onion Crop

Plants to Get Space in Many Gardens.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Onions are going to have their inning in the garden plots as well as in commercial fields this season. If you have priced them at the grocery or the seedhouse you have learned that depression prices aren't existing for this particular soup, salad, and meat relish.

The reason seems to be that the old law of supply and demand was in operation and a shortage in last year's onion crop was carried into the market for the small sets. Since some 80 per cent of the commercial onion sets of the nation are grown in Cook county, the doubling of prices since last fall has been a matter for rejoicing in this locality.

Then, too, the increase in demand for pot roasts and the larger percentage of meals served at home among families depending upon industrial wages has operated on the other side of the demand and supply forces. So we may as well figure that onion sets and onion seeds will be quite popular in the home garden this season and provide a few rows for our own family needs.

When mature dry onions are being planted for fall and winter use only the small sets should be planted. They should be set out in shallow rows, with just enough dirt to cover them.

If it is green onions you are planning for, however, select the larger sets, an inch in diameter or more, and plant them two inches in the ground. With more size there is more stored up food for growth in these sets and they will not only grow more quickly but are likely to be more crisp and tender than if the tiny sets are used.

White onions are most popular for the green supply, although some yellow or red onions are grown, depending upon family preference. One need not worry about frosts in planting the sets, most commercial gardeners having had them sown for some time in this locality. A succession of onions is secured by planting at intervals of a week or ten days.

Booklets Serve as Guide for Child Training

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Question: "Which of your leaflets would be a guide for the study of child training by a mothers' group?"

Answer: Our "Play" booklet for one, which is especially for the mothers of children of nursery school age, that is, about 18 months to 3 years. An interesting book not mentioned there is "The Nursery School," by Margaret McMillan, put out by E. P. Dutton, the price of which is $1.45.

And another two to cover the study of children older than 3 is our leaflet called "Long Child Management and Suggestions for Informal Study."

These, as you probably know, are sent out on receipt of a stamped self-addressed envelope for each booklet.

Question: "The rest of my family and I disagree. I let my little 2 year old play out alone, as I am very busy indoors and I think he should learn to be independent. There are other children nearby. He promises he won't go in the street and does occasionally, though not often. Do you think I am taking chances?"

Answer: I think it is fine for a child to learn to play by himself and also to have the championship of the children next door. However, I do feel that a 2 year old is too small to be made responsible for not going away from the house. Their sense of responsibility at that age is undeveloped. They may promise in perfectly good faith, but they are too young to keep such a promise—certainly under these conditions.

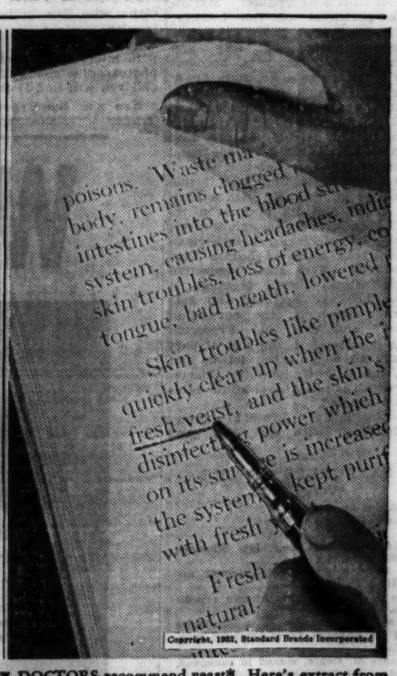
DR. MAZERAN says: "Skin troubles are merely . . . warning us that poisons are being absorbed into the blood." To cleanse and purify the system he advises fresh yeast.



DR. MAZERAN, the noted French specialist, explains how fresh yeast corrects constipation, the cause of so many cases of bad skin. He describes a typical case below. ▼ UGLY BLEMISHES GONE—thanks to fresh yeast. That's because yeast "tones" and purifies the system. Isn't this simple method well worth trying? ▼ DOCTORS recommend yeast*. Here's extract from article by Dr. Cadenas, noted Madrid specialist

"Her SKIN completely CLEARED"

It's so often entirely unnecessary!

. . . a young woman, suffering from an unsightly eruption on the face. Trying to rid herself of her troubles she had dosed herself with laxative pills and cathartics. Instead of clearing up her condition the skin eruptions became steadily worse. In desperation she came to me.

And Dr. Mazeran adds simply: "I put her at once on a yeast régime. We did not have to wait long for results . . . Her skin cleared up completely."

But like the young woman described by Dr. Mazeran, few know how to get rid of it.

Fresh yeast, doctors explain, is a purifying agent. That is because it acts to "tone," strengthen and cleanse the sluggish intestinal tract . . . stimulating the action that rids the body of wastes.

In addition, yeast actually softens these wastes so your body can clear them away easily and regularly. And as poisons are passed out of your system, fresh, clean blood flows through your veins. The foundation for a clear, smooth skin is laid! If you want to straighten out your system—to get back normal elimination—to enjoy a good digestion, a healthy appetite, pep—add Fleischmann's Yeast to your diet today.

Just eat three cakes every day, regularly—before each meal, or between meals and at bedtime—plain or dissolved in a third of a glass of water.

ANTI-DRY LAW WOMEN VOTERS LONG FOR ORATOR

Subject Likely to Come Up Today.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., April 26.—[Special.]—As the convention proper of the National League of Women Voters goes into its business sessions here tomorrow morning, it finds the anti-prohibition forces still casting about for a spokesman to present their opinions to the gathering. Past experience with the procedure of the conservative organization has discouraged many delegates who personally are unsympathetic with the eighteenth amendment.

If the feminine Moses can be found to lead them out of the Saharan wastes into discussion of the matter, their hope, at the most, is to have the topic placed on the study program of the league—a move defeated in former conventions on the grounds of lack of adequate unprejudiced material. Publication since that time of the Wickersham report, it is conceded by many, should make some difference.

Officially the league is neutral on the question. Privately, officials have admitted that a fear of splitting the organization if the matter is forced into the program is the main objection to it. Tomorrow and Thursday's proceedings promise nothing so absorbing as the question of whether or not the wets will succeed in achieving some recognition that the issue exists.

"Yellow at Washington."

Intent on the possible or probable developments of approaching party conventions in Chicago in June, the women turned their tenth convention here into a massmeeting in the Art Institute tonight. Five representatives of major factions in the country presented a symposium on issues challenging the parties, before a ball room thronged with delegates and visitors.

Charles C. Isely, lumber and grain merchant of Dodge City, Kas., mixed no terms and spared no vehemence in his plea for a new deal for this country, on behalf of business.

"There is a yellow streak at Washington," he asserted, "a yellow streak in New York, a yellow streak hovering over and beclouding the mind of business and politics that refuses to face any challenging issues.

"It is an upset world; one can sense its detonations over the wheat fields of Kansas. The empty smoke stacks across these central states, the long lines asking for work, for bread, in every city in this fair land choked with plenty, testify to the haunting memories of the pistol shot at Sarajevo.

Says Settle Allied Debts.

"America's part is to offer a sane solution to the problems of the allied debts to our treasury. Such a solution would at once permit a solution of the reparations problem. Solve that and Germany, starved for food, would at once open market for our farm surplus production; for bankers could at once make loans if strangling reparations were fairly settled.

"Now a Traylor or a Dawes, to suggest two westerners, could in thirty minutes separate the debts due our treasury in two categories—those that can and should be collected, and those that cannot and should not be collected."

Miss Morgan Disappoints.

Miss Ruth Morgan of New York, representing the woman voter, held the close attention of the gathering as she arose, but she disappointed the anti-prohibition membership of the league by completely ignoring that vast problem in her paper.

Coöperation with the rest of the world, entrance of the United States into the world court, and support of the present international disarmament conference were cited by Miss Morgan as the three vital issues feminine voters consider confronting the impending conventions.

OAK PARK J. P.'S SHY AT TRIAL OF FERON; CASE IS NOL PROSSED

Charges of impersonating a magistrate against James M. Feron, former police magistrate of Oak Park, were nol prossed yesterday after an attempt had been made to have each of the four justices of the peace in Oak Park hear the case.

Attorney Robert E. Cantwell Jr., representing twenty clients who claimed that Feron had illegally acted as a judge in hearing their cases, declared he would appear at the state's attorney's office tomorrow morning and ask that Feron be indicted.

The Oak Park village board has voted to abolish the office of police magistrate, but Feron maintains that he is empowered by his commission to act as magistrate until his successor is elected and qualified. He was arrested three weeks ago on the complaints of two citizens, and yesterday the case came up for hearing before Justice Martin H. McGrath.

Attorney H. L. Carmody, representing Feron, got a change of venue. The case was transferred to Justice William P. Churchill, and this time Attorney Cantwell and Assistant State's Attorney Edward Markham got the change of venue. Justice John L. Kreitzer refused to hear the matter, and when it was taken before Justice Frank Aring, Attorneys Cantwell and Carmody got into an argument. While they were arguing Prosecutor Markham, in disgust, he said, nol prossed the charges.

Fugitive 'Kisses' Captor Into Hospital.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 26.—[Special.]—Eighth avenue went in for fox hunting this afternoon with Patrolman Henry Bosell as master of the hounds. That is Patrolman Bosell would have been master of the hounds if there had been any hounds. As it was there was only a fox and a lot of people, hardly any of them properly dressed or mounted for the chase.

The patrolman, off duty and bound for the circus at Madison Square Garden, was sauntering down the avenue with his mind on lions, tigers, elephants, and peanuts. There was no thought of heather fields, brush piles nor skill testing hedges in his mind. If his reflections at the moment touched upon hounds, they concerned the two legged breed rather than the baying kind.

Cop Starts the Game.

Passing the corner at Fifty-sixth street, a locality better known for its games than game, the patrolman saw a small gray animal streak past him. All Manhattan patrolmen have a working knowledge of alley cats. This was not an alley cat, so patrolman Bosell gave chase.

"Tally ho," he cried, having read of the fox hunts on Long Island in the old Police Gazette, and then forgetting that he lacked hounds, hunter or red coat, he set out at what might be described as a brisk fox trot.

Master Reynard took cover in an areaway flanked by a door which had a little hole through which one could peep before opening. There the master and his hunters surrounded the animal. Patrolman Bosell, whose technical knowledge of the niceties of the chase appeared almost as exhausted as his two dogs [feet not hounds] picked up the fox, not by the brush, but by the neck.

Foxes, even rare Inca foxes, as this one later proved to be, resent such unorthodox handling. Both the patrolman and the fox spat. The officer was not quite certain, at the moment, that he had captured a fox. He had heard of a somewhat similar animal and its effective methods of defense.

Oh! What a Kiss.

And then the Peruvian fox began to assert himself. He wiggled twice, yelped a couple of times and reached up and kissed the patrolman right under the nose. Patrolman Bosell said something a lot more effective than "ouch" and took a taxi to Polyclinic hospital where a surgeon took six stitches in Bosell's upper lip.

Permanently deprived of their master of hounds [or dogs] the chase continued in a haphazard manner. The fox, apparently knowing his way about, headed for the vicinity of Broadway where almost every back and front door has a peep hole. His pursuers are certain that they saw the silver gray animal enter one of these places through a peep hole. Apparently he found sanctuary there. At any rate there is a new mascot in Harry's place—a silver gray fox—and they say he'll never be draped around a chorine's neck, for he licked a blue coat.

BANDIT LEADER SEIZED AN HOUR AFTER ROBBERY

Frank Chismundy, sought for months as leader of a bandit gang, was arrested yesterday on a street car in Hammond, an hour after he and two of his followers had taken $2,000 in a holdup of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company office at 5246 Hohman street, Hammond.

Policeman James Kelly of Gary was shot and killed recently when the search for Chismundy led police to an Oak Park apartment. The bandit leader was not found but an alleged member of his gang, George Copley, shot and killed Kelly to escape arrest. Copley was arrested later in Zanesville, O., and was brought back here to face the murder charge.

Chismundy boarded a Chicago bound street car after yesterday's robbery in which five office employés and 28 agents of the insurance company were terrorized. He was recognized and asrested by Policeman Harry Rinback of the Hammond force. Chismundy was carrying a suitcase containing $4,000 which he confessed was the proceeds of the Hammond robbery and two robberies last Thursday in Lansing, Mich.

PRINCE OF WALES STEPS ON TOE AND GETS STEPPED ON

NEWCASTLE, England, April 26.—(AP)—The prince of Wales' toes were stepped on today, presumably on the theory that "a toe for a toe" is proper etiquette.

The prince was visiting at a nursery school near Gateshead, and as the children crowded about him, he stepped on the foot of a lad named Patrick.

"O, I'm so sorry, Patrick," said the prince, "now you can tread on mine."

Bullet Wound Indicates Woman Was Murdered

Theories of murder were advanced by police last night in the death of an unidentified woman, about 25 years old, whose body was taken from the drainage canal at Harlem avenue last Saturday. The theories are based on what appears to be a bullet wound in the ear. The woman had been dead about two months when found. She wore a yellow sweater bound by a black belt, with white buckle, a black skirt, a black plush coat, tan hose, and kid gloves, and no shoes. The body is at the county morgue.

HEFLIN TELLS HIS GRIEF TO SENATE —FOR SIX HOURS

Pleads Defeat Be Ruled "No Election."

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.]—J. Thomas Heflin of Alabama, in a six hour appeal from the floor of the senate chamber, called upon his former colleagues today to restore him to the seat he held for eleven years and which he claims was fraudulently wrested from him by Senator John Bankhead in the 1930 elections.

Widely known for his oratorical ability, the former senator kept the galleries packed throughout his lengthy address as he besought the membership to declare the 1930 senatorial contest in Alabama "no election."

He declared he had "leads" which would indicate that more than a million dollars was spent by the "machine" in Alabama to defeat him in 1930. Fourteen thousand absentee votes were cast, he said, "twice as many as have ever been cast in a southern state election before." One of the leads, he asserted, led to Jouett Shouse and John Raskob, "although we have not been able to follow that lead through."

Attired in the long black coat, white vest, and flowing black tie which he affects, Mr. Heflin described himself as a "victim of political assassination."

Because he refused to support Alfred E. Smith for the presidency in 1928, he was barred from the Democratic primary in Alabama, but ran as an independent. He was defeated by Senator Bankhead by a majority of 50,000. A senate committee has upheld Bankhead's victory.

POPE PIUS TESTS OUT MARCONI'S NEW RADIOPHONE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, April 26.—Experiments performed today in the Vatican gardens by Senator Guglielmo Marconi effectively demonstrated the practicability of equipping Vatican city's telephone system with instruments to use Marconi's ultra short wave wireless transmission, which cannot be intercepted.

Pope Pius XI. himself, wearing a headpiece, listened to a conversation transmitted over ultra short waves from the Vatican radio station only a couple of hundred yards away. Reception was perfect and the pontiff expressed his satisfaction.

Similar experiments have been carried out which make it possible for the pope to telephone by wireless to Castel Gandolfo, 15 miles away, where it is reported he expects to spend part of the summer months.

Leiter's Widow Guardian of Children's Estates

Mrs. Juliette Leiter, widow of Joseph Leiter, financier and sportsman, who died on April 12, was appointed guardian of the estates of her two children, Thomas, 20 years old, and Nancy, 15 years old, yesterday in the Probate court. Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge Horner, fixed Mrs. Leiter's bond at $250,000. The annual income under the trust funds established by the children's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Levi Z. Leiter, and their father will approximate $174,000 each, Mr. Caplan was informed.

WANT A FIGHT? JUST MENTION APRIL TO CUBS

They'll Play Pirates Today—Maybe.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

There was a trace of snow on the Wrigley field premises shortly before noon yesterday and under the circumstances there was no possible choice except to order that the Cubs and Pirates refrain from unveiling themselves in the ceremonies scheduled for the afternoon. It was the second consecutive postponement of the series because of the pneumonia laden atmosphere.

William Veeck, the Cubs' president, after concluding that to attempt a game would be foolhardy for all concerned, promptly went into a huddle with himself and proclaimed that something will have to be done about delaying the annual big league openers until after winter weather actually departs. The same view was expressed by John Heydler, the National league secretary, a week ago.

Last December when the sixteen major magnates were assembled here in their annual joint session, Veeck put before them the matter of breaking away from the old idea that the races had to start in the middle of April.

April Poor Baseball Month.

Veeck pointed out that the April weather is invariably bad; that spring arrives later than in other years, and that the postponements, after everybody had been worked up to a fever stage over the opening, caused an anti-climax in interest.

The magnates responded to Veeck's proposal with a vote. When the ballots were counted Veeck's proposal had been supported to the extent of one vote. That was his own. The fifteen others wanted to continue as in the past. The majority of big league owners are that way. They are inclined to be satisfied with their habits. Veeck will give them another chance at next winter's meeting to vote on the same suggestion.

Figures on postponements in the last few seasons support the stand taken by Veeck and Heydler. The first week in 1930 was so bad that almost all the big league turnstiles grew rusty. Last year the first week was satisfactory, but the weather then turned sour and there were cases of entire series being erased. The American league last season played all its scheduled games in the first week and then rolled up fifteen postponements before May 2.

This spring delays have been numerous even though many games were played in weather which worked a hardship on the few brave souls who attended. The American league, including yesterday's program, has lost 12 games since the season opened April 12. The National during the same time has been cheated out of 11 scheduled games. Every game played by the Cubs in Cincinnati, St. Louis, and here, was conducted under unfavorable conditions. The luck of the Sox in this respect has been no better.

Harridge Supports Owners.

William Harridge, American league president, who now opposes any change in starting time, said yesterday that he merely was voicing the opinions of his club owners. Being one of the men entrusted with the job of drawing up the annual schedules, Harridge is acquainted with the difficulties which would arise if two weeks were cut from the present playing time. One week, by switching games from Philadelphia, where Sunday ball is barred, could be absorbed, but the other week would have to be added at the finish. That would mean closing about Oct. 6, with the world series to follow.

If the Cubs and Pirates can get together today, Pat Malone, who has been ready for work since Monday, will be put on the job against Harris or Swetonic. Although Boss Hornsby will have a new outfield combination in action, he contemplates no change in the batting arrangement. Johnny Moore will bat in third place, which belonged to the injured Ki Cuyler, and Danny Taylor, who is slated for right field, will bat fourth, which was where Vin Barton was posted.

The two postponements will be played off as parts of double headers here May 29 and July 3.

Happy Birthday to You, Rogers; It's 36th for Cub Boss

Today will be a red letter day for Rogers Hornsby, ball game or no ball game, victory or no victory. It's the Cubs' manager's 36th birthday anniversary and the 17th he has celebrated in big leagues.

Hornsby, one of baseball's greatest right hand hitters, was born in Winters, Tex., on April 27, 1896. Eighteen years ago Hornsby started his baseball career, coming up to the St. Louis Cardinals after a little more than one season of minor league experience.

In seventeen and a half seasons as a major leaguer, Hornsby has compiled an all time batting average of .361. After hitting .331 with the Cubs last year, Hornsby has kept himself on the bench all year, with the exception of a few exhibition games, just to give the rookies and lesser known Cubs a chance to grasp at stardom.

TALKING IT OVER

BY ARCH WARD.

HELEN WILLS MOODY, seven times national woman's singles champion, is on her way to Europe again. Press dispatches stated she carried 28 rackets with her, so she probably intends to play a little tennis.

SUZANNE LENGLEN.

Invasion of European courts is no new experience for Mrs. Moody and there is no particular importance attached to this one. There is little prospect of any one over there beating her or even giving her a hard battle. That is the penalty of invincibility. It generates yawns.

If Suzanne Lenglen had not succumbed to the commercial wiles of C. C. Pyle a few years back, there would be great interest in Helen's visit to France. When Suzanne quit the amateur ranks she was a better player by several strokes than the American champion.

They say that Mrs. Moody is improved at least 25 per cent over her game when the French girl was recognized as the world's greatest. Whether she could beat Mlle. Lenglen now is a question. It can be filed away with the debates as to whether Northwestern last fall could have beaten Notre Dame on a dry field or whether Jafsie actually established contact with the kidnapers.

There probably are individuals who can watch heavyweights tumbling around in their gymnasium monkey business and tell whether the boys really are going to win their next bout. I frankly confess I can't.

I saw Levinsky the other day for the first time since he whipped Dempsey. He didn't look any too good. He was cabling his punches and showed an indecision about his defense that made him an open target.

But I must have been wrong, for one of his retinue took me aside after the workout and remarked: "I'm glad you didn't see him the other day. He looked terrible. But today he was himself."

There can be no doubt, however, about Mickey Walker's technique. Judged by Mickey's last showing in Chicago, Levinsky will be lucky to stay in the same ring with him for ten rounds Friday night.

K. O. Christner was Walker's opponent at the Coliseum on Nov. 28, 1930. The fight ended abruptly when Chistner pitched inartistically out of the ring in the first round, injuring his knee so badly he was unable to continue. Walker was credited with a technical knockout.

The fans left the arena muttering to themselves. They were not so disappointed with the sudden termination of the match as they were with Christner's utter lack of artistry in his plunge. It would have been much more graceful for him to have spun around with a Pavlowian gesture and then have sunk to the canvass like a wounded doodle bug.

Stadium officials predict the receipts will hit the $65,000 mark.

Former Olympic Discus Star Shoots Self; Will Live

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, France, April 26.—James H. Duncan, who was a member of the American Olympic team in 1912 and superintendent of the Suresnes American cemetery, shot himself today. Duncan, who established a world's discus record in 1912, will live, according to physicians, who said his condition was not serious.

SNOW STOPS SOX; FONSECA ORDERS JOLLEY'S ARMOR

Outfielder May Catch in Cleveland Series.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., April 26.—The Detroit Tigers were eager enough to fatten up further at the expense of the downtrodden White Sox today, but they had too much delicacy to proceed in the face of the snowstorm and bitter cold which prevailed here. The Detroit management waited until 1 o'clock this afternoon, then effected the second postponement in two days.

The Sox will play the final here tomorrow, if the weather improves, hurrying through the ordeal so they can catch a 5:30 o'clock train for Cleveland. The series in Cleveland is to be of four games duration under the terms of the schedule, a bleak prospect inasmuch as the Indians started the Sox on their current losing streak by taking three straight before the Sox left home on this fruitless pilgrimage. The two games postponed here are to be played as a part of a series which opens here on May 26.

Grab Your Mask, Smead.

As may be imagined, the day off gave Manager Lew Fonseca additional opportunity to whirl about in his gay merry-go-round ride, ever seeking to grab off a few gold rings.

In his distress Manager Fonseca has gone so far as to revive the notion of making a catcher of J. Smead Jolley. J. Smead had packed his gorgeous and enormous bosom protector and other paraphernalia in mothballs and lavender, but today instructions were wired to get the consignment moving toward Cleveland via fastest freight. This was taken to mean that several pending deals for a hitting catcher had flopped, but nothing was revealed in this regard.

On the arrival of Johnny Hodapp and Bob Seeds from the Cleveland club yesterday morning, Manager Fonseca made it known Hodapp immediately would be pressed into service at second base, but Seeds would be kept around for a few days pending experiments. Today it develops that Seeds will be in center field when play is resumed. In this event Watwood will go to right field, with either Campbell or Fothergill playing left field.

They Know Better Now.

Counting Manager Fonseca, the team has Outfielders Fonseca, Fothergill, Watwood, Jolley, Campbell, Anderson, Poser, Funk and Seeds. There being a prejudice against drowning, obviously there is a considerable problem involved in this personnel.

It is apparent that many problems which now are so desperate should have been worked out calmly during the spring exhibition season. But some one thought he had a great idea in booking a pushover, leisurely exhibition schedule designed to conserve the strength and talents of the athletes. This bit of idealism has proved a fallacy and it is to the credit of the Sox nabobs that they now realize it and next year will train on the Pacific coast where high class opposition will be available.

AMERICAN FIELD MARSHAL

Off to foreign wars. Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, fit for the rigors of championship competition, sails today for France. She will seek another Wimbledon title and captain the United States team in the Wightman cup matches after some more drill on the continent.

Know Your Derby Horses

This is the first of a series of articles on horses that are going to start in this year's Kentucky Derby, to be run at Louisville May 7.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The delegates from Texas may come to their feet and cheer. Their choice for the Derby can be none other than Liberty Limited, owned by W. T. Waggoner, who, according to recent reports, is just about the wealthiest man in Texas.

EDDIE AMBROSE.

Liberty Limited isn't the "people's choice" by any means. He's been sort of a dark horse until lately, when a few good healthy wagers, probably Mr. Waggoner's spare change, began to appear and today he's quoted at around 20 to 1.

Liberty Limited's breeding would make him a champion of almost any dimension. His daddy is Sir Galahad III., the sire of the champion Gallant Fox. The Limited's mother is Dare Say, a daughter of stout old Cudgel. It is a mixture of blood lines that surely should produce a great race horse some of these days.

But Liberty Limited's record as a 2 year old was the record of a colt that was always expected to gallop his way to fame and then missed by the narrowest of margins when the crucial test came.

He won a maiden race on last Derby day. Then he started in four big stake events, the Bashford Manor in Kentucky, the Post and Paddock at Arlington, the Juvenile stakes at Hawthorne, and the Joliet at Lincoln Fields. He was second in two of them and was twice third behind such flyers as Burning Blaze, Hygro, Proteus and Morfair. He wasn't beaten badly, bnt nevertheless they didn't pay off on him.

That ended his 2 year old campaign. He was put into training for the Derby in mid-winter at New Orleans. He has been at it ever since, and the latest reports are that he is fit and ready for the race of his life. Eddie Ambrose will likely ride him.

Liberty Limited's defeats as a 2 year old were attributed to his slow way of getting into stride. If he hasn't mastered that fatal habit he may not do much at Churchill Downs on May 7, for there's lots of early speed in this year's Derby.

YANKEES BEAT SENATORS, 6-5; TAKE 2D PLACE

Rout Crowder with 4 Runs in Second Inning.

New York, April 26.—(AP)—The Yankees squeezed out a 6 to 5 victory today over Washington in a stubborn and protracted battle. It was the first clash between these two pennant contenders and the outcome moved the New Yorkers into second place over their rivals.

It looked like a typical Yankee onslaught when Babe Ruth and company collected five runs and drove Al Crowder from the mound in less than two innings. Thereafter a varied assortment of Washington pitchers checked the local siege guns until the eighth inning.

Ruth was conspicuous in saving and then winning the game in this inning. First, with the bases full of Senators and none out, the Babe speared Joe Judge's drive to the right field barrier with a leaping catch. One run scored after the catch and the Senators tied the score subsequently on another outfield fly.

Then Ruth delivered the vital blow, a single to the right field fence off Fred Marberry, Washington's fourth pitcher. Lyn Lary, who had walked for the fourth time, romped to third and then scored the winning run on Lou Gehrig's infield out.

The veteran southpaw, Herb Pennock, pitched himself out of most of his troubles until the Senators rallied in the eighth. Visibly weakening, he gave way, after Judge's drive, to Red Ruffing, who fanned Manush and West to end the game after Sam Rice walked at the start of the ninth.

Ragland Checks Yankees.

Bill Dickey's home run off Crowder was the big blow struck by the Yankees in the second, but one of Gehrig's three singles was the finishing wallop. Frank Ragland, Chattanooga recruit, stopped the Yankees in this inning and struck out Ruth with the bases full in the third. Score:

RED SOX, 10; MACKS, 2.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 26.—(AP)—The Boston Red Sox, making their first appearance of the season here, displayed total disrespect for the pitching of Lefty Grove today and pounded the Athletics' southpaw ace and his successor, Ed Rommel, for a 10 to 2 victory.

For the first five innings, the Sox couldn't get a hit off Grove, but they amply made up for the failure in the sixth when they bunched five of their ten hits for six runs. They made another tally in the eighth off Rommel and three in the ninth when Earl Webb topped off the proceedings with a home run with one on base.

SUMMONS TO DERBY.

FOR several years it has been Wake custom to visit Louisville well in advance of the Kentucky Derby and there talk to the various contenders, hearing from their own lips, so to speak, just what were their chances in America's great $50,000 3 year old stake. From this association has grown up a friendship and camaraderie with equine friends which has been interesting and enjoyable whether or not it augmented the bank roll of our followers or ourself.

TOP FLIGHT.

Because the Derby is one week earlier this year and because we did not know Friend Arch's wishes in the matter, we had refrained from comment on our plans. It was gratifying, therefore, to receive several letters from Derby contenders, two of which we'll reproduce. Naturally the one from a young lady intribued us most. It was from Topsy Topflight, who was chosen for the daisy chain while at Vassar, but withdrew from college for some reason not yet explained to us. It reads:

Dear Wake: When you knew me last year I was just a little girl and could not go out much at night. Now I'm a year older and do not have to have a chaperon.

Are you going to the Derby as usual? Please do. I'd like a couple of dates in a congenial party. If it's to that night club across the river where the little ball spins, better make it after the big race. You know I make my 3 year old debut Saturday and surely expect to attend that Derby tea May 7. I'll need plenty of sleep before then, because a lot of people say we girls don't win Derbies, and I want to step faster than any of the boys in that race.

But, Mr. Wake, you must come to the Derby. I want to have a nice talk with you before the race. When you call at my boudoir just tell the maid or groom who you are and I'll leave orders that you are to be admitted. Best regards. Yours cordially,

TOPSY TOPFLIGHT.

Another letter was from Burning Blaze, owned by Nash Brothers of Chicago. We thought we detected a bit of facetiousness in it. Here it is:

Dear Harve: Come down to Louisville as soon as you can. In the first place I can give you the name of the Derby winner, but that's not the only reason. We need more Chicagoans here. I'm tired of listening to these stories about Top Flight, Tick On, On Post, the Bradley pair, and Liberty Limited. We Cermak chaps have to stick together.

Another thing, Harve, you better bring your own—you know what I mean. For some reason it's hard to get even if you have money, and I haven't seen any one yet with any jack. Why, we're playing 10 cent limit instead of quarter limit in our stud games and that's plenty fast enough. Tell French Lane I appreciated what he said about me after his recent visit. Regards,

BURNY BLAZE.

There was also a rather short note from Burgoo King saying it would be a good idea not to underrate him and his stable companion, Brother Joe.

Mickey and King.

Mickey Walker—King Levinsky—
That's the fight we've longed to see.
It should make the fight fans frisky,

If the King hits Mickey's chinsky,
Falls to knock him out to sea;
And the Walker's still uprightsky,
We'll be served King fricassee.

But if Walker hooks the Kingfish,
Gets him mad and falls to duck—
Then will Mickey look quite foolish
As the King breaks up his luck.

ARTHUR J. OLSEN.

Harve: Here we've all been stewing and fretting around the past 30 months with the answer to the whole thing right before our eyes. Just write to the Better Business bureau and tell 'em to make it better.

CHAMP POUNDS OUT VICTORY IN FINAL ROUNDS

Walker, Levinsky End Drill Today.

Trenton, N. J., April 26.—(AP)—Gorilla Jones, Akron, O., Negro, recognized as middleweight champion by the National Boxing association, whipped Young Terry of Trenton, in a 12 round title bout tonight.

Jones Punches Hard.

Terry was the aggressor throughout, but he weakened badly after the eighth. The lead he piled up in the early rounds dwindled as Jones doubled him up repeatedly in the ninth, tenth and eleventh rounds with hard rights to the mid section.

The Trenton fighter rallied frequently and several times rushed Jones to the ropes. His punches, however, lost their earlier power and the blows he rained on the champion's body were ineffective.

CROWDS WATCH WALKER

The boys from the loop packed Trafton's gymnasium yesterday afternoon to watch Mickey Walker. The bleachers were jammed and the overflow climbed on a spare ring and crowded the floor so that they all but pushed other boxers down stairs to the showers.

Then when the Irishman finished six rounds in the ring, hundreds formed a circle about him as he smote the big bag with thumping lefts and rights. Against this inanimate opponent Mickey loosed his best punches which he had held in check in the ring. And the fans, watching, perhaps thought of what may be the result if Walker can reach Levinsky with his left hook or straight right in their ten round bout at the Chicago Stadium Friday night.

The King Practices Swing.

Over at the Arcade gymnasium on West Madison street, Levinsky put over those right hand swings in authentic fashion. He wrestled and boxed four rounds with Roy Williams, Mickey Balaban of Detroit, and K. O. White. Balaban drew the double portion of work.

The King's partners hit him frequently, but the King generally gets hit. It isn't how often the King is a target, but what happens when he levels on the other fellow that brings out the fans.

Body Guards for King.

Levinsky, ten years younger than Walker and more than 20 pounds heavier, is strong as the proverbial bull. His activities were under direct supervision of Mrs. Lena Levy, the King's brother and several unrecognized advisers. Both fighters end their drill today.

The feeling between the rival camps has reached such a pitch that Mrs. Levy has engaged body guards and taken the King from his usual haunts to a resting place, site unknown.

"I guess the King can have a couple of body guards if Jack Kearns has 'em for Walker," was Mrs. Levy's explanation.

Aw They're Only Kiddin'.

Runners have set a hot pace between Randolph street and Madison street conveying the latest in jokes and jabs. Walker's followers yesterday were regaling friends with stories how Ace Hudkins knocked Levinsky down last summer at Mills stadium with innuendo that Walker will do more than that Friday night.

The return service brought back a rejoinder that Walker should not expect the King to take a running dive from the ring as did K. O. Christner, Mickey's last Chicago opponent.

TICK ON MAKES FIRST START AS 3 YR. OLD TODAY

Baltimore, Md., April 26.—[Special.]—It is not often that a race for a $1,400 purse creates more interest than a $10,000 stake, but that is the situation at the Havre de Grace track where tomorrow two outstanding Kentucky Derby and Preakness candidates will make the first starts as three year olds.

With Tick On, co-favorite with C. V. Whitney's Top Flight to win the Kentucky Derby, and Mad Frump eligible to run in the mile and 70 yard Shenandoah event, the $10,000 Aberdeen stakes for two year olds has been shunted into the background. Tick On, the property of Mrs. Louis G. Kauffman, rules a heavy favorite over the eight other entries.

Mad Frump, also making his first start of the year, tonight was mustering steady support as the horse which is most likely to press Tick On for first honors. This Whitney Preakness and Derby candidate will get into the race with an impost of 112 pounds, seven less than Tick On must shoulder.

Proteus Shares Top Weight.

Proteus, owned by A. C. Bostwick and another Derby and Preakness eligible, shares the top weight assignment with Tick On. Other horses nominated for tomorrow's mile and 70 yard test are Pe tam, Air Pilot, Semaphore, Spring Steel, Late Date and Broom Lady.

Acautaw, Cattail and Lucille K. are the most highly regarded of the 21 two year olds named to st rt in the Aberdeen $10,000 added dash at four and a half furlongs. Other entries are Mack Sennett, Cantoria, Star Fairy, Daisy Cutter, Wary, Paint Box, Cresta Run, Three Bees, Apprehensive, Keggy, Golden Fate, Post Brigade, Okapi, Lough Port, Bally Bay, Three Daggers, Cruising and Gala Time.

From this group may come a future champion, but as yet the Maryland racing season has not uncovered an outstanding juvenile.

Her Grace Wins.

Elmer Trueman of Washington, who trains a half dozen stables, sent Ral Parr's Her Grace and Howard Bruce's Avalon after the Glyndon purse, today's six furlong feature, and the entry proved too much for G. D. Widener's Finite, which finished second behind Her Grace with Avalon third.

Held as 3 to 5 favorites in the wagering, the Parr-Bruce entry trailed Finite until the turn for home, where Her Grace moved up to the early pacemaker. It was a nip and tuck battle to within 70 yards of the wire where Her Grace easily drew away from Finite.

BETTING DECLINES 13 PER CENT AT HAVRE MEETING

The spring racing season at the Havre de Grace track in Maryland which goes into its tenth day this afternoon shows a decrease of 13 per cent in the amount of money wagered through the pari-mutuel machines, according to reports that reached Chicago yesterday. The paid attendance, however, was reported to have been more than last year.

There has been a greater decrease in betting at the Lexington, Ky., spring meeting which ends a 10 day run this afternoon. On the opening day of the spring meeting at Lexington a year ago $120,000 was wagered, according to the reports in the hands of Chicago race track officials. On opening day this year the wagering totaled only $67,000. Betting during the other days of the Lexington meeting has been off about 20 per cent. The attendance with one dollar admission prices prevailing this year will be slightly less than last year when the admission price was $2, according to the officials of the Lexington track.

Purses were cut to $500 and $600 at Lexington this year. This made the daily offerings less attractive than in former years. It caused the falling off in attendance and betting, horsemen claim.

DE PAUL TO MEET NORTHWESTERN'S GOLFERS TODAY

Northwestern university's golf team will open its season today in a match against De Paul at the Kildeer Country club. Each team will enter five men in the match which is to be decided by 18 holes medal play.

Coach Leon Kranz has trimmed the purple squad to five men out of a group of 25 candidates. The Northwestern entries will be Capt. Fred Damaske, John Whitaker, Paul McDonald, Joe Nye, and Charles Casper.

Today's match will be the only practice affair for the Wildcats before they open their western conference season with Indiana at Bloomington Monday.

COACHES ASSAIL, PRAISE CHANGES IN BASKETBALL

New Rules Designed for More Speed.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

"Bring back the old days," evidently was the theme of the basketball rules committee in its recent annual meeting in New York. Regardless of whether the rules committee will be successful in its effort to inject more speed into the game and regain public popularity, which the committee feels is on the wane, at least the new regulations have sent the brotherhood of coaches up in the air.

The new rules are not in final form, but in substance they provide:

1. The ball must be advanced beyond a line marking the center of the floor in ten seconds after it has been put in play from out of bounds or passed into possession from the backboard or by interception behind that line. If the ball is lost to opponents in the offensive half of the court and then regained, it may be taken backward beyond the center line once and then must be brought forward within ten seconds.

Pivot Play Restricted.

2. The player who receives a pass from a teammate with his back to the goal [commonly referred to as the pivot play] must pass the ball, shoot or dribble out of his position in three seconds. If he fails to do so the opponents are awarded the ball out of bounds. This is the same penalty for the ten second rule.

This marks the first major change in basketball since the proposed action confining the dribble to one bounce, which rule was rescinded by the committee before the season opened. The changes undoubtedly are prompted by a desire to create more action, to combat "stalling" or use of the delayed offense, and to break down the blocking fouls around the pivot man on the free throw line.

Coaches Are Divided.

Will they be successful?

"They will," answer Dr. Walter E. Meanwell, basketball coach at the University of Wisconsin; Dr. Forrest C. Allen, Kansas university athletic director and basketball coach, and Nelson Norgren, basketball coach at the University of Chicago.

"The rules will not accomplish their purposes. They are prohibitive and directed at a definite system of attack. They favor the defense and will reduce scoring, which the committee insists it wishes to develop." In brief these are the opinions of George Keogan, Notre Dame basketball coach, and Dutch Lonborg, basketball coach at Northwestern university.

Zone Defense Favored.

Coach Keogan outlines the changes as a victory for those coaches who favor a zone defense [the phrase includes all massed forms of defense] over those who use a man to man form of defense.

"Without consulting the coaches the rules committee adopted the three second rule which will eliminate or at least effectively hamper the pivot line play," Keogan said the other night in speaking before basketball coaches of Chicago and vicinity and the members of the Centra Officials' association.

It should be added that the National Coaches association in its 1932 meeting favored the ten second rule but did not vote any restrictions on the pivot line play.

Every Western conference team last winter, with the exception of Wisconsin and Chicago, used the pivot line play more than half the time. While the three second rule will not eliminate the play, it will restrict the man to a shot at the goal, one pass [to the first player cutting rather than a delay and a pass to a second team mate] or to a dribble.

Burden on Offense.

Lonborg decries the fact that the rules force the team in possession of the ball to bring it down the floor rather than placing the onus on the defense for permitting the offense to delay.

"Fifty per cent of the fouls charted in tournament play and match play occurred inside the free throw area," Coach Allen of Kansas said in reply to a questionnaire. "The post or pivot play, on account of the blocking in this congested area, was charged with a large portion of it."

Dr. Meanwell denies that the incentive for the new rules came from the central states or the far west, which last winter experienced for the first time the familiar impasse where the offense refuses to advance the ball and the massed defense refuses to break up and force the action.

"The three second pivot play rule was proposed and promoted primarily by the eastern men on the rules committee," Dr. Meanwell, who is a member of the committee, said. "The center pivot play is essentially the one which the professional teams employed most for a number of years and to such an extent that it became known as the professional style of play.

Frowns On Rebound Attack.

"Due to its continuous use, the center pivot play practically ruined professional basketball through its monotony and through the over-emphasis that it gave to the employment of one huge man who did very little else than stand with his back to the basket at about the 15 foot mark. The maneuvering was slow and deliberate, lacking in fire and dash and variability.

"Associated with the pivot play, almost invariably, was a crashing, three man rebound attack, after the ball was shot at the goal. There is nothing especially skillful about a rebound attack, but it gives such an advantage to the team having height and power as to drive smaller men out of the game."

Why Penalize Natural Ability?

To which Coach Keogan replies: "It is unfair to penalize a player solely because he has natural ability such as height and power. Play can be forced to all parts of the court if coaches will forsake the massed defense."

No matter the result, one thing is sure. The officials not only must continue to exercise their unparalleled authority in giving and taking away points and controlling possession of the ball, but now must add to their rôles the faculty of counting the three second and ten second periods under the new rules.

Brief Review Shows Elmer His Mistake

BY ELMER DUBB.

Well, it begins to look as if they're going to have to burn down the clubhouse at Glen Oak before your Cousin Elmer grnduates from the iron shot school. It seemed that way for the greater part of the lesson out there yesterday, at least until Teacher Cooper began to get my shots in line.

I found out another thing about this game yesterday and that is, if you do master one part of a shot, don't get to thinking that you have the whole thing or you will look very foolish. That's what happened to me yesterday. Harry was finishing up some other business when I arrived at the pro shop, so he sent me out to the practice tee with a caddy and told me to see what I remembered from the previous lesson shots with the No. 5 iron.

Ray Bergman, the caddy, paused before going down the fairway to take up his retrieving position and asked me about how far I was going to hit the balls.

"O, between 125 and 150 yards," I said casually.

Sock and the Ball Sails All of 15 Feet.

But Ray continued to wait on the practice tee until I had hit one and did I feel silly when the first attempt, after excavating about a foot of turf, soared fully three feet in the air and all of fifteen feet off the tee. Ray exhibited remarkable self-control during this demonstration of hitting power and finally went out on the fairway, but only about 100 yards.

His judgment was vindicated, for I repeated my first effort on the next dozen attempts, until the practice tee began to look like a battlefield being massaged by a battery of 75s. And I didn't know why until I heard a voice shouting, "Keep your head down! Keep your head down!"

It was Harry, on his way over from the pro shop, who had diagnosed my weakness. When he reached the tee he produced a No. 4 iron and told me to try it. I concentrated on keeping my head down and eyes on the ball until a fraction of a second after the club had hit the ball and was surprised to find that I could get a certain amount of distance, so much, in fact, that Ray had to move back on the fairway to retrieve the balls.

"Let's concentrate on that head for this lesson," Harry instructed. "If you get that one point down straight the rest will come a lot easier to you. Just pretend there are a couple of five pound dumbbells wired to your ears."

Elmer Obeys and Gets Some Results

I obeyed and for the first time during the lesson began to get somewhere. Harry asked me if I missed a slight sting in my palms on each of these efforts. I said I had and he pointed out that this was the result of hitting the ball correctly, due largely to keeping my head anchored on the ball and a firm grip with the left hand.

"Hold your grip all the way and don't loosen it at the top of the backswing or you'll lose control of it," Cooper directed.

"You have a temptation common to a lot of beginners—that of wanting to see where the ball is going. You begin to straighten up your body before you've hit the ball and then you wonder why you top the ball or don't hit it at all. The sound of a good solid shot is enough to let you know that it is a good one."

I found that there was more satisfaction in hearing the ball be on its way than in attempting to watch it go too soon and finally began to show the value of keeping the head on the ball. I hope I can remember this one when we get going on the No. 3 iron.

VERSATILITY IS BILL BURGMEIR'S MIDDLE NAME

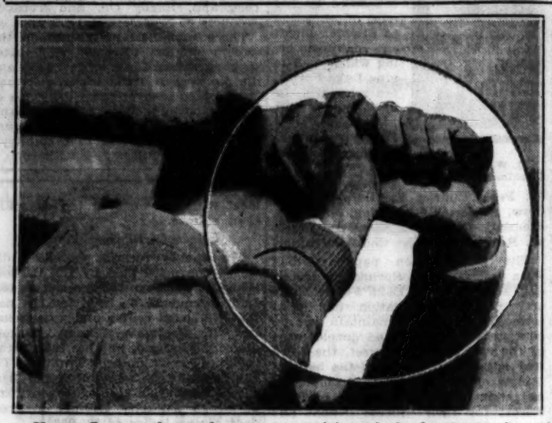
William Burgmeier, an athlete who represents the Avondale playground, doesn't confine his activities to one sport. Bill, who has just turned 17, first gained park recognition in 1930 when he came in fourth in THE TRIBUNE Silver Skates Derby. The next year he was on the Schurz High school relay team which won the city swim championship at the Illinois Athletic club.

Last winter he competed for Chicago in the Olympic ice skating tryouts at Lake Placid in New York, and in the A. A. U. track meet last month he established a new junior high jump record with a mark of 6 feet 2¾ inches.

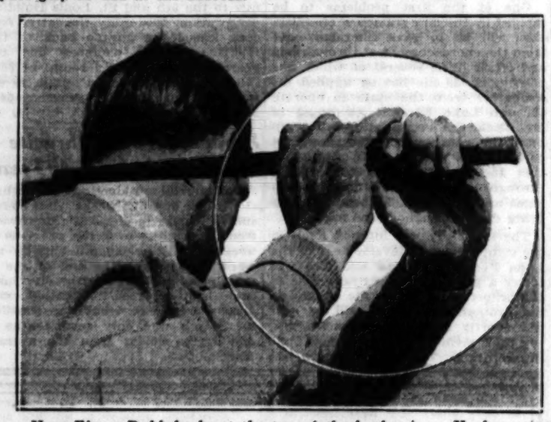
Maroons at Notre Dame Today to End Series

Notre Dame and Chicago baseball teams will meet today in a return game at Notre Dame, with the Maroon team seeking to avenge the 3 to 0 defeat suffered on April 16. The Maroon team, which has been practically rebuilt this year, is still somewhat uncertain in the field, but is improving steadily and will be a strong contender if it keeps on hitting as it did against Ohio last Saturday.

GOLF GRIPS—RIGHT AND WRONG



Harry Cooper shows the correct position of the head and the grip at the finish of the backswing. The head is anchored on the ball, and he has perfect control of the club because he has kept the same compact grip he had at the address.



How Elmer Dubb looks at the top of the backswing. He has raised his head and has relaxed his original grip on the club, so that his fingers are loose and he will lose control of the club when he begins the downswing.

Remember Fritz Pollard? Son, Fred, Follows His Steps

A tall, rangy colored boy bent with several other members of the championship Senn High school track team, awaiting the pistol shot to send them on their way to the last chore of the day's drill on a field adjacent to the school.

FRED POLLARD.

The pistol barked and the field went on its way. The race was over in a few seconds. Two youths came back to the starting point to pick up their sweaters. The others began making their way toward the gymnasium and the shower room.

"Fred Pollard," yelled Coach Don Seaton. The lanky colored boy looked back and slowly walked toward the coach in the center of the small field.

"Fred, you can't break any records the way you ran this afternoon," said the coach. "What seems to be the trouble?"

Feels a Bit Tired.

"Well, coach, you know I usually get up at 4 o'clock in the morning to deliver TRIBUNES. After I get through I go back home and have a little nap before I go to school," explained Pollard. "This morning I woke up late and had to hurry and I'm a little tired."

"Okay, Fred," said Seaton. "But start getting into shape. You know we got to show something in the Gary relays Saturday and we haven't much time for practice."

"Wish I had more boys like Pollard on my team. Wouldn't have much trouble getting points. He never misses a day's practice and he is up every morning when most people are in bed, putting newspapers on doorsteps of homes on the north side.

Carries Fame to St. Louis.

"He doesn't mind it," continued Coach Seaton. "He's been doing it for several years. He's captain of the squad now and was the only member of the team to go to the Maplewood relays at St. Louis, Mo., last week. He established a new record in the 140 yard high hurdles, tied for first place in the pole vault, and tied for second in the high jump.

"He's made several records around here, too. At the Chicago Public High School league meet at the University of Chicago he broke the 50 yard high hurdles record, covering the distance in :06.5, and he tied the 50 yard lows in :06.2. He won both the 60 yard high and low hurdles at the Oak Park relays several weeks ago.

"Just about the best track man in the City league. Following right in the footsteps of his daddy, Fritz Pollard, who won a place on Walter Camp's All American football team while attending Brown university in 1916. Fritz was a good track man, too, they tell me.

Plays Football, Too.

"Fred says the first thing he remembers seeing was a football. I never will forget the look on Fritz's face when he saw his boy play his first football game against Loyola academy. Senn lost the game, 2 to 0, but Fred showed plenty that day. He's coming back for his last year on the football team next season. Sure will hate to see him go next February.

"His daddy is out on the Pacific coast now, where he led the Colored All-Stars football team last fall. Naturally he has quite an interest in his boy and always wants to know how he is coming along."

"Well, there goes one boy who is going to be heard from after he leaves here," he said as Pollard disappeared around a corner.

DURANT TO DRIVE CAR FOR HARTZ AT INDIANAPOLIS

Indianapolis, Ind., April 26.—(AP)—Cliff Durant, wealthy sportsman, today was named driver of a car entered by Harry Hartz in the annual 500 mile automobile race here May 30.

In other years Durant has been a contender for racing honors, at one time having a five car team on the track. He never has driven a winner, and it was said he hired out to Hartz instead of having his own entry in the hope of changing his luck.

Chicago May Increase Entry in Links Meet

Chicago may have more than one team seeking the United States public links championships in the eleventh annual tournament to be held on the Shawnee golf course at Louisville, July 19 to 23, inclusive. The possibility of this arose yesterday when W. S. Langford of Mid-City, Chicago member of the United States Golf association's public links committee, said that he will make an effort to have the district, considering its size, represented by more than one team.

Langford, who made a creditable showing in southern tournaments himself this winter, stopped off recently at Louisville at the request of William F. Farnham, secretary of the tournament committee there, to inspect the Shawnee course and found it rounding into excellent shape. He also reports that several new cities, including Memphis, Knoxville, Chattanooga, Birmingham, Dallas, Little Rock, and Oklahoma City, will enter the tourney this year to compete for the Harding team trophy.

Entries Close July 5.

The qualifying rounds for the tournament must be held within the two weeks beginning June 13. Entries for the tournament close with the U. S. G. A. office, 110 East 42d street, New York, on or before July 5. Each city will be limited to six players, of whom four will constitute the team competing for the Harding trophy. Teams will be determined in local 36 hole medal play competitions, with the U. S. G. A. representative in charge privileged to choose the six from the low 20 scorers, or even to name players from the previous year's team without qualification.

The tournament at Louisville will be decided with two days of qualifying play, the low 32 scorers to enter the match play rounds, which, except for the 36 hole final, will be at 18 holes.

Last Year's Team to Compete.

Members of last year's Chicago team are expected to compete for places again this year. They are Al Quigley, medalist in the 1930 national tournament; Einar Pedersen, Cap Alcoate, and Gus Fetz, all of Mid-City, and Sterling Dawson and John Banks, both of Lincoln park. Chicago won the first national team trophy in 1923 and repeated in 1926.

ESTLICK TO LEAD SPEED DRIVERS IN RACE TOMORROW

Outboard motor boat trials for world's records will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. over a special one-mile course in the World's Fair lagoon. The race will be run under the auspices of the national outboard racing commission coöperating with the Boat show on the Navy pier to demonstrate the speed of the new 1932 models now on display.

Nearly twenty drivers will attempt to break existing records in the electrically timed runs. Among the drivers will be Tommy Eslick of Waukegan, holder of the present world's record of 56.52 miles an hour, made last year on Salton Sea, Cal. Others are John Maypole and his son, John Jr., of River Forest.

Among the half mile of boat exhibits at the show, Miss America IX., Gar Wood's hydroplane, is attracting the most attention. This is the craft in which the Detroit veteran established a new world's record of 111.7 miles per hour at Daytona, Fla., to take the title of speed boat king from Kaye Don, the Englishman, who had previously set a mark of 110.23 miles per hour at Lake Garda, Italy. Wood is now having the motors of the Miss America IX. supercharged, and hopes to better 120 miles in his next effort.

All of the leading Chicago yacht clubs are represented by displays, as well as an exhibit by the coast guard under the direction of Capt. J. O. Anderson.

CHARLES BECKA.

Out at Calumet they're looking to a young man who has a lot of years of golf in front of him to do big things in the game within the next few years. His name is Chuck Becka. It isn't that he hasn't already made his mark in tournaments throughout the district. In fact, he has made such an impression already that at 20 he is the youngest of the leaders on the Chicago District Golf association's roll for 1932, coming from Calumet with a handicap of two strokes.

Because of his age Chuck won't be eligible to compete in the western junior championship tournament at Medinah in July, but he will be remembered as one of the most consistent golfers who ever sought the honor. He was runner-up to Bob Cochrane of St. Louis in last year's meet at Midlothian.

He won the C. D. G. A. junior championship at Wilmette and Medinah in 1930 with a combined score of 300 for the 72 holes and then came back in the C. D. G. A. amateur against a field of older players to force Jack Westland to the 34th green before losing.

Chuck works days, but is completing a night high school course now and plans to enter Northwestern university when he receives his diploma, which should assure the Purple golf team of a right good player.

Tommy Armour Quits Club; Claims Back Salary

Detroit, Mich., April 26.—[Special.]—Tommy Armour, who won the British open golf championship last year, has resigned as professional at the Tam o' Shanter club here, it was learned today. Armour, in announcing his resignation, said the club had not paid him his salary for two seasons, 1930 and 1931.

Legs Hurt in Fire Now Burn College Tracks

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Glenn Cunningham, star distance runner of Kansas university, who won the 1,500 meter event in the Kansas relays last Saturday, is one of the host of athletes who will appear in the 23d annual relays at Drake university this week-end. Cunningham's rise to fame in Big Six competition has been the result of unparalleled determination and constant practice to overcome physical handicaps.

When 8 years of age Cunningham, who lives in Elkhart, Kas., was in a country schoolhouse fire in which his brother was burned to death and he himself seriously burned about the legs. As a result he does not have normal muscular protection on his leg bones and he must train carefully.

Sticks to Track at Kansas.

Cunningham played football and basketball in high school in addition to his track work, but at Kansas university he has confined his athletic activity to the latter sport. During his freshman year he rested, except for long walks and exercises to develop his heart and lungs. He still keeps up these exercises and trains on the track only twice a week.

He began work slowly last fall and, although he ran the two miles in 9:38 to defeat Chapman of Iowa State, he was not permitted to travel at top speed. In this race his second mile was covered in 4:37, which indicates his possibilities. In the Big Six indoor meet this year Cunningham won in 4 minutes 21.9 seconds. The following week in Chicago he won the Bankers' mile in 4 minutes 19.2 seconds.

After winning the mile race against Haskell two weeks ago in a dual meet he returned to the track and covered the half mile in 1 minute 54.5 seconds, establishing a new university record. In this race Cunningham was instructed not to run faster than 57 seconds for the first quarter. In fact, he ran the quarter in 57.5 seconds, which indicates he probably can cut his time for the half mile.

Nears 1,500 Meter World Mark.

Henry Brocksmith of Indiana university, conference indoor mile and two mile champion, withdrew from the 1,500 meter race last Saturday. Without serious opposition Cunningham was timed in 4 minutes 2⅛ seconds, which is within 11 seconds of the accepted world mark.

Cunningham is working his way through Kansas university and has a high scholastic standing.

At Drake Cunningham will run on the Kansas two mile team and he also may compete in the two mile special event.

HE CAN'T CROON LIKE VALLEE, BUT IS HE HANDSOME!

Towhee's Song No Melody; Still He Has Character.

BY BOB BECKER.

From now on the meadows and woods in Chicagoland will take on new life and color as a result of the arrival of many songbirds from the southland. In some respects the sport of "bird hunting" without weapons, except for a birdbook and a pair of binoculars, reaches its climax in the period between the last week of April and the middle of May.

A look at the arrival calendar of our songbirds tells the story of many acquaintanceships that can be struck up with many of our feathered friends at this time of the year. Of course, the good looking towhee already is here and the migrating sparrows have been drifting through Chicagoland for some days. But this week also should see the arrival of the thrush and the whippoorwill if these birds strike an average of all their arrival dates in the Chicagoland. Then we may look for the chimney swift and the peppery house wren.

The Towhee Has Character.

One cannot help but commend the towhee or chewink to city dwellers who like to meander through the woods and across the fields with bird glasses at this time of the year. To us the towhee has character and is endowed with a real personality. There is nothing dull or stupid about this bird. He is full of energy, wears his gay feathers with distinction and fills the woods at this time of the year with his challenging call.

A few days ago we squatted under a thorn apple tree in a patch of woods near Wheaton to watch a towhee scratching among the dead leaves. There was energy in every movement as he searched for food. Then through the glass we saw this bird go to the top of a low wild apple tree and sing. In flight the striking white of its tail feathers was distinct, and as it sat on its perch it was easy to see the rich chestnut brown on its sides and the deep glossy black of head, throat, and back. A handsome fellow is this gay singing chewink.

Not Really a Crooner.

He hasn't much of a song when compared to the thrush, catbird, or thrasher, but it is vigorous and catches the ear at once. One can identify it quite easily. It starts rather high and has been translated as chuck-burr — pill-a-will-a-will-a. But most typical and easier to recognize is its sharp call "chewink."

The next time you get afield look for this handsome "ground robin" or towhee. Right now they are contributing to the spring atmosphere of Chicagoland. And they are useful birds to the farmer, too.

RAIL PRESIDENT HITS FEDERAL TAXING METHODS

Says Public Bears Ever Growing Load.

Sioux City, Ia., April 26.—"We have all too much government in business, but are sadly lacking in business in government."

H. A. Scandrett, president of the Milwaukee road, made that statement in an address before the Traffic club of Sioux City tonight.

"The pace that has been set by tax-spending bodies is too fast and cannot continue. The public, you and I, though rather late in the day, have become aware of this situation and of its very sinister import, and if we are vocal enough and insistent enough, long enough, we shall persuade our tax-spending bodies that economy must be for them, as it is for us, the first order of the day," Mr. Scandrett declared.

The Milwaukee road alone pays in taxes each year about nine million dollars. The taxes of all the railroads in the country in 1930 amounted to $348,000,000, an increase of 252 per cent since 1911 when $99,000,000 were paid. During the period 1913 to 1929 the per capita cost of government increased 255 per cent. Notwithstanding the stupendous increase in the amounts collected as taxes, the financial condition of many of our municipalities is deplorable, Mr. Scandrett pointed out.

In the state of Iowa the Milwaukee road paid $1,246,100 in taxes for 1931, according to Mr. Scandrett. Of this amount more than a half million went to the schools and nearly a quarter million to the highways. In South Dakota the railroad's taxes for 1931 amounted to $1,188,000.

Shows Inroads by Trucks.

Referring to the fact that records of the Sioux City Stock Yards company show that of the total number of animals received last year trucks hauled in 62 per cent and railroads 38 per cent, Mr. Scandrett said:

"In the light of these figures it is interesting to compare what was done by each of these instrumentalities of transportation to aid the sufferers from drought conditions in parts of this state and in very extended sections of the Dakotas and Montana. So far as financial ability to help was concerned, the drought came at a bad time for the railroads as they had undergone a progressive decline in traffic for many months, and which still continues.

"They felt, however, that as good neighbors, they should do all they could to relieve distress, and so they hauled free clothing, food, and other supplies shipped by the Red Cross and made very substantial reductions in the rates on hay and grain for feed for live stock. I have not the figures for other railroads, but they are, no doubt, comparable with ours. In the case of the Milwaukee road these contributions amount to over $750,000 and the movement is not yet over. I have made inquiries, but have learned of no case where the trucks which hauled 62 per cent of the live stock to the Sioux City market hauled feed or other supplies free, or at reduced rates, to relieve these distressful conditions."

Discusses Use of Highways.

Speaking of the use of public highways by motor carriers operating for profit Mr. Scandrett quoted from testimony before the senate committee by Dr. C. S. Duncan, economist, who, after going fully into the subject arrived at the conclusion that:

"Heavy buses and trucks above three tons or equivalent constituting about two per cent in number of total vehicles, should pay all additional costs resulting from road destruction on highways too light for such traffic and all additional costs of construction and maintenance of roads builded for them. There is no evidence that any such sums have been paid or are now being paid by them."

In commenting upon the development of waterways, he said that he places the action of the government in embarking on activities which put it in competition with its citizens as being in the realm of unfair competition. He added:

"The entire cost of railroad transportation is the freight rate paid. The cost of inland water transportation consists of two items: First, the payment made by the shipper for the actual movement of his goods; and, second, the payment made by the public through taxes for maintenance and operation costs and for interest upon the funds invested in the waterways.

"Through the levying of taxes upon the people, most of whom receive no benefit therefrom, the government has spent, and proposes to spend, hundreds of millions of dollars to dredge and maintain channels, construct and maintain locks and provide terminal facilities in its river improvement program. But the government has gone further than this, and through the operation of its Inland Waterway corporation is itself engaging in the transportation business in competition with the railroads."

Southern Pacific Asks to Guarantee Rail Notes

Washington, D. C., April 26.—(AP)—The Southern Pacific company today asked the interstate commerce commission for authority to guarantee $18,000,000 of notes of the St. Louis Southwestern railway to the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

The application for permission to guarantee the notes of the Cotton Belt is in line with requirements placed by the commission on a loan it authorized the road to obtain from the finance corporation. The Southern Pacific owns approximately 80 per cent of the stock of the Cotton Belt and on April 14 that road became a unit in the Southern Pacific system.

Utah Supreme Court Denies U.S. Loans to Closed Banks

Salt Lake City, Utah, April 26.—(AP)—The state Supreme court today ruled that the Utah banking department is without authority to borrow money from the Reconstruction Finance corporation on assets of closed banks. The court divided three to two on the case, brought by a depositor and stockholder of a local bank.

RAILS PRESENT CHEERFUL NEWS ON CAR LOADING

BY O. A. MATHER.

A sharp upturn in the movement of commodities by railroads during the second week of April was reported by the American Railway association yesterday. It was about the most cheerful news of the day and interrupted a long series of drab statistics. Moreover, the fact that more than a third of the increase occurred in miscellaneous freight was accepted as holding forth promise of improvement in general business.

Revenue freight loadings for the week ended April 16 totaled 566,729 cars, which marked an increase of 21,923 cars over the preceding week. It was the most pronounced rise that has occurred during the second week of April in the last eight years. Miscellaneous freight loadings totaled 205,076 cars, a gain of 8,863 cars over the previous week. Less-than-carload merchandise freight totaled 186,924 cars, a recession of 663 carr. Considerable increases in livestock and other commodities nearly offset a decline of 36,713 cars in coal.

Still Abnormally Low.

Current railroad traffic is abnormally low, of course. Thus, the present total was 192,765 cars below a year ago and 325,977 cars under two years ago. But in both cases, miscellaneous freight showed more than half of the declines. Therefore, the present pick-up in this item is emphasized as being likely to herald recovery, just as in the past it has presaged depression.

News of the petroleum industry was less cheerful. It would appear that a recent general advance in crude oil prices has stimulated production considerably in spite of the various restrictive measures imposed in the different areas. At the same time there has been a further increase in the already heavy storage stocks of gasoline of refiners. Whether the opening of the summer motoring season will counteract this larger output remains to be seen.

Daily Average Gains.

The daily average gross crude oil output last week was 2,267,900 brls, an increase of 86,250 brls a day, according to the weekly summary of the American Petroleum institute. This was one of the largest weekly increases in a number of months and Oklahoma was responsible for the bulk of it. In addition to the domestic output, imports of crude and refined oil at the principal ports totaled 3,334,000 brls last week, compared with 2,979,000 brls in the previous week.

Refiners took slightly less crude oil last week and operated at 61.7 per cent of capacity, compared with 62.1 per cent in the preceding week. Gasoline stocks at the end of last week totaled 47,285,000 brls, an increase of 552,000 brls. Two grades of Pennsylvania crude oil were advanced 5 to 10 cents a brl yesterday.

Auto Retails Sales Up.

Retail sales of automobiles picked up last month, while wholesale distribution receded, according to the monthly review of the Chicago Federal Reserve bank. General merchandising showed less than seasonal expansion.

March retail sales of automobiles exceeded February by 8½ per cent in number or 3½ per cent in value but declined 49.1 per cent in number and 37.8 per cent in value compared with March, 1931. Wholesale sales last month declined 12½ per cent in number and 8.9 per cent in value from the February figures and also were off 50.6 per cent in number and 52.6 per cent in value from March, 1931. Stocks of new cars on hand at the end of March were smaller than either a month or a year before. The ratio of deferred payment sales was 46 per cent last month, compared with 51 per cent in both February, this year, and March, 1931.

"Seasonal factors affected the gains recorded during March in most reporting groups of wholesale trade," the bank says. "With the exception of groceries, the increase shown was smaller than usual for the period. Sales data covering the first quarter of 1932 show substantial reductions from the volume sold in the same period last year. Although March department store trade exceeded that of a month previous, it fell considerably short of the average increase in the period 1922-'31. The aggregate of first quarter sales in 1932 was about one-fourth less than in the corresponding three months of 1931."

HARTMAN CORP. ACQUIRES TWO SPIEGEL STORES

The Hartman corporation announced yesterday that negotiations have been completed for the acquisition of two new stores.

The stores are the M. J. Spiegel Jr. stores at Broadway and Lawrence avenue and Crawford avenue and Madison street. Both now occupy four story structures with modern appointments.

Edward Edwards will be in charge of the Crawford avenue store. The Broadway store will be under supervision of Leonard Ashback.

Stocks have been purchased and will be liquidated immediately. Harold B. Wess, executive vice president of Hartman's, in making the announcement of the purchase, said the expansion was made with confidence in the future and a return to normal business conditions.

At the annual meeting of stockholders of the Hartman corporation held here yesterday three directors whose terms expired were reelected and Elias Mayer, general counsel of the corporation, was added to the board. Opposition interests representing in person 604 shares were present at the meeting, but did not vote.

SINCLAIR SUES FIVE COMPANIES IN PATENT CASE

Wilmington, Del., April 26.—(AP)—Five bills of complaint were filed in United States district court today by the Sinclair Refining company of Maine, charging five concerns with having infringed on patents covering oil burning furnaces and improvements to oil stills.

The defendant concerns are the La Salle Petroleum company, the Cosgen Oil company, the Globe Oil and Refining company, Skelly Oil corporation, and the Atlantic and Pacific and Gulf Refining company.

March Building Permits Down 70% from Year Ago

The value of building permits issued in 101 cities during March totaled $20,448,511, a decline of $61,561,618, or 75 per cent, from the figure for March, 1931, according to a survey by Dun's. In February the total for these cities was $24,349,630, and in January, $26,312,756.

Ireland Puts High Tariff on Ready Made Clothing

DUBLIN, April 26.—(AP)—The Free State government has imposed a high emergency tariff on all imported ready made clothing. It will become effective tonight with the issuance of the official order. The amount of the tariff was not announced this evening.

PARAMOUNT-PUBLIX DELAYS ACTION ON ITS STOCK VALUE CHANGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 26.—The annual meeting of the Paramount Publix corporation, postponed April 19 until today owing to lack of sufficient proxies, was called to order following receipt of sufficient proxies to vote on regular business.

However, the amount received was not enough to ratify the proposal to change the shares from no par to $10 par value. Since approval of two-thirds of the outstanding stock is necessary, the meeting was adjourned for two weeks to obtain the majority required to vote on that change.

President Adolph Zukor, who denied reports he would be replaced, told stockholders the company would report a loss for the first quarter of 1932, "although more cash has been taken in this year in the operation of the business than in the same time a year ago.

"Since the new régime came into the company in 1931," Zukor said, "we have reduced expenses by some $6,000,000. This includes economies through reductions in cost and salaries and by increasing efficiency."

Stockholders approved action of directors in authorizing certain personal service contracts between the company and certain of its officers, also directors, with provisions for issuance of common stock of the corporation to such officers in compensation for services and against certain cash payments.

Warren Wright was elected a director of the company and other retiring directors reelected. Mr. Wright is president of Calumet Baking company.

American Hide Quota for France Is Exhausted

PARIS, April 26.—(AP)—The American quota on worked and tanned cowhides and calfskins is exhausted until June 30 and no more may be imported until then, the Official Journal announced today. Goods already on the way will be allowed to enter, however.

The quota on industrial leather goods from countries other than Great Britain, Germany and Luxembourg also is exhausted until June 30, as well as incandescent lamps from countries other than Germany and Holland. The quota on German radios is exhausted until June 30.

Court Picks Receiver for Missouri Clothing Makers

Jefferson City, Mo., April 26.—(AP)—Receivers were appointed today by Circuit Judge Walter S. Stillwell for the D. M. Oberman Manufacturing company, which has an authorized capitalization of $1,300,000. The principal business of the company is manufacturing men's work clothing. The receivers were asked by a group of preferred stockholders and creditors who alleged the company owes creditors about $1,280,000.

SEE COMPLETION OF STANDARD OF INDIANA DEAL

Sale of the foreign properties of the Pan-American Petroleum company, Standard Oil of Indiana subsidiary, to the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey will be completed in the next few days. That was indicated yesterday.

E. G. Seubert, president of Standard of Indiana, prior to his departure for New York yesterday, stated some details of the deal remain unsettled, but that he expected a final agreement will be reached while he is in the east.

Consummation of the sale will be followed by a regrouping of the foreign properties of Standard of New Jersey, it was said yesterday in financial circles. The New Jersey company is said to be considering the formation of a new holding company for all its foreign properties with the possible exception of the Imperial Oil Company, Ltd., and the latter's South American subsidiary, International Petroleum company. These latter companies, it is understood, will take over the Pan-American properties in their territories.

Since Pan-American had approximately $30,000,000 in cash on hand it is considered that some kind of a cash distribution may be made to stockholders on completion of the deal. Officials of Standard of Indiana have given no indication as to whether any of the proceeds would be passed on to its shareholders if such a "melon" was split. Standard owns 97 per cent of the Pan-American shares.

ALLIS-CHALMERS HAS NET LOSS FOR THE QUARTER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 26.—The Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company issued today its income statement for the March quarter, showing net loss of $936,395 after all charges, compared with net income of $582,807 in the corresponding quarter of 1931, equal to 38 cents a share on 1,258,400 no par capital shares.

Billings amounted to $3,593,966, compared with $7,936,629 in the first quarter of last year, while bookings aggregated $2,984,377, against $6,450,783.

U.S. STEEL DROPS DIVIDEND ON COMMON STOCK

To Pay as Usual on the Preferred.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 26.—For the first time in seventeen years directors of the United States Steel corporation, industrial giant of America, today voted to forego the dividend on the common stock due at this time.

The action had been generally expected in financial circles due to the positive statements made by directors at the January meeting that "it is manifest that continuance of dividends must depend upon an improvement in the corporation's volume of business and earnings." This increase in earnings did not materialize.

At the January meeting directors declared a 50 cent dividend, payable March 30, placing the stock on a $2 annual basis, against $4 previously, and $7 from June 29, 1926, to Sept. 29, 1931.

As was expected, the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on the preferred stock was voted today. This never has been passed since the organization of the company. The last time the common dividend was passed was in 1915.

Prior to the 1915 omission, the steel corporation had passed its dividends in 1904 and 1905, and a special instead of regular payment was made to common stockholders in 1914.

No Action on Wage Cut.

The matter of another cut in the wages o fthe company's employés apparently was not settled at today's meeting, although it had been generally assumed that prevailing conditions in the industry and the lack of satisfactory operations for all units would lead to such action in the event that common stock holders were asked to forego dividend payments.

When asked if there was any statement to be made regarding a contemplated wage reduction, it was said at the office of Myron C. Taylor, the chairman of the board, that no comment on that question would be forthcoming.

During recent years it has been the practice of the company to publish monthly earnings figures in connection with the quarterly statements, but no such data were issued after today's meeting of the board, the figures being confined to the statement for the the quarter.

Following the publication of the Steel corporation's earnings for the first quarter and the action of the board in omitting the common dividend, U. S. Steel common was quoted at 28 and closing at 28¼ on the San Francisco Stock exchange with sales of about 1,000 shares, against a closing price here of 28⅞.

Operating Rate Low.

The extremely low rate of operations in the steel industry was reflected in the quarterly earnings statement, which showed an operating deficit of $11,876,928, against a deficit of $9,374,759 in the previous quarter and net income after charges in the March quarter of last year of $6,765,057.

Results for the quarter ended March 31 last were the poorest for any three months in the history of the corporation as far back as the records show. Net after expenses and ordinary charges and taxes, but before interest, depreciation, etc., amounted to $1,136,607, compared with $3,970,920 in the final quarter of 1931 and with $19,464,836 in the March quarter last year.

The report showed a net loss of

Trust Founded by Eaton Now in Court Hands

Baltimore, Md., April 26.—(AP)—George L. Gugle, an attorney of Columbus, O., was named receiver for Continental Shares, Inc., today by Judge Arthur H. Stump in Circuit court. The suit was brought by Gugle as a stockholder and member of the stockholders' protective committee.

Continental Shares is incorporated in Maryland but operated from Cleveland. Gugle, according to the suit, is the holder of 748 shares of Continental Trust, Inc. He was placed under $10,000 bond.

Says Eaton Dominated.

The petition charged that Cyrus S. Eaton, Ohio capitalist, who had been chairman of the board of the investment trust, promoted the concern as part of his financial plans. It also ileged Eaton "completely dominated" Continental Shares, Inc., and that W. R. Burwell, related by marriage to Eaton and president of the concern until last April, did not have business experience to fit him for the office, but had been paid $36,000 a year as the executive.

The petition also charged that in 1930, when it was alleged such investment generally was unwise, Eaton had used Continental Shares to purchase many millions of dollars' worth of securities from his other concerns.

Defendants Given Five Days.

The receivership hearing was held today in Justice Stump's court and the right was reserved for the defendants to move to vacate the order within a five day period. The incorporation is one of the largest investment trusts in the country.

The petition was presented to the court through local attorneys, and although the order was said to have been signed earlier in the day, publication was withheld until late in the afternoon.

RECALLS INSULL BATTLE

The naming of a receiver for Continental Shares, Inc., in Baltimore yesterday recalls the fight which some Chicagoans say was waged between Eaton, a Nova Scotian, and Samuel Insull of Chicago, born in London, for a utility empire.

The story of that conflict was told in THE TRIBUNE at the time of the appointment of receivers for Middle West Utilities, in a friendly suit, following difficulties regarded as largely to be traced to the high prices of Insull concerns' stocks purchased by Middle West, sometimes at $300 to $400 a share, to prevent control of parts of that utility group from passing to Eaton and his associates.

In a report to the New York Stock exchange Dec. 11, 1929, Continental Shares declared that on the 30th of that November it held securities worth $130,000,502, which had been obtained for $122,355,813 and which included stock then of a market value of $16,442,662 in Commonwealth Edison and $10,872,000 in Peoples Gas Light and Coke company. Other holdings included $14,106,855 in Lehigh Coal and Navigation company, $8,750,000 in the Donner Steel company, $5,813,320 in the Sherwin Williams company, and $5,040,700 in the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company.

Buys More Edison Shares.

By March of the next year Continental Shares had increased its Commonwealth Edison holdings to 72,000 shares. The struggle is said to have ended in a sort of financial armed truce.

By late April of 1931 banking interests had caused the resignation of Mr. Eaton as chairman of the board and Mr. Burwell as president of Continental Shares, George T. Bishop succeeding Mr. Burwell as president. Mr. Bishop predicted an "enhancement of the investment, provided the financial storm ever stops."

In that year the Continental Shares Inc., had outstanding 2,559,180 shares. Several suits were filed in 1931 against the Eaton management, and among those taking up the fight at that time was Mr. Gugle, who was appointed temporary receiver yesterday in Baltimore. Mr. Eaton and his close associates have denied all the charges made. Mr. Eaton began his career by studying for the ministry.

Report Soviets Increasing Use of Farm Machinery

MOSCOW, April 26.—(AP)—More tractors and other agricultural machines are in the fields of Russia than ever before and on April 20 the sown area was double that on the same date of last year. The government's figures showed 16,106,750 acres had been sown on that date as compared with 8,297,500 at the same time in 1931. This year's planting program calls for cultivation of 255,875,000 acres as compared with last year's 243,712,500.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 26.—Enough gains of a point or so were scored in today's dealings on the exchange to give the list a moderately hopeful appearance. Better carloadings and the declaration of the regular Norfolk and Western quarterly dividend of $2.25 a share helped to stir up some activity in the railroad group.

Some of the oil shares, notably Standard of New Jersey, on which it was rumored the Rockefellers were dealing as buyers, looked up in response to more cheerful reports on prospects for that industry. A scattering of individual issues received encouragement from reassuring "guesses" on the state of their business for the first quarter. Among these conjectures was one that Standard of New Jersey would declare its regular dividend when the directors meet May 2, as the company is known to have a large surplus, reported at the end of 1930 as $549,252,775.

Some Covering of U. S. Steel.

Some covering appeared in United States Steel as the hour approached for the corporation's dividend meeting in the late afternoon, but the general attitude seemed to be that whatever "bad news" the directors might have in store had been pretty thoroughly discounted by the heavy selling that has been sinking the old bellwether to a new low almost daily for the last week or ten days. The closing price today was 28⅞, a gain of nearly a half point on the day.

Business continued at an extremely slow pace, the day's turnover totaling only about 800,000 shares. Traders evidently still were restrained by anxieties over the so-called "Washington situation."

Fears were expressed in some quarters that the nation's lawmaking body might let its new-found enthusiasm for delving into the stock market lead it to neglect the more important task of balancing the budget.

Trading Still Is Small.

WINTER WHEAT LOSSES BOOST PRICES IN PIT

U. S. and Private Reports Help Market.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A gloomy picture regarding the probable outcome of the new winter wheat crop in western Kansas and Nebraska and parts of Oklahoma and Texas is being painted by public and private reports.

So serious were the claims of losses in sections where under normal conditions a large yield is secured that it was not easy to buy wheat futures Tuesday without advancing prices.

Wheat traders were also given something new to think about, as the forecast was for heavy frost or freezing temperatures as far south as the Texas panhandle and embracing parts of the latter state as well as Oklahoma, Kansas, and Nebraska. Temperatures of below 15 were reported during the day in the latter state, and the trade were apprehensive of damage.

Traders Take Bullish View.

Local traders were inclined to take a bullish view of the crop and weather reports, and were moderately active on the buying side. A small dip in wheat early was due to scattered selling, but there was no material pressure on the market and the latter advanced 1@1¼c from the inside figures later, and maintained part of the advance, closing ¼@⅝c higher. May was 57¼@57⅝c; old July, 60@60¼c, and old September, 62⅝@62½c, while December was 65⅝@65⅝c.

A. E. Anderson, department of agriculture statistician for Nebraska, after a 1,300 mile trip through the western sections of that state, was quoted as saying there would be a terrific loss in acreage in some sections, rains being received too late to save much of the crop.

R. O. Cromwell, Lamson Bros. & Co. crop observer, covering part of northwestern Texas, north through Oklahoma to Liberal, Kas., reported the outlook as poor to good, with some sections promising to get only seed back. From Liberal to Dodge City, Kas., he said the crop has gone back daily and only seed prospects remained. The March freeze, he indicated, had caused heavy damage in parts of Edwards, Pawnee, and Barton counties, usually good yielding sections.

Aside from the reports affecting the outlook for the new crop there was nothing in the general run of the news to cause enthusiastic buying. Liverpool wheat futures failed to reflect the upturn in North America late Monday and closed ⅝@½ lower, with May at 57¼c, or 18c under the same delivery in Chicago. Winnipeg was ⅛@¼c lower at the last, with May at 62¾c in Canadian funds, which were quoted around 10¼ per cent discount.

A fair export business was reported in wheat at the seaboard with sales exceeding 500,000 bu, including two cargoes of hard winter sold to Greece late Monday. Scattered lots of Manitobas and some domestic durums were also taken, but there was not the snap to the demand from abroad that the trade would have liked to see. A decrease of 16,663,000 bu was reported in the world's available supply, making the total 428,784,000 bu, or about 3,000,000 bu less than last year.

Better Cash Corn Demand.

Corn futures were firm early, with an advance of around ½c due to the development of the best eastern demand for cash grain in some weeks, sales being reported at 155,000 bu. The bulge, however, brought in heavy offerings to arrive from the country with purchases of 185,000 bu estimated made by local operators, and there was also rather persistent selling of May and July, attributed to the liquidation of a line of long grain by a local professional.

Selling against offers checked the early advance, and the market reacted and closed ⅛@¼c lower, with May corn at 31⅜@31⅞c; July, 35@35⅛c; September, 37½c, and December, 38¼c. Basis in the sample market was up ¼@½c as compared with May.

Oats showed independent strength and closed ⅛@⅜c higher, with May at 22⅝@22⅝c; July, 22⅜c, and September, 23⅞@23½c. Crop reports were generally favorable. Cash interests were fair buyers on the dips, with shipping sales of 58,000 bu, and a like amount was booked to arrive.

Scattered liquidation was on in May rye and the market ignored the strength in wheat and closed unchanged to ⅝c lower. May finished at 50⅝c; July, 43½c, and September, 45¼c. The seaboard reported a fair export business had been put through.

BUTTER AND EGGS HIGHER

Suddenly increased speculative buying brought a fairly active forward price move into egg futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, the market closing ⅜@½c higher. May storage packed reached a new high for the year at 14½c. Butter also closed firmer, up ⅛@⅜c. Short covering in October eggs aided in offsetting profit taking and active new selling which appeared on the advance.

Buying for the long pull figured actively in the support. There was little change in the storage reports, the movement of stocks into warehouses continuing under last year and the receipts remaining light. Four market reports for butter showed a slower inward movement than last year and receipts fell off slightly, which increased the support in November and the fresh deliveries. Sales: butter, 29 cars; eggs, 85 cars. Deliveries: eggs, 2 cars. Prices follow:

$11,876,928 after charges for depreciation, interest, etc., against a net loss of $9,374,759 in the December quarter. Net profit of $6,765,057, equivalent to 5 cents a share on the common, was shown in the corresponding quarter in 1931. Inclusion of special and nonrecurring income of $4,997,961 in the repotr for the December quarter, however, reduced the deficl before dividents for that period to $4,376,798.

Provides Preferred Dividend.

After providing for payment of the regular dividend on the preferred stock, involving an outlay of $6,304,919, the corporation reported a total deficit of $19,523,468 for the March quarter. This compared with a deficit of $15,033,414 after payment of the regular dividend on the preferred stock and the disbursement of 50 cents a share, or $4,351,697, on the common stock in the December quarter.

In the first quarter of 1931 the company finished with a deficit of $14,763,240 after provision for dividends, which included total disbursements of $7 a share, or $15,223,378, on the common stock.

Lower Wages This Year.

In making comparison between results for the first quarter of 1932 and those for the corresponding period last year consideration should be given the fact that the corporation had the benefit of lower wage scales this year. Reductions of 10 per cent in salaries and wages became effective the beginning of last October. The extremely low rate of operations, however, the industry having operated at an average of approximately 25.6 per cent during the three months ended with March 31 last, along with reduced prices received for output, undoubtedly offset such economies in some degree. During the first quarter last year the Steel corporation operated at about 50 per cent of capacity, though the average rate for the entire year, due to the slump in the closing half, was roughly about 35 per cent.

OTHER STEEL GROUPS

Two other major concerns in the steel industry also took adverse dividend action yesterday. Inland Steel company directors decided to omit the quarterly payment on the common stock. The company reported a loss for the March quarter. Jones and Laughlin Steel corporation omitted the quarterly disbursement of $1 on the common and reduced the rate on the preferred stock to $4 a share, as compared to $7 formerly.

The Inland Steel quarterly report showed a loss for the three months of $820,541, after all charges, including depreciation and interest. In the comparable period last year the company reported a net profit of $633,873, equivalent to 51 cents a share on the capital stock. Last quarter the company paid a dividend of 25 cents a share. In the preceding quarter a disbursement of 50 cents had been made, prior to which the stock had paid 62½ cents quarterly.

Jones & Laughlin had a first quarter loss of $2,399,089, after taxes and charges, as compared with a deficit of $190,891 in the comparable period of 1931. The annual dividend requirements on the preferred stock amount to $4,109,973 under the old $7 rate.

Republic Reports Loss.

RESERVE BANK EXPORTS $750,000 GOLD TO BERLIN

New York, April 26.—Today's gold statement of the New York Federal Reserve bank showed no imports, an export of $750,000 to Germany and a net decrease of $20,000 in the stock of gold held under earmark for foreign account.

Sterling was again reactionary today in an irregular foreign exchange market. Heaviness was associated with the discussions in the house of commons of equalization plans and considerable conjecture was heard as to what support level was likely. Cables dipped to $3.64, closing at $3.64¾, off 2½ cents.

Hogs rallied rather feebly yesterday despite the better action in choice grades. Soon after the start buyers realized that offerings of top grades were below requirements. The ensuing competition elevated prices for best grades 5@10c above the average market Monday, although neither the extreme top nor the general average scored any gain due partly to the poorer quality of offerings.

The peak at $4.00 was more popular, however, and a bigger share of receipts reached that figure during the day. The average remained at $3.70. The range of hog prices has reached the widest point of the year, and the gap between unfinished stock, which is a drug on the market, and choice kinds is widening rapidly. Yesterday's range from rough "packers" to top sorted light hogs showed $1.50 spread, which compares with $1.20 a month ago and with 75c the middle of last December. No changes were made in the futures trade yesterday.

Best Grades Higher.

Yesterday's cattle trade was a long dragged out affair that wound up weak to 25c lower on all but the very best grades of medium and weighty stock. The run at 7,000 was slightly larger than a week ago, but figuring tonnage the beef supply was probably under normal for Tuesday because of the larger proportion of unfinished light steers and yearlings dumped on the market. Large numbers of 800@1,000 lb steers not in finished condition but carrying a good layer of fleh went over the scales at $5.50@6.00. Only a small share of those eligible to more than $6.00 weighed less than 1,000 lbs although some choice 750 lb mixed yearling steers and heifers reached $6.85. Cattle above $7.50 exceeded 1,200 lbs.

The peak at $5.25 was paid for outstanding 1,267 lb steers. One steer sold at $5.50. Butcher stock shifted to the weak side of the market again yesterday. Some closing sales showed 15@25c loss, particularly in medium grades of heifers which were more abundant. Calves were fully steady.

Elder Sheep a Drug.

Aged sheep are fast becoming a drug on the market. Only a few small lots are showing up on the market here, but the movement of Texas stock to eastern distributing centers and to local slaughtering houses has clogged the outlet. Only choice light weight wool ewes are eligible to $2.00@2.50. Heavy stock sold close to the lowest prices on record, yesterday's range for 150@200 lb averages being $1.00@1.50.

Aged wool lambs ruled steady to 15c lower, selling largely at $6.00@6.50, with a few at $6.60@6.75, the outside figure getting the mates to the lambs that sold Monday at $6.90. Demand for the new crop of native spring lambs for the Greek Easter is disappointing. Only a scattering were offered and prices ranged from $5.50 to $8.50.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 9,000 cattle, 12,000 hogs and 13,000 sheep, against 7,110 cattle, 12,753 hogs and 11,556 sheep, the previous Wednesday and 11,630 cattle, 22,182 hogs and 14,218 sheep a year ago.

CHANGING MARKET IN LARD

There was more general trade in lard futures, with scattered liquidations, especially in May with changing mostly from May to October. There appeared to be a general interest in the market, but the price range was small and the finish was unchanged for all deliveries except October, which gained 2½c. May bellies were 5c lower and September were off 7½c with more interest taken in changing operations. Liverpool lard was 6d higher and export clearances 575,675 lbs. Hogs were higher with receipts at western points smaller than a week ago. Prices follow:

LESS—for LOANS

$2.93 is the average Monthly Cost on a $225 loan under COMMONWEALTH'S Reduced Rate. This allows 25 months for repayment. There is no lower cost than this in Chicago.

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signatures of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

NO FEES. You get full amount of the loan and up to 25 months to repay. Interest at the Reduced Rate is charged only while you keep the money.

Also Salary and Auto Loans.
